Bond issue legal?

Alexian requested to change charter

by JILL BETTNER

Elk Grove Village officials have requested changes in the charter of Alexian Brothers Medical Center to ensure the proposed $23 million municipal bond sale for the hospital does not violate constitutional requirements for the separation of church and state.

Questions have been raised by the American Civil Liberties Union and others about the legality of issuing village bonds for a religious institution. The medical center is operated by Alexian Brothers of America, a Catholic order.

Village Atty. Edward Hofert said under the home rule provisions of the 1970 Illinois constitution, the village can sell the bonds without referendum because the hospital is a not-for-profit institution. However, there must be a clear distinction in the hospital's charter between its religious and medical services, he said.

HOFERT SAID while he has not seen the medical center's charter, he anticipated that the constitutional question might come up.

Hofert said he asked hospital officials to make necessary changes in the bylaws after the bond sale was approved by the Elk Grove Village board last week.

"I have been told that all changes will be made to satisfy cases and precedents in the law," Hofert said, referring to similar instances when the Illinois Health Facilities Authority has issued state bonds for religious institutions.

Hofert said the village must operate under the same guidelines as the authority in issuing the bonds for Alexian Brothers.

"We have the power to act, but we cannot act in such a way as to violate the state or federal constitution or in a manner that would violate the civil rights of any person," Hofert said. "We have requested the changes in the charter because if our name is being lent to anything in any way, shape or form, we want to be sure all persons have equal rights to the facilities."

PAUL HAMLIN, director of the Illinois division of the ACLU, said he has "serious reservations about the legality of a municipality turning over $23 million to a private hospital." Hamlin said the ACLU is looking into the bond sale, but has not determined a course of action.

The ACLU's main concern, Hamlin said, is that public bonds will be used to finance a medical center that does not perform abortions for religious reasons.

"It's an incredible plan," Hamlin said. "The public cannot support facilities that don't even conform to Supreme Court guidelines."

THE VILLAGE has not agreed to give the medical center public tax monies, but rather to allow the hospital to use its municipal bonding authority to refinance an old debt and complete an expansion program. The bonds will be paid off with operating revenues of the hospital.

A spokesman for the medical center said the hospital does not perform abortions because of a policy set by the Catholic Hospitals Assn.

Other hospitals in the Northwest suburbs, including Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, do not perform nontherapeutic abortions. Northwest Community received assistance from the Village of Arlington Heights on a bond sale last year. The hospital is not affiliated with any religious organization.

Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, is the only hospital in the area that performs nontherapeutic abortions allowed only in the first trimester of pregnancy.

Federal rent subsidies for elderly in jeopardy

by JERRY THOMAS

The availability of federal rent subsidies for low-income elderly appears seriously threatened in the 300-unit senior citizens' housing development in Elk Grove Village.

The Illinois Housing Development Authority told The Herald Wednesday only 20 efficiency apartments are assured a double rent subsidy instead of an expected 80.

Final plans for the project, at Wellington Avenue and Arlington Heights Road, were approved last fall after more than a year's negotiations between village, governmental agencies and the developer, M. Meyers and Associates.

NEARLY ONE-THIRD of the project — 80 units — was to be available to low-income persons older than 60 at monthly rents ranging from $60 to $114.

Pam Gecan, marketing officer with the state housing authority, said Wednesday the authority believed it had "a contract reservation" with the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development, for double rent subsidies for 80 apartments, but discovered recently HUD had cut the request to 20.

"We are attempting to convince HUD that 80 units, if not more, are needed in Elk Grove," she said.

HUD provided $45 million in low-interest mortgage to build the project. Mias Gecan said the potential loss of the 60 units concerns the state housing authority.

SHE SAID 200 of the 300 units received a federal subsidy in addition to the mortgage subsidy. "We had applied to HUD for the double subsidy (Continued on Page 6)

Latest U.S. economy word — recession's grip weaker

by United Press International

The government Wednesday said a major economic indicator rose substantially in April, providing more evidence that recovery from the recession is near. But prices rose higher last month and take-home pay declined.

Economists were cheered, however, by a surprising increase of 9.8 per cent in durable goods orders. It was the sharpest increase since a 10.2 per cent surge in December, 1967.

Orders for durable goods — products made to last a relatively long period of time — are closely watched by economists for trends in industrial production.

"When it rises on the order of the magnitude it apparently did in April, it is a virtual certainty that recovery is just around the corner," said Irwin Kellner of Manufacturers Hanover Trust.

James L. Pate, the Commerce Department's chief economist, said the sharp increase "supports the conclusion that the industrial sector of the economy is poised for recovery."

Commerce said the increase in durable goods orders to $38.98 billion in April from $35.49 billion in March was widespread throughout the economy.

An increase in orders of durable goods, which declined in six of the past seven months, was necessary before industry would increase production scheduled and employment.

Earlier Wednesday, the Labor Department reported that consumer prices rose 0.6 per cent in April, the largest increase since January but still substantially lower than the double-digit annual inflation rate of a year ago.

The increase in inflation was due primarily to a 0.4 per cent rise in grocery prices after a two-month decline. Food prices are 8 per cent higher than they were in April, 1974.

Nonfood prices, the department said, rose 0.8 per cent in April to a level 11 per cent above a year ago.

The report listed these rises in retail prices over the past 12 months: cereal and bakery products, 17 per

U.S. MARINE DIVERS searched Beck Lake near Des Plaines for the body of a 24-year-old Marine that has been missing in the water since Monday. The search was called off Wednesday after recovery efforts proved fruitless. The missing Marine is William Kottke of Washington, who reportedly fell out of a canoe in which he was riding with several friends. He apparently was unable to swim. A Coast Guard helicopter also was used in Wednesday's search, which was called off because of bad weather.

Water's magnetic death grip

Why do we drown?

by STEVE FORSYTH

Drowning is a terrifying way to die, but local officials feel almost powerless to stop the deaths that occur in their communities every year.

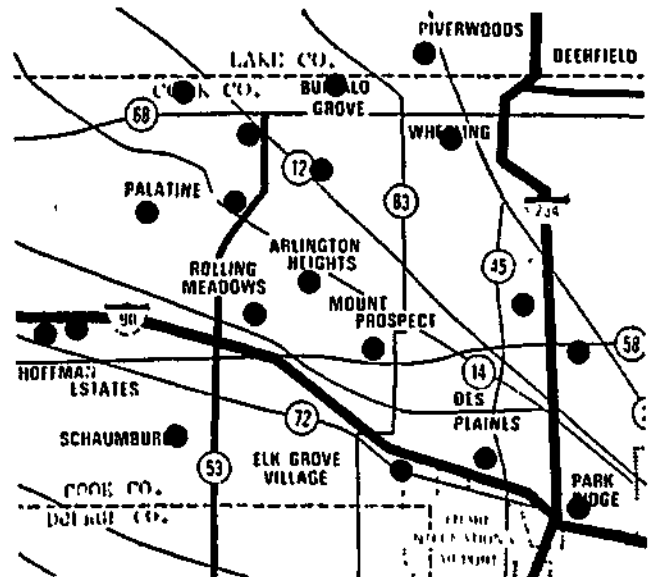

Water has a certain magnetism for persons of all ages — particularly children and teenagers — and local ponds, lakes and ditches continue to take their toll on suburban residents. Police say they would have to use 24-hour patrols to keep people out of dangerous bodies of water.

Although some drowning victims found in the Northwest suburbs in the past three years were swimming at the time of their accidents, most were on rafts or boats or had slipped off the banks. Lt. Don Reynolds of the Mount Prospect Fire Dept. says statistics show that most people who drown do not intend to be in the water.

At least 27 persons have drowned in the Northwest suburban area since 1972 under a wide range of circumstances. Two men have drowned in swimming pools and a baby drowned in a bathtub, but the rest have died in the area's open rivers, ditches, lakes and retention ponds.

SEVEN PERSONS have died in the past two weeks in this area. Some victims could swim, but were unable to save themselves. Allen Hyman, volunteer water safety chairman for the north re-

DOTS ON THE MAP show 19 sites in the Northwest suburbs where drownings and near-drownings have occurred in the last three years. Seven persons have drowned in the last two weeks, including one Palatine Township man who died in a Lake Michigan boating accident.

Here are the 'danger' spots...

There are dozens of ponds in the area that police officials say are hazardous although many already are fenced with signs warning of the danger. Many of them were constructed by developers to help prevent flooding. Park districts have taken over jurisdiction of some and others are privately owned. The majority of these areas are unsafe. (Continued on Page 2)

Divers recover body of latest victim, 10

Scuba divers Wednesday morning recovered the body of Jeffrey Super, 10, who fell from a homemade raft into Willow Bend Pond, Algonquin Road and Barker Avenue, Rolling Meadows.

Jeffrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lou Super, 4000 Eagle Ln., Rolling Meadows, apparently slipped into the water from a homemade raft he had been riding Tuesday night with a 9-year-old neighbor girl. The children were about 30 feet from shore in water estimated at 20 feet deep, when Jeffrey slipped, police said. His companion and another girl who had been watching from shore ran to a nearby home to call police at about 8 p.m.

A search began Tuesday night but fire department divers were unable to locate the body, and the search was abandoned late Tuesday.

Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty said divers returned to the pond before 9 a.m. Wednesday and located the body in water about 10 feet deep. Aiding in the search were 11 divers from the Mutual Aid Box Alarm System, three from Rolling Meadows and others from Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Buffalo Grove, Schaumburg and Glenview Rural departments.

gion, American Red Cross Chicago chapter, explains some of the problems.

"One of the big problems is that in a state of panic, they lose the ability to reason out what they should be doing," Hyman said. "They expend a lot of nervous energy."

Hyman's experience handling the beaches and launching ramps for the Evanston Recreation Dept. has taught him that people also are unaccustomed to handling themselves in the water while dressed.

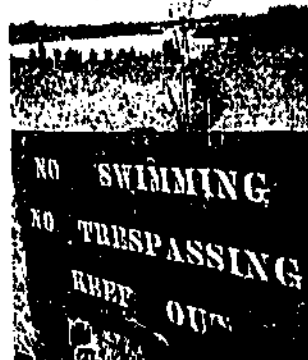

"Very few people have the experience of swimming with clothes on," he says, and he has found people who drowned trying to take off their pants without removing their shoes.

Hyman recommends getting rid of the shoes first. He said that with some training a swimmer can make a float out of a pair of slacks by tying the legs and inflating them.

COLD WATER also is a factor in drownings, he said.

"The effects of cold water can be traumatic, and you have no control once you're in it," he said. "The best thing to do is remain calm if possible."

Hyman said drowning victims often find it difficult to get themselves horizontal in the water, and they can't make any progress in a vertical position. Fear tends to make a person lift his head instead of trying to float on the surface of the water, he said.

Victims frequently are people familiar with a lake or body of water, Hyman says, because they become overconfident that they know the area and how to handle it.

Bystanders unfamiliar with water safety often watch helplessly, but they can save lives, Hyman said. Anything that floats should be pushed out to the victim, and a spare tire from a car can support up to five people, he said.

A SECONDARY tragedy of drownings is that they reoccur in the same places or in the same manner as previous accidents. A 10-year-old Rolling Meadows boy who fell off a raft in a retention basin Tuesday died the same way as an 8-year-old boy in a Hoffman Estates lake a year ago.

Dam No. 4 in Rosemont has taken many victims. In March 1973, an 18-year-old Chicago youth drowned after his canoe capsized near the dam. This month, Ronald Egan, 14, of Park Ridge, died in the same place when he fell out of his canoe. His death occurred just a short time after two teenagers slipped while walking across the dam, fell into the swirling water and drowned.

Beck Lake in a forest preserve north of Des Plaines claimed three persons in four years. Two reportedly were swimming, and a Glenview-based Marine, William Kotke, became the third victim when he fell out of a canoe Monday. Another man drowned in Lake Opeka in Des Plaines in 1973 when he waded into the water and was unable to get out.

A GRAVEL QUARRY in Vernon Township north of Wheeling has claimed four lives, two of them Wheeling youths, since 1973. The private quarry has been a popular but dangerous swimming and fishing site for youths.

Another quarry near Meacham and Schaumburg roads was the scene of a drowning in 1973 when a 7-year-old slipped into the water on a family outing.

Two young girls, one 3 and one less than 2, drowned within two years in Salt Creek in Palatine Township. Officials reported that both girls probably fell into the creek accidentally and were unable to climb out.

Douglas Lindberg, 16, of Palatine, died in Lake Louise in 1972 as he tried to save two children who were drifting on a raft.

ONLY ONE DEATH was reported in the winter months, when a 16-year-old boy fell into a frozen pond while he was trying to walk across the ice. A Wheeling boy broke a leg falling through ice on Buffalo Creek, and another youth saved a 10-year-old boy who fell through the ice while skating on North Twin Lake in Hoffman Estates.

Alexian bonds legal? Ask charter change

Changes in the charter of Alexian Brothers Medical Center have been requested by Elk Grove Village to ensure that a proposed municipal bond sale for the hospital does not violate the concept of separation of church and state. The American Civil Liberties Union has raised the question of legality of the village's issuing $23 million in bonds for a religious institution. The hospital, operated by Alexian Brothers of America, an order of the Catholic Church, will be allowed to use the village's bonding authority to complete its expansion program and pay off an old debt. Paul Hamlin, director of the Illinois division of the ACLU, said the main concern is that public bonds will be used to finance a hospital that does not perform abortions because of religious reasons.

'No pressure by Guttilla'

A spokesman for the State's Attorney's office said Wednesday Wheeling Police Chief Peter P. Guttilla "in no way" tried to "pressure or use his influence" on behalf of his secretary's son-in-law at a recent Niles traffic court hearing. David Cupriss, director of public information, acknowledged Guttilla's appearance at the hearing May 7 was "unusual." The case against Luis Arellano, 1530 Park Pl., Des Plaines, the son-in-law of Guttilla's secretary, has been continued to June 4.

Have you seen this dog?

Sheriff's police are searching for a dog that bit a pregnant woman Friday at the Bay Colony development, near Potter and Golf roads, east of Des Plaines. Being sought is a brown, long-haired dog similar to a miniature poodle. The dog has a white patch on its chest and neck. If the dog is not found by Friday, police said the woman will have to undergo a series of rabies shots. Persons with any information about the dog should call Sheriff's police at 458-1000.

Guilty of embezzlement

A former Rolling Meadows man charged with embezzling $380,000 from his employer pleaded guilty Wednesday in Criminal Court and was sentenced to 3 to 10 years in prison. Paul Peter Oswald, 43, now a resident of Clarendon Hills, was charged with embezzling the money from Cook Electric Co., Morton Grove. As an accountant for the company, he wrote out the firm's tax return payment checks to himself rather than to the Internal Revenue Service.

Terrorists in Iran kill 2 U.S. advisers

TEHRAN (UPI) — A terrorist execution squad shot to death two U.S. Air Force advisers to the Iranian armed forces Wednesday in a "pre-meditated" precision assassination on a Tehran street. An underground Marxist group claimed responsibility for the daylight ambush.

The officers, attached to the 1,000-man U.S. Advisory Mission in Tehran, were identified by the American Embassy as Col. Paul R. Shaffer, 45, of Dayton, Ohio, and Lt. Col. Jack H. Turner, 45, of Carbondale, Ill.

Both officers were married. Shaffer had two children and Turner had three. The U.S. Embassy said their bodies would be flown home Thursday.

"There is no doubt it was a pre-meditated assassination by professional murderers," an official at the U.S. Embassy said.

The U.S. State Department condemned the murders as a "terrorist act of calculated brutality against American personnel assigned to duties in a country with which we enjoy close and friendly relations."

An embassy statement said the gunmen, riding in two automobiles, waylaid Shaffer and Turner as they started off for work in their chauffeured car.

The assailants ordered the Iranian driver to hit the car floor, pumped small arms fire into the two officers, and sped away in a third vehicle, the statement said.

An anonymous telephone caller to Iranian news agencies shortly after the slaying said:

"This is the organization of the Crusaders of the Iranian Nation. Today two U.S. officers were executed in retaliation for the murder in the prison of Iran of nine of our members." This was a reference to nine "Crusaders" executed last year for murder, terrorism, arson and conspiracy to topple the monarchy.

The telephone caller said, "Further retaliatory steps will continue to be taken."

There are 18,000 Americans living in Iran, a nation of 30 million, and two other U.S. officers have been assassination targets in the past three years.

As police and security agents mounted a "vigorous" search for the killers, the government vowed "no action will be spared to find the murderers and bring them to justice."

IN ANOTHER terrorist action, three American students — two girls and a boy — and a Dutch woman were kidnapped at gunpoint from a wildlife research station in Dar Es Salaam, Tanzania by 40 armed and uniformed Africans who said they were from the neighboring republic of Zaïre.

U.S. Embassy sources said Wednesday the raid took place Monday night.

The invaders, armed with machine guns, rifles and pistols, fought with staff members at the research station near Kigoma in Northwestern Tanzania. There was no report of any casualties.

Officials of Stanford University in Palo Alto, Calif., identified the kidnapped Americans as Barbara B. Smith, 24, of Ann Arbor, Mich., Carrie Jane Hunter, 21, of Atherton, Calif., and Kenneth S. Smith, 22, of Garden Grove, Calif. They said the Dutch woman, Emilie Bergman, was an administrative assistant at the station.

cent; restaurant meals, 11 per cent; alcoholic beverages, 10 per cent; fuel oil and coal, 11 per cent; new cars, 13 per cent; used cars, 29 per cent; rent, 16 per cent, and medical care, 15 per cent.

Beef prices increased for the first time in seven months. Eggs, used cars, furniture, houses, gasoline, magazines, auto insurance and natural gas all went up faster than usual for the time of year.

Sugar prices, which had become highly inflated, declined nearly 16 per cent in April for an overall drop of 33 per cent so far this year.

Significant decreases were registered for fresh vegetables. Cereal and bakery products fell for the first time in two years.

Pork was off but less than usual for April. Fresh fruit prices jumped, but this is normal in spring. Increases for nonalcoholic beverages and other non-processed food items were smaller than in recent months.

New car prices, which traditionally drop this time of year, rose slightly in April.

Transportation services went up 0.8 per cent, paced by hikes in auto insurance premiums, parking fees, auto repairs and taxi fares.

Medical care rose 0.7 per cent in April as both doctors and hospitals boosted their fees.

The Labor Department also said take-home pay of the typical American worker declined 0.1 per cent last month to a level 4.1 per cent below the same period a year ago. This means wage increases are lagging behind increases in prices and taxes by more than 4 per cent.

In a separate report, the department said initial claims for regular state unemployment benefits rose 12,300 to 433,200 during the week ending May 10. But the number of persons on seven separate jobless programs declined 29,500 to 6,257,100.

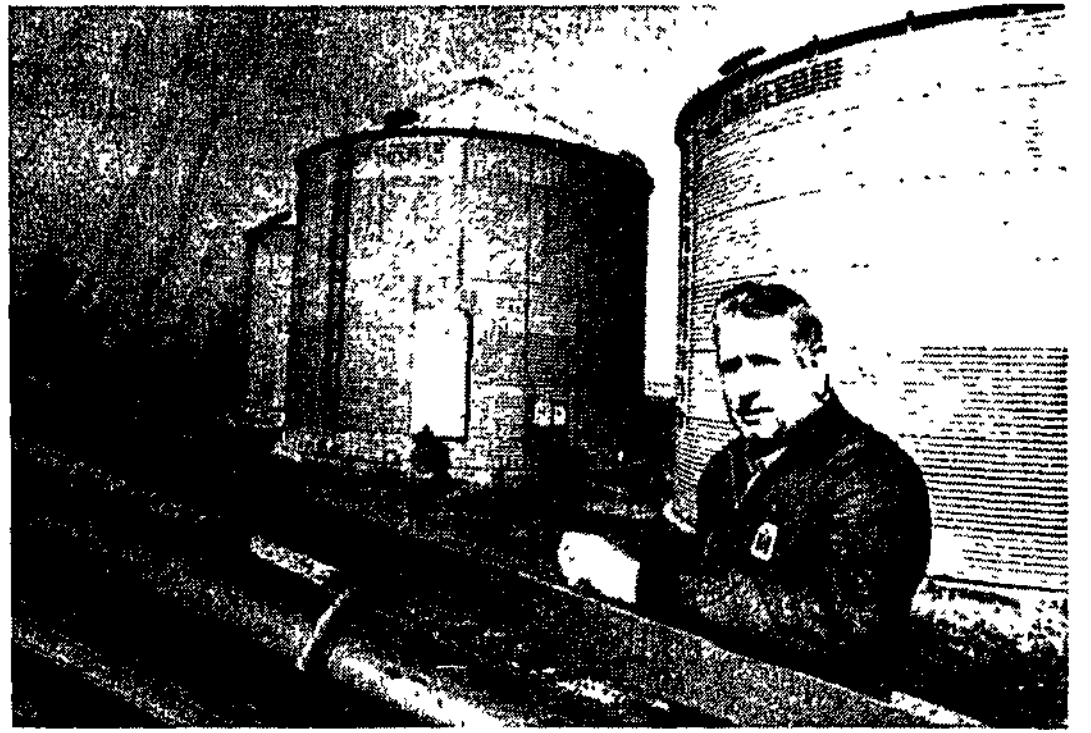

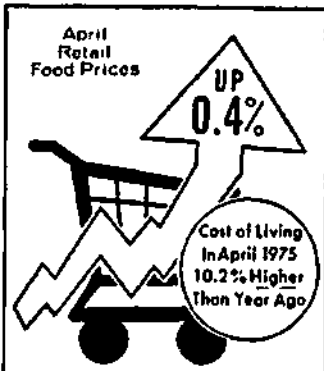

In other economic developments:

• Senior Democrats on the House and Senate Banking Committees modified a bill designed to restore life to a homebuilding industry suffering 40 per cent unemployment. The measure was changed to retain only temporary "emergency" provisions designed to spur creation of 400,000 houses and 800,000 jobs; make $2 billion available for construction of rental units; offer loans to jobless homeowners facing foreclosure, and extend a program which offers 3 per cent loans to homeowners to rehabilitate existing houses.

• The House voted to continue the present maximum 65 weeks of unemployment insurance benefits through the middle of 1976. In addition, a special program paying up to 26 weeks of unemployment benefits to those not covered by the regular unemployment insurance program would be extended and increased to 39 weeks.

The legislation was approved 381-9. The House bill, which now goes to the Senate, would extend the maximum 65 weeks of benefits through June 30, 1976, the maximum then would drop to 52 weeks through the end of the year.

ACROSS THE Midwest, farmers have begun their annual ritual of combing the earth into black rows and fertilizing and sowing the seeds for fall's harvest. In southern Illinois, Wayne Barnett of Brighton is leading farmers in a protest against higher costs and lower profits. He is urging farmers to reduce production in an effort to force a rise in the price of farm products.

Laos leftists seize U.S. compound

VIENTIANE (UPI) — A mob of about 200 Laotian leftists demanding the ouster of all Americans with the U.S. Agency for International Development seized the AID compound in Vientiane Wednesday, trapping an American civilian and two Marines who had orders to "hold the fort."

The early morning seizure of the compound was the latest in a series of anti-American outbursts in Laos, which is all but under complete Communist control since the flight into exile of rightist generals and cabinet ministers in the wake of the fall of Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Twelve Americans were still under house arrest by leftist students in Savanahet, the former right-wing stronghold in Central Laos which was taken over by the Communist Pathet Lao Tuesday. U.S. Embassy officials said they had lost radiotelephone contact with the six U.S. AID officials and their wives, although they believed they were safe.

In Vientiane U.S. charge d'affaires Christian Chapman met with Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma and Foreign Minister Phoumi Vongvichit, the ranking Communist official in the coalition government, to protest the seizure of the U.S. compound.

Both Souvanna and Phoumi assured Chapman the situation would be resolved, a U.S. official said. However, the students still held the compound at nightfall.

Marine Sgts. Don Wilburn and Roger Murphy and William Darden, a civilian communications specialist, were trapped inside when the leftists, most of them students, seized the compound.

The marines locked themselves in their buildings and refused to let the demonstrators in.

"They have orders to hold the fort," said a U.S. official, who added that although they were experiencing some harassment, such as doorbells being jammed and students brandishing fake bombs, they were unharmed.

U.S. officials said the three men had sufficient food and water to hold out for some time.

One student told newsmen through the barbed wire-tipped cyclone fence surrounding the sprawling compound they had no intention of harming the three Americans and would let them go, "if they surrender."

In seizing the compound, the students issued a communique listing 15 demands which included an immediate halt to USAID operations, a government takeover of all USAID property and the departure of all USAID personnel.

Amendment would end electoral college

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A constitutional amendment providing for the direct popular elections of presidents and vice presidents was approved Wednesday by a Senate Judiciary subcommittee.

The Amendment, co-sponsored by 48 senators, was unanimously sent to the full Judiciary Committee for action.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., who introduced the legislation, said "the people of the United States will not put up with the electoral roulette of the present system."

"They want reform. They want direct popular election of the President. Now is the time to reform."

Before the constitutional amendment could take effect, it would have to be approved by two-thirds of the Senate and House and ratified by three-fourths of the states.

Under the present system of totaling state electoral votes, a candidate can win even though he gets fewer popular votes than the opposition. The Constitution also does not legally bind members of the electoral college from supporting candidates elected by their states.

Under the proposed amendment, however, the presidential candidate with the most popular votes would be elected, unless he failed to get 40 per cent of the national total.

In that event, Congress would convene 34 days after the election and immediately choose between the first two finishers. Each member of the Congress would have one vote.

Only once in history has the winning presidential candidate failed to get 40 per cent of the popular vote. In the 1860 election, Abraham Lincoln received 39.76 per cent, but he was not listed on the ballot in 10 states.

Previous attempts to abolish the electoral college and shift to direct popular elections have been blocked.

Allende-CIA death link called 'an elaborate bit of fiction'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Reports that the CIA was responsible for the 1973 overthrow and death of Chilean President Salvador Allende are "an elaborate bit of fiction," the agency's retired Latin American operations chief, David A. Phillips, told Allende's widow in a letter.

Mrs. Hortensia Bussi de Allende originally appeared to agree with reports from the junta that her husband committed suicide when his Marxist government was overthrown by the Armed Forces and National Police in Santiago.

But later she charged the Central Intelligence Agency and International Telephone & Telegraph Co. was responsible for his overthrow.

"You have been led to believe evidence exists which makes the CIA accountable for the circumstances which brought your husband to his untimely end," Phillips wrote.

"Because I supervised that component of CIA concerned with Chile and its neighbors... the claim, I assure you, is untrue and the evidence tainted."

Phillips said he believed former Chilean Ambassador to Mexico Hugo Vigorena "was the vehicle... of this fraud."

Ford to name Moynihan for U.N.

President Ford announced Wednesday he would nominate Daniel P. Moynihan, former ambassador to India, to be ambassador to the United Nations. Moynihan would succeed John A. Sealt. The colorful and controversial diplomat is currently a professor at Harvard University where he has taught intermittently between several high ranking government positions. The White House statement did not suggest any future plans for Sealt, who has represented the United States at the United Nations since Feb. 2, 1973. Elsewhere in Washington, the Senate Interior Committee voted to recommend confirmation of former Wyoming Gov. Stanley K. Hathaway as interior secretary.

Municipal Court Judge Brian D. Crahan ruled in Los Angeles this week that Linda Eastman McCartney, wife of former Beatle Paul McCartney, can go to a psychiatrist in London instead of jail in Los Angeles for possession of marijuana. She must visit the psychiatrist at least six times.

Philadelphia Mayor Frank L. Rizzo easily smashed the city's Democratic machine in Tuesday's primary election and observers believe he will move to field delegates in the party's national convention next year. Rizzo defeated Sen. Louis Hill by 32,000 votes.

The University of Illinois trustees Wednesday approved the appointment of Joseph A. Diana Jr. of New York as vice chancellor for administrative affairs at the U. of I. Diana, replacing John Briscoe, will begin work at U. of I. July 1.

DeJean Replogle, the 17-year-old girl who lost her right leg in an Arab terrorist attack near Jerusalem last December, has received a birthday present from Israel's first lady, Mrs. Efraim Katsir. The gift, a book of poems and drawings by Israeli children entitled "My Shalom Means Peace," was inscribed "To DeJean, with love, Nina Katsir."

James Mullis, a boatwain aboard the seized merchant vessel Mayaguez, said Wednesday the rescue by U. S. forces was about as frightening as the initial boarding by the Cambodian Communists. "Everybody really got scared when they (American planes) dropped that gas on us," Mullis said. "It was some kind of nauseating gas but we didn't know what kind."

French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing said Wednesday he will confer with President Ford in Brussels next week while the U.S. leader attends the Atlantic nations summit there.

Refugee resettlement aid bill to Ford

The House and Senate gave final congressional approval Wednesday to legislation authorizing $455 million for resettlement of South Vietnam and Cambodian refugees. Both actions were taken on voice vote, and the measure was sent to President Ford for his signature.

FDA recalls pacemakers, equipment

Citing the need for tighter federal control over manufacturers, the Food and Drug Administration said Wednesday another 300 electronic heart pacemakers and related equipment are being recalled. While the art of pacemaker technology is better than ever, FDA Commissioner Alexander M. Schmidt said, there is still a need for tighter laws to clear medical devices before they reach the consuming public.

Involved in the recall are 54 lead cables manufactured by Pace-setter Systems Inc., Sylmar, Calif., and 300 pacemakers manufactured by Vitatron Medical Co., Dieren, Holland.

Ford to announce candidacy within 30 days

President Ford Wednesday told Republicans leaders he will announce his candidacy for a full presidential term within one month. Ford met with state and county GOP chairmen from major urban areas at the White House and told them he was confident he could win the nomination next year, then be elected to a full term.

Delay attempt to override strip mine veto

House Democrats postponed Wednesday an attempt to override President Ford's veto of strip mining legislation, alleging "wild charges" by the administration would have made the move futile. In a close vote, the House postponed action on the override until June 10 to give environmentalists time to muster the necessary two-thirds majority required to overturn a veto.

Fuse failure saves S.C. courthouse

A 95-stick dynamite bomb with its fuse burned to within a few inches of the payload was found Wednesday in the basement of the Orangeburg County (S.C.) Courthouse, a three story structure which teems with about 100 office workers during business hours. Sheriff Vance L. Boone said the 95-sticks was "enough to level the Courthouse and anything near it." A church kindergarten is situated next door.

Kissinger seeks to settle Greek-Turk feud

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger opened a new American drive to settle the Greek-Turkish conflict over Cyprus Wednesday and a senior U.S. official traveling with the secretary said a solution appears to be in the making. Kissinger arrived from Berlin to attend a meeting of the Central Treaty Organization in the public eye and, in private sessions, push for a solution to Cyprus and heal the Turkish-American rift the dispute has caused.

Saigon receives Soviet gasoline

Three Soviet tankers loaded with much needed gasoline have docked at Saigon — the first foreign flag ships to arrive in the city since the Communist Viet Cong takeover of April 30. Government authorities said the tanker Amyppok with 4,000 tons of gasoline arrived at the Esso storage facility last Saturday, the day Saigon's port officially reopened, and two other ships arrived early this week.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dad persists in boozing

Since we are living in a world of drugs and alcohol why don't we see a few movies on TV on what drugs and alcohol do to the vital organs in our bodies. My father is only 45 years old and has a very good job. He works every day and gives his boss a good eight hours.

He supports mom and us all very well. Yet he drinks almost a fifth of booze every night. On weekends he drinks more. He goes to work in the morning feeling fine and is never late.

We are afraid in time this will kill him, but he won't listen to us. We love him dearly, and he is good to mom and us kids. If he could see how the liver and other organs suffer from that booze, maybe — maybe — he would quit. Please help us kids make him understand.

At least knowing that you cared enough to write to me about it may cause him to think twice about his habit and its effects on his children who love him so much.

Your idea of a few good TV movies to show the changes from alcohol is a good one, and I hope some network will see this and follow up on the idea.

While most people think about the damage alcohol does to the liver, its effects on the body are far more widespread.

The biggest tragedy is the effect of alcohol on the brain. Your father may be surprised to learn that long term consumption of alcohol causes brain damage. Those of us who have examined the brains of people who drank heavily for years are all too familiar with the shrunken appearance of the brain from alcohol. It affects the cortex, the area you use for thinking.

NO WONDER, then, that many regular drinkers lose their ability to keep on learning. In time this does affect such an individual's capacity to perform on the job, if his work requires any significant amount of intellectual effort. The brain literally becomes senile before its time.

There also are problems of "rum fits," convulsions and a host of changes indicative of the damage the alcohol habit imposes on the brain.

Alcohol affects the stomach and may lead to chronic gastritis as well as causing other damage of the digestive system. It can also damage the heart muscle.

I hope your father quits, but anyone who has been drinking that much for any length of time needs to taper off. A sudden withdrawal may actually precipitate delirium tremens, a dangerous complication. Most people have trouble doing this on their own and usually need professional help.

I have visited your town and know it is not large. You might check the yellow pages of your phone book under alcohol and see if there are any organizations there to help people with alcohol problems. Your father could use one of these. If he won't consult a doctor or go to one of these organizations, then your mother should go to one and see what can be done to encourage him to do something for himself and "us kids."

Niles Sheriff's unit cuts hours July 1

Administrative offices of the Niles branch of the Sheriff's police will move to Maywood by July 1.

The Niles and Homewood offices will remain open, but will have reduced hours. Desk operations will be limited to 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Niles facility, 7166 N. Milwaukee Ave. The Niles branch serves the North and Northwest suburbs.

Sheriff Richard Elrod said the centralization will result in more patrolmen on the street.

Elrod said limiting the desk hours will free three additional officers per shift for patrol duties. Full police functions will be handled from the new headquarters at 1401 S. Maybrook Dr., Maywood, just north of the Eisenhower Expressway at First Avenue.

No mail delivery Monday

No mail will be delivered Monday, the federal observance of Memorial Day.

In some areas limited window service and special delivery will be available, U.S. Postal Service officials said. Mail will be collected in most residential areas. Normal weekend mail service will be provided Saturday and Sunday.

Services for war dead

War veterans will be honored in memorial services Friday and Sunday in cemeteries in the Northwest suburbs.

Masses will be offered at 10 a.m. at All Saints Cemetery, 700 N. River Rd., Des Plaines; and St. Michael the Archangel Cemetery, Algonquin and Roselle roads, Palatine.

The Jewish War Veterans will conduct annual Memorial services Sunday at 11 a.m. at Shalom Memorial Park, Wilke and Rand roads, Palatine. Guest speaker will be former Commander Theodore R. Pickard, a Chicago attorney. Rabbi M. Goodman of Congregation Anshe Motele will lead the prayer service.

Harper news show finale

The final broadcast of the school year of "This Is Harper College on the Air," will be heard Sunday at 10:15 a.m. on WWMN-FM and 11:45 a.m. on WMMN-FM.

The monthly 15-minute newscast is written and produced by students in the Harper Journalism program. Producer of the newscast this month is James E. Sincell of Mount Prospect. Other staff members are Susan McKenney of Crystal Lake, news editor; Pamela Christian of Elk Grove Village, feature editor; and Louis Altshul of Wheeling, sports editor.

Newscasters are Altshul, Natalie Weber of Roselle, and Joseph Dugo of Elk Grove Village.

Rare books broadcast topic

Rare books is the topic for discussion on this week's "Focus: Northwest" radio show, sponsored by Harper College.

The program is scheduled Sunday at 8 a.m. and 9 p.m. on WWMN, 92.7 FM.

Ambrose Easterly, director of processing at the Learning Resources Center at Harper, is host and moderator. Guests include Van Allen Bradley, author and rare book and autograph dealer; John White, chairman, communications division at Harper, and Michael Madden, director, Schaumburg Township Public Library.

House wrestles with 700 bills as deadline nears

by BOB LAHEY

SPRINGFIELD — Hundreds of legislative proposals appeared doomed in the Illinois House of Representatives as legislators labored futilely to wade through a mountain of bills before Friday's deadline.

At the start of business Wednesday, nearly 700 measures remained to be acted upon before midnight Friday, when all those remaining will be killed.

Some legislators estimated that at least two more weeks would be needed to provide hearings on all the bills remaining on the House calendar.

Extending the Friday deadline, however, would require concurrence by a two-thirds vote in the House, since it is a matter of joint House-Senate rules. The Senate has no inclination to amend the rules.

AS MEMBERS of the House saw their pet bills heading for oblivion, tempers flared in petty debates during sessions that extended until nearly midnight each night this week.

The House came within two votes late Tuesday night of wholesale passage of nearly 800 bills without debate. This was an angry reaction to favored treatment given one bill sponsored by Majority Leader Gerald Shea, D-Chicago.

A motion by Rep. Harry Yourell, D-Oak Lawn, to consider all pending bills on a single roll call received 87 of the 89 votes needed for passage. The move surely would have resulted in the scuttling of all the bills in the Senate.

YOU'RELL AND others were angered by Shea's maneuver to advance a bill for aid to the unemployed over all other bills on the calendar.

The House spent about three hours in debate on Shea's motion to suspend the rules so this bill could be considered first.

After the motion finally passed, the bill was easily approved. It would appropriate $10 million to provide interest-free loans of up to $150 to jobless persons whose unemployment-compensation checks had been delayed by the state.

House rules adopted in this session say bills must be considered in numerical sequence. In the debate over suspension of that rule, Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park, angrily declared, "This is the first admission by the leadership that our bills are not going to be heard in this session."

Win at bridge
by Oswald and James Jacoby

Good play beats politeness

South had been taught to say "Thank you, partner" irrespective of what cards his partner put down as dummy. This time the dummy was well worth that polite, but unnecessary, remark.

When the hand was over and South had been set, North remarked, "It is a shame they taught you politeness instead of bridge."

South's play had been short and unsuccessful. He won the club in dummy and led a trump. West took his ace and led a second club. East was unkind enough to ruff and that was all there was.

Just a little thought before playing to trick two might well have warned South of his danger. A little more thought would have shown him how to guard against a club ruff.

It wouldn't have to be much thought at all. Just a quick look at dummy's king of hearts.

Then South could have led a heart to his ace, cashed his ace of diamonds, ruffed his low diamond, discarded his last club on the king of hearts and then gone after trumps with the club danger a thing of the past.

Aircraft noise to be symposium topic

by LEA TONKIN

A national symposium on aircraft noise will be held June 12-13 in Schiller Park. The conference will be hosted by the O'Hare chapter of the National Organization to Inquire a Sound Controlled Environment (NOISE).

Proposals for control of aircraft noise will be discussed at the symposium, said John Dalbis, a Schiller Park trustee and NOISE representative. U.S. Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., other senators and congressmen, and representatives of federal regulatory agencies will be featured in the program.

The symposium will be at the Howard Johnson Motor Lodge, Mannheim and Irving Park roads. Sessions will start at 9 a.m. The symposium was originally slated May 22-24.

Oil-recycling evaluation

A trial program in waste-oil recycling at centers in Des Plaines, Glen Ellyn and Naperville will be evaluated by an independent panel. Among the members is Philip Jaffe, professor of chemistry at Oakton Community College, Des Plaines. The recycling program is a joint venture of the Office of the Illinois Energy Coordinator, Motor Oils Refining Co. of Lyons and the recycling centers. The program is aimed at recycling approximately 22 million gallons of oil sold to do-it-yourself oil changers each year. Much of the oil enters sewage systems where it causes treatment plants to malfunction, said Ernest Dunwoody, Illinois assistant energy coordinator for conservation.

Environment plan for 4-H

A new national environmental improvement program designed to encourage youthful participation is funded by Universal Oil Products Co., Des Plaines. Announcement of the 4-H program was recently made in Washington, D.C. Participants in the conference included John O. Logan, UOP president and chairman; Agriculture Sec. Earl Butz; Russell Train, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency administrator, and representatives of the Cooperative Extension Service, National 4-H Service Committee and National 4-H Foundation. Grants will be offered to 4-H groups for environmental improvement programs, and training programs for 4-H members and volunteer leaders will be offered.

Deaths from pesticides

William J. Kuhfuss, president of the Park Ridge-based American Farm Bureau Federation, called on the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to document charges that hundreds of farm workers die each year from misuse of pesticides. Kuhfuss charged that a new government reporting service on pesticides is a "bureaucratic surveillance system." The EPA recently issued a broadcast report that said in part, "Estimates of the number of farm workers made ill every year from misuse of pesticides range in the hundreds of thousands.

Hundreds of these workers die." The agency asked the public to report misuse of pesticides.

Grizzly-bear refuge

A Great Bear Wilderness would be created under legislation introduced by U.S. Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont. Environmentalists Tuesday urged Congress to set aside 378,000 acres of mountainous land in Montana as a home for the vanishing grizzly bear. "This noble animal epitomizes the wilderness," said Stewart M. Brandborg, executive director of the Wilderness Society. "In fact, the grizzly cannot survive without it."

Howard McDowell, executive vice president of the Inland Forest Council of Missoula, Mont., said one fifth of the proposed wilderness is commercial forest land. Designation of the land as wilderness would prevent the cutting of 19 million board feet of lumber per year and the creation of 400 jobs, he said.

Opinion sought on SST

The Wilderness Society seeks written public commentary on the apparent Federal Aviation Administration attempt to revive the supersonic transport issue. Despite the 1971 vote by Congress to reject the controversial jetliners, the FAA proposes that Anglo-French Concorde jets should be allowed to land at U.S. airports and granted an exemption from noise-control regulations applicable to other new commercial jetliners. The society opposes the SST because of "tremendous fuel waste, airport noise, upper atmosphere impact and sonic boom." May 30 is the deadline to write: FAA, Office of Chief Counsel, Rules Docket AGC-24, 800 Independence Ave., S.W., Washington, D.C. 20591.

'Technology causes cancer'

Increasing industrialization and the misuse of technology in the U.S. led to a rising incidence of cancer, said Dr. Barry Commoner, director of the Center for Biology of Natural Systems at Washington University. Speaking at a Tuesday conference in Chicago, Commoner said, "Experiments have shown that persons living downwind from chemical and industrial factories have a greater chance of developing cancer than most people."

Nuclear electricity hearing

The U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration slated a public hearing on the proposed final environmental impact statement for the liquid fast metal breeder reactor program. The Tuesday hearing will be held at General Services Administration offices in Washington, D.C. The fast breeder reactor is a nuclear reactor concept for generating electricity while producing more fuel than it consumes. Among the opponents of the project is Catherine Quigg of Palatine-based Pollution and Environmental Problems Inc. (PEP). In written comment submitted to the former Atomic Energy Commission, she criticizes the potential safety problems associated with liquid sodium used as a coolant in the LMFBR system, and the radioactive plutonium that will be produced.

VA probes case of 'lost' Hines wheelchair patient

The head of the Veterans Administration dispatched two officials to Illinois Veterans Hospital Wednesday to find out how and why a patient who could not speak was lost in a wheelchair for 27 hours.

Ex-Marine Erwin Pawelski, 54, victim of a cerebral hemorrhage, was buried Wednesday — three days after he died and 20 days after he was "misplaced" — while on a routine wheelchair trip between his room and occupational therapy.

VA Administrator Richard L. Roudsbush directed the investigators to find out exactly what happened to Pawelski, to recommend disciplinary action if warranted and to guard against a repetition at any of the VA's 170 hospitals.

A Hines Hospital spokesman said Pawelski's death "had no association or connection" with his 27-hour ordeal where he apparently went unnoticed by hundreds of persons. He said tests after Pawelski was found showed he had suffered no ill effects from the incident.

Hospital officials said Pawelski was strapped into his wheelchair and wheeled out of his ward, apparently by a volunteer worker assigned to take him to therapy, at 9:30 a.m. May 1.

What happened after that is anybody's guess, although there is a supposition that Pawelski was wheeled to an elevator in the hospital basement near the therapy room. He was found there at 1:10 p.m. May 2 by a hospital supervisor. A hospital spokesman said the elevator is used by hundreds of people everyday. The theory is the patient was locked in the basement overnight.

Man killed in Meigs crash
An Arkansas man was killed Wednesday when a small cargo plane crashed in Lake Michigan about 150 yards from shore near Meigs Field Airport.

The victim was identified as Robert Seay, 44, of Pine Bluff. Police said the plane, a twin-engine Aero Commander, crashed at about 11:40 a.m., apparently as it was trying to land at the lakefront airport.

Jail escapee surrenders
Another of the 17 men who escaped Cook County Jail last week has surrendered, the Sheriff's Office said Wednesday.

A spokesman said Kenneth Thompson, 23, of Chicago, awaiting trial on a charge of slaying a policeman, surrendered to authorities Tuesday night. He is the eighth escapee to surrender or be captured, nine others remain at large.

New state office buildings
The Capital Development Board Wednesday announced plans to build two new, seven-story state office buildings across the street from the Capitol.

The new buildings would include 500,000 square feet of office space and underground parking for 1,500 cars. The cost of each would be $50 million to $70 million. State employees would be housed in the buildings.

Tugboat hijacked

A tugboat was stolen on the Illinois River near Ottawa early Wednesday by two men and a woman who forced the captain and two crew members off the craft at gunpoint.

The boat was recovered hours after the incident and three persons were charged with armed robbery. They are Richard Brim, 31, of Ottawa, the former owner of the boat; Rex Newton, 30, Barbara J. Alexander, 19, both of Elgin.

Year-round hearings needed

The scenario in Springfield is once again all too familiar. The Illinois General Assembly, like a floundering ship, is again drifting through an endless sea of unfinished business.

In the closing weeks of the session, the legislature is plowing through more than 4,000 bills. The goal is to adjourn the six-month session by June 30, and many worthwhile bills are being buried by the sheer weight of this legislative overload.

Obviously, a better way must be found to conduct the state's business. One way to do it, as suggested by State Rep. Richard Mugallian, D-Palatine, is to redistribute the workload so the last-minute logjam can be permanently ended.

Mugallian has proposed that each of the standing committees meet throughout the calendar year, rather than limiting hearings to the length of the legislature's term. This would permit full-scale public hearings on legislation which too often is badly written or lacks adequate time for consideration by the general public.

Mugallian's plan is reasonable, but his proposal alone won't remedy the perennial legislative backlog. More to the point is that the legislative leadership — specifically, House Speaker William Redmond, D-Bensenville, and Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago — must force the legislature to streamline itself.

Unless Redmond and Partee offer more than token support to speeding serious structural reform, Mugallian's proposal will remain little more than a good idea whose time hasn't yet arrived.

We fear that the annual backlog reflects the legislature's continuing desire to allow horse-trading to dictate decisions on important state matters. To make the legislature the efficient body it should be, Partee and Redmond will have to acknowledge that the old ways of doing business in Springfield do not serve the public well in 1975.

Reject remap plans

The introduction in Springfield last week of yet another Congressional redistricting map again misses an important point: we don't need a remap until 1980.

The latest plan, backed by Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago, is as ill-advised as the first proposal, for it again unfairly carves up U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva's Tenth District, as well as cutting into the territory of Rep. Paul Simon, D-24th. It appears to be another plan to place Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley in even firmer control of the state's Congressional delegation.

The folly of each of the plans submitted to date is that no court's ordered redistricting, and for the sake of the voters, remaps should be delayed for five years, until the 1980 census. The present remaps will do little more than further confuse all Illinois voters; for the sake of all, the present Congressional boundary lines should be maintained until the next census. It's the best step to avoid more politically motivated gerrymandering.

'Speak loudly, keep options open'

by BOB LAHEY
Political Editor

Sometimes an entire campaign boils down to a simple one-liner, often with disastrous consequences for the candidate.

Sometimes it works the other way. In 1952, General Dwight D. Eisenhower, the hero of World War II, declared, "I will go to Korea," and the slogan caught the hopes of a war-weary nation — though probably it only widened his victory margin over Illinois Gov. Adlai Stevenson.

In 1968, Michigan Gov. George Romney declared he had been "brain-washed" on American involvement in Vietnam, and the implication that he couldn't make his own judgment on the issue threw his presidential hopes into a nosedive.

In 1972, Illinois Lieutenant Governor Paul Simon said that if any increase in taxes were needed for schools, it would be necessary to raise the income tax rather than property taxes. He spent the rest of the campaign explaining that he had not advocated an income-tax increase, meanwhile steadily losing ground, and finally the election, to Daniel Walker.

Although it may be too early in the game for them to have such dramatic effects, two such statements by potent candidates for major office have already been uttered.

The first — though it took a while to be spread in this country — came from Alabama Gov. George Wallace, who declared that the United States "fought against the wrong people in World War II." Whether or not he had deliberately avoided it, Wallace had never voiced that sentiment to the American press.

He made the statement to a group of visiting foreign journalists — including one from Russia — and it took a while for the statement to be printed and get back to the States.

For Wallace's hard-core supporters, the statement will probably mean little. But for his determined opponents, who consider Wallace nothing but a fascist, the statement is a club.

The specter of the United States linking arms with Nazi Germany and fascist Japan in their bid for world conquest is likely to haunt Wallace throughout the primaries, where he must gain great strength to have any effective voice in 1976 presidential politics. (And one wonders if he would be saying the same thing today if Germany and Japan had indeed crushed Russia and China.)

In Illinois, Attorney General William J. Scott got overzealous and called a press conference to pronounce the Walker administration corrupt and guilty of widespread political surveillance and wiretappings, a la Watergate.

Asked for evidence, Scott became irritable and walked out on his own press conference, leaving a strong suspicion that he had none.

As in Wallace's case, the statement (assuming it remains nothing more than that) is not likely to hurt Scott with the people who already hate Walker. Nor is it likely to influence those partisan plotters who would vote for the party's man if he were Richard Speck.

But the "Who do I vote for?" electorate is shrinking, and the suspicion remains here that the Walker haters greatly overestimate their strength.

The 1976 contest for governor will be — like all others before it — largely a contest between Downstate Republicans and Chicago Democrats.

Assuming a gubernatorial contest between Scott and Walker, the Downstate vote is likely to loom larger than it ordinarily does, owing to the great popularity in rural counties of both men.

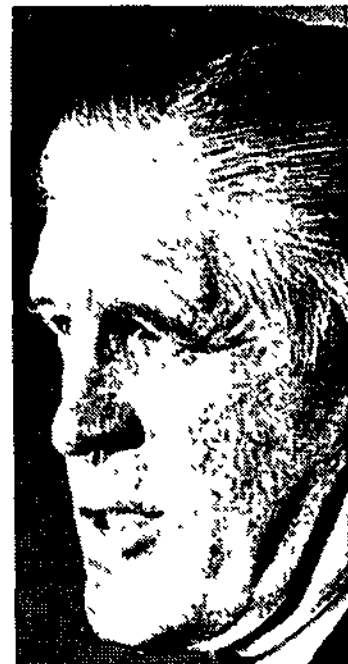

As for Chicago, the Daley Machine will have no choice in a presidential year but to mount a maximum effort for the Democratic nominee. And the guy on the ballot for governor is going to get his share of the votes, whether Daley and his minions like it or not.

Unless Scott has produced substantiation for his charges, Walker will not let it be forgotten Downstate — where the idea of fair play still survives — that he was the victim of a cheap shot.

PAUL SIMON

GEORGE ROMNEY

. . . and what did Wallace mean?

by ARNOLD B. SAWISLAK
WASHINGTON — The story is told that Prince von Metternich was awakened one morning at the Council of Vienna with the news that the foreign minister of one of the other countries in attendance had died during the night.

Metternich, ever the cunning diplomat, is said to have gazed at the ceiling and asked, "Now, what do you suppose he meant by that?"

Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama now has given us the kind of conundrum worthy of no one less than the wily old Austrian. What do you suppose Wallace had in mind when he observed in a recent interview that the United States may have been fighting on the wrong side in World War II?

No need to strain ourselves trying to figure it out: Wallace himself explained his meaning a few days later. What he meant was that the United States should have been friendlier to Germany and Japan after World War I. That way, he said, Hitler and the Japanese militarists would never have been able to rise to power and the second global war would not have occurred.

The governor is certainly not the first person to suggest that the Treaty of Versailles had a great deal to do with the creation of a Germany in which Hitler was able to rise to power. And, there are those who hold the opinion that by imposing a boycott on strategic materials for Japan, the United States provoked Pearl Harbor.

So perhaps the governor was simply restating a rather basic proposition: drive a person or a nation into a corner and you will have a fight on your hands.

And, if that is so, perhaps it helps explain some of the things that Wallace has said and done during his years in the public arena.

For example, we know that when he declared "Segregation today, segregation tomorrow, segregation forever" at his first inaugural in Montgomery, he didn't really mean it because just last year he crowned a black homecoming queen at the University of Alabama.

And, we know that in 1968 when he was the presidential candidate of the American party, he didn't really mean "there's not a dime's worth of difference" between the Democratic and Republican parties because this year he is back in the Democratic ranks and is about to announce his candidacy for its 1976 nomination.

And we can guess that the governor is just funning when he tells audiences that "big government" is the cause of most of this country's troubles, because he has also said he would see to it as president that the United States was the world's strongest military power and that he would solve the crime problem in the nation's capital by stationing a soldier on every street corner.

So it appears the governor has updated Theodore Roosevelt's famous dictum about foreign policy into a theory of government that says "Speak loudly but keep your options open."

There is one question that remains from this episode. Explaining one point of his original interview to the Washington Post, the governor said: "A demagogue cannot rise in a country unless there are economic or social problems. When I say a social problem, I mean crime in the streets or something like that."

Now, what do you suppose he meant by that?

The lighter side

Just who was Goldwater's VP?

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON — It isn't often in this life that you get to meet the answer to your favorite "Trivia" question in the flesh.

Lucky me. I recently was privileged to experience such a moment, which I shall share with you. But first, let's see how good at "Trivia" you are.

Who was Barry Goldwater's running mate in the 1964 presidential election?

That question turns up in every "Trivia" game I play. The reason it turns up is because I always ask it myself. Stumps a lot of people, too.

Some players guess Ambrose Bierce. Some guess Amelia Earhart. Some, in desperation, guess Judge Crater. How quickly are losing vice presidential candidates forgotten!

The only faster way to arrive at total obscurity is to be elected vice president.

Anyway, when I heard that the answer to my question was going to appear in person on the National Press Club's annual Congressional Night program, I was deeply distressed.

Jogging folks' memories like that could ruin my reputation as a "Trivia" expert.

Actually, however, a lot of damage already had been done. The person of whom I speak appears on television in one of those "Remember me?" commercials for a credit card company.

Thus his name and face are now familiar to millions of viewers, a goodly percentage of whom once voted against him without knowing who he was.

My main concern now is that he will make a career out of being a forgotten man. It could be a fairly lucrative profession.

The fee for a Press Club appearance is nil, of course, but I understand he got $15,000 for that TV commercial. Which indicates there is a pretty good demand for forgotten men.

Before turning professional, a forgotten man would need a big buildup. "Coming soon. In person. Direct from a decade of oblivion in Buffalo, N.Y. One of America's 10 top forgotten men!"

Or — "He thrilled you with his obscurity in the 1964 presidential campaign. Recently discovered alive and practicing law in Buffalo. Now appearing nightly with the same identity problem that has made him a leading forgotten man in television commercials."

With the answer to my question getting publicity like that, I might either have to give up playing "Trivia" or else think up another question.

It could be, however, that I'm underestimating his capacity for keeping beyond recall. You don't remain out of mind for 11 years unless you have a lot of staying power.

By this time, at any rate, I'm sure you recollect who Goldwater's running mate was. If not, you're invited to my house for a "Trivia" quiz.

Ah, what a pity 'twould be if we lost sight of poetry

The other day I found myself trying to remember William Blake's poem "The Tiger." The first stanza quickly came back to mind: "Tiger, Tiger, burning bright/in the forest of the night/what immortal hand or eye/could frame thy fearful symmetry."

The poem was brought to mind because I was thinking about one of my high school English teachers, a marvelous woman named Lillian Davis, and her insistence that we memorize poetry.

Even then, in the early 1960s, memorization, like sentence diagramming, had gone out of style. Miss Davis had a difficult time explaining to her classes of high school seniors that she was going to enforce, to a limited degree, a discipline that had been required when she was in school.

ALL SHE did was require that each of us choose one poem to memorize. My choice was "The Tiger." The assignment, she said, was to try to give us some idea of the value of committing poems to memory. "It may seem like hard work now," she said, "but being able to call up poems from memory will give you great joy when you get older."

Her statement was brought back to me clearly earlier this week when I was interviewing a woman who is one of Miss Davis' contemporaries. The older woman gleefully in the course of our conversation quoted whole passages from poems by Vachel Lindsey from memory.

Today, teachers with such quaint, antiquated attitudes as Miss Davis are nearly extinct. Now that teachers have discovered the value of "relevant" education and English courses have been changed to allow students to study science fiction and other specialized subjects. I suspect few teachers would recommend anything so "irrelevant" as memorizing poetry.

Education today

by Wandalyn Rice

The result may well be that thousands of high school students will graduate without even being able to remember one stanza of a poem.

THAT WILL NOT MEAN the end of the world, of course. I suspect many students are learning many useful things from the modernized curriculum. Students who may have dropped out of school before they reached Miss Davis' class may now be tempted to stay in by the flexible curriculum.

Still, as I talked to the poetry-quoting elderly woman this week, I know better than ever before what Miss Davis meant when she talked about the pleasure poetry can give a person.

And it seems a shame, when we move toward a "relevant" education, that we lose some of the older, "irrelevant" but valuable things. No one, not even the hardest core conservative, seriously mourns the end of sentence diagramming, but if the current generation grows up poetryless because of "relevance" it will be a sad loss.

Because education tends to move in cycles, I suspect that at some point educators—and maybe even students—will come to realize that there are plenty of things worth knowing that aren't "relevant" in the terms of being immediately useful.

BEING ABLE TO recall "The Tiger" does not make me a better journalist, for example, but when I remember it for one reason or another I am always pleased with myself, and a little bit grateful to Miss Davis.

Memorizing poetry is such a small thing that the world will not end whether the students do it or not. But losing poetry because it is "irrelevant" would be a big loss.

Perhaps that's all we need to keep in mind on the subject of relevance.

Meanwhile, I remember: "When the stars threw down their spears/ and watered heaven with their tears/did he smile his work to see? did he who made the Lamb make thee?"

State tennis tourney opens today at seven area sites

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Tennis Editor

Since 1956, when Hinsdale High School won its first state tennis championship, the Red Devils have become Centralized and the award that every tennis coach in Illinois dreams about has itself become centralized in the Hinsdale Central trophy case.

This weekend, beginning today on seven Dist. 214 courts and continuing through Friday and into Saturday afternoon, Hinsdale Central will be seeking, and probably win, its 10th state championship and fourth in succession.

Succession and success is very important to Hinsdale, ever since Clare Reissen and his son Marty chewed up the state tournament from 1956 to 1959. After that quartet of team championships the Red Devils fell on hard times. If three runner-up finishes can be called hard times.

When they resurfaced as state champions in 1966 the Red Devils had a new coach, Jay Kramer. Kramer had a new philosophy: dazzle 'em with depth.

"Ever since I've been coach at Hinsdale Central," Kramer said, "we have stressed the importance of the team to all the players."

"Winning individual titles are nice but we've always felt that the team was more important."

Marty Reissen's singles title in 1960 was the last individual championship for Hinsdale yet the Devils have won five team titles in that span.

"Year to year we are able to stay strong by constantly working younger players into our system so they'll be ready when the older players graduate," Kramer said. "We build each team several years in advance and we are always aware of how our players will fit into the team."

Hinsdale's victims at the Downers Grove South District were given an awesome display of just how well this 1975 Hinsdale team fits together.

The Red Devils won the district title by eight points and provided all the finalists in both singles and doubles.

"I don't like to compare one team with another that I've had," Kramer said. "It isn't fair to either my current team or one from the past."

"But certainly this compares with some of my better teams. We have excellent depth and I'm convinced that's what it will take to win the title."

Hinsdale will feed the top-seeded singles player into tournament in the form of Ed Staren, a senior who bumped teammate Eric Umsted in the district championship 6-0, 6-1 and was state singles runner-up last year.

"I believe Ed and his brother, Ted, form one of the best brother combinations in tennis," Kramer said. "Ed has gained a lot of consistency since last year and has been overpowering much of this season."

Ed's younger brother Ted is only a sophomore, teamed with junior Al Pilet as the top-seeded doubles pair in the tournament. They beat Randy Druz and Bob Gray of Hinsdale in the district 7-5, 6-3.

"Ted has gained some weight and strength since last year," Kramer said. "If he had been entered in the singles there could very possibly be an all-Staren championship."

"I think he will help us more at doubles, though."

Hoping to contend with the Hinsdale machine are the best teams and play-

THE STATE TENNIS tournament will kick off today at various sites with the finals being contested at Arlington High School's courts beginning at approximately noon. The HERALD

BRAVE MOVE. Atlanta's second baseman Ron Gilbrath is up in the air over a theft of second by Montreal's Pepe Mangual. The Braves beat the Expos, 6-3.

Dodgers top Cubs

The Los Angeles Dodgers coasted behind the shutout pitching of unbeaten twirler Andy Messersmith to blank the Cubs, 10-0, Wednesday night.

Messersmith upped his record to an unblemished 7-0 mark, limiting Chicago to just seven hits.

Joe Ferguson and Steve Yeager, both with paltry batting averages under .200 upon entering the game, were the hitting stars for the Dodgers. The pair combined for five hits off a quintet of Cub hurlers including starter and loser Geoff Zahn.

The Dodgers' victory completed a sweep by National League West Division teams over the East, so the Cubs lost no ground and maintain a game and one-half lead over Philadelphia.

Orioles handcuff White Sox

Bobby Grich's three-run homer capped a four-run first inning for the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night to lead Jim Palmer to his fourth straight victory and seventh of the season in a 6-2 decision over the Chicago White Sox.

The win ended the Orioles' four-game losing streak and dealt the Sox their second defeat in the last five games.

Five of the Orioles' 13 hits were for extra bases. Ken Singleton opened the game with a double, advanced on an infield out and scored on Tommy Davis' single, which extended his hitting streak to 15 games. Don Baylor singled to run his hitting streak to 11 games before Grich homered into the upper deck in right field. It was his seventh homer.

Palmer worked his seventh complete game in nine starts, walking only two and striking out six on a yield of eight hits. Singles by Tony Muser, Nyls Nyman and Brian Downing produced a run in the second and Bill Melton hit his third homer to open the eighth.

Sloan voted top defenseman

Scrappy Jerry Sloan of the Chicago Bulls was the top votegetter on the National Basketball Association's 1974-75 All-Defensive team announced by Commissioner J. Walter Kennedy. The 33-year-old guard from Evansville drew 22 points from the 18 voting coaches and it marked the fourth time in his 10-year career that Sloan has made the first team. Two other times, he was named to the second five.

New life ... and new game for Ron Santo

Ron Santo must rely on golden hands now. The glove that almost annually helped him win top fielding honors in the National League must stay at home.

After 14 years with the Cubs and one with the White Sox, this 35-year-old veteran major league third baseman had the look of a nervous rookie last Sunday at a team practice in Glenview. Part of the reason was his naked left hand.

"Fielding a ball without a glove is very difficult for me," Ron admitted during an interview break.

You see for the first time in his life Ron Santo's taking up the Chicago-land past time — 16-inch softball.

"It was tough," he recalled of his first practice. "I broke a bat, in fact. You get this kind of pitching and you think it's easier to hit, but really you have to supply your own power."

Paul Logan
Associate Sports Editor

"So you get a guy like myself — they know I can hit the ball — so they play back. So my idea is to try and get base hits," said this owner of 342 hardball homers.

If a softball scout had seen the practice, he might have rated Ron a solid, line drive hitter who needed some work on his fielding. But aside from getting used to the melon-sized ball, Santo's also familiarizing himself to a fairly new position — shortstop.

"I've always wanted to be a shortstop, and now I'm going to beg my chance," he said with a broad smile.

He had made some fine plays earlier in practice, but several balls eluded him. Even when he wore a glove, Santo would make an occasional error. When it happened, those ticketholders who loved to get on him would have a field day.

Since he'll be playing against younger guys with a reputation of having "rabbitears," I had to wonder out loud if he expected to be tested?

"This is a game of fun," said Ron. "As far as getting razzed if I drop one or something like that I'm sure that I'll get the raspberries."

"This is different. This isn't my livelihood. It wouldn't bother me if they (fans and other players) would get on him. A major league ballplayer would be crazy to say he didn't mind getting booed. Nobody likes to get booed."

"I feel like in this game if they want to come and get on me — what the hell — how many people are you going to have here anyway? It's not like going out there and getting 15 to 20 thousand people and you have a bad day and somebody down in front starts getting personal and all of that."

Santo was asked by one of the players in his Glenview neighborhood to be a sponsor. Besides having his Torco Oil Co. back the Boilermakers-Quit Giant team, he also is the player-coach.

The team will open its season tonight at 7:00 against the Jammers at the Glenview Park District League's No. 2 Diamond at Roosevelt Park.

On May 22, 1974, the White Sox were playing the Texas Rangers in a doubleheader. If the Sox swept it, they would regain first place. They split and never again came close to the American League West lead.

"I really haven't missed it at all," said Ron, who looks like he could still help a major league team.

"I never wanted to stay in baseball so long that I'd get a pink slip... Without a pennant, there was a lot of pressure in Chicago. In '69, of course, we felt like we were going to win it and we didn't. I think I'm more relaxed now."

So once a week he'll wear a flashy softball uniform and try to help his team improve upon last year's second-place finish in its division. Who knows — maybe he'll finally play on a championship team.

Even if he doesn't, Ron Santo is happy with his life. And in the end, that's what really counts.

SLUGGING a 16-inch softball to right field is former Cub and Sox third baseman Ron Santo during a practice Sunday in Glenview — his hometown. Santo's playing this sport for the first time as well as sponsoring the team and coaching it. His season opener's tonight.

St. Viator coach accepts position with Lake Forest

by MIKE KLEIN

Steve Antrim's longtime coaching dream will become reality today with his announcement as new head basketball and tennis coach at Lake Forest College, the tiny private school nestled along Chicago's north suburban shoreline.

Antrim resigned similar head coaching duties at St. Viator after producing 2-19 and 8-14 basketball records while building sound freshman and sophomore programs which should ensure varsity success.

He'll replace John Nelson at Lake Forest, the builder of a 12-10 record this past basketball season, best for the Foresters in many years.

Nelson recently completed a doctorate in anthropology from the University of Chicago and soon will be moving to the Far East to continue scientific research.

"I think it's going to be super," Antrim told the Herald regarding his Lake Forest appointment. "Lake Forest is a beautiful facility, one of the finest I've seen. It should be a great attraction for kids."

The Viator basketball program now stands without a leader. Varsity assistant coach Tom Coover recently accepted head duties at Montini High School, effective next fall.

Antrim admitted some regret at leaving Viator. "It's all built now," he said. "When I came here two years ago, there was a redheaded kid named (Terry) Keenan and that was it."

"Now there's Glenn Girard (6-9 senior next fall) and Paul Wiloff (6-6 sophomore) and Ralph Casciare who'll have three years at varsity guard. Plus, they've got their best incoming freshman class in years. This will be a good job."

32 runs by Elk Grove tops girls' softball play

A pitching battle and a slugfest highlighted play in Mid-Suburban Conference 12-inch fast-pitch softball Tuesday.

Elk Grove rallied from a 6-6 deficit in the fourth with three nine-run innings to route Schaumburg 32-14 at the Greenadlers' diamond. Colleen Kane and Kathy Brinkman paced the offensive barrage with seven and four runs batted in respectively. Backed by the 29-hit attack, Kim Hildebrandson was the winning pitcher.

Elk Grove140	99-32-29-5

Meanwhile, South Division leaders Prospect and Forest View warmed up for their big meeting this afternoon behind some strong pitching performances.

The Prospect Knights rode to victory on a two-run double in the sixth by Cindy Lollar that broke a 4-4 tie and gave the hosting Knights a 6-4 win. Gori Hurley was 2-for-3 at the plate as she and Lawlor helped Carol DiPrima earn her fifth pitching win without a loss.

Rose San Miguel was the losing Conant pitcher.

Over at Rolling Meadows, Forest View pitcher Nancy Lachus also lifted her mark to 5-0 while shutting out the Meadows Mustangs over the final five innings.

Karen Karaffa and Kim Smid drove in a teammate each with Smid also going 3-for-3. Bonnie Rogosch was 2-for-6 and two stolen bases.

Carol Emerick drove in a run for Meadows.

Hersey's Cathy Weadley pitched and batted her way to a victory against hosting Arlington, 18-3.

Besides tossing a nine-hitter, Weadley drove in five runs with a 2-for-4 performance, including one homer. Hersey teammates backed her with errorless defense.

SCORE BY INNINGS

Aided by the bases loaded triple of Carol Magnus as well as another RBI, Wheeling defeated Hoffman Estates 18-13.

LeeAnn Paulsen was the winning pitcher with Clare Dowling taking the loss.

But Antrim also explained, "You can't stay for the kids because the kids don't stay. They graduate. We took our lumps and we'd like to inflect a few but you've got to take the opportunity when it's offered."

The 10-33 varsity record in Antrim's two Visior years is his only losing experience, dating back to head frosh-ship duties at Weber High School in 1970-71.

Antrim moved to Mendel in 1972 and compiled back-to-back 19-11 varsity records. His Mendel lightweights were 19-3 and city champions in 1973, leaving Antrim with a 57-25 record for his three teams over two years.

He was named Chicago Catholic League Coach-of-the-Year in 1973 and coached the South Section All-Stars to victory over the North All-Stars at DePaul University.

Lake Forest picked Antrim over approximately 55 other candidates and chose him basically as a recruiter.

"It's a great place. You should be able to get a lot of players from the city and suburbs," Antrim said.

"They have a tendency to leave the area by the hundreds. Lake Forest wanted someone who knows the area."

"I know the city and I know the suburbs," Antrim said. "I think we can play excellent small college basketball."

Antrim is 27 years old. Lake Forest competes in the Midwest Collegiate Athletic Conference and has 1,050 students.

ers from 30 districts around the state.

Seeded behind Ed Staren in the singles competition is Matt Horwith, a junior from Highland Park who won his district title by clubbing Deerfield's Robby White, himself one of the best singles players in the state.

The other top singles seeds include Bill Rusk, a senior from Granite City South and Marian Catholic senior Bill Nichols.

Doug Cohen and Carey Westberg of Homewood-Flossmoor are seeded behind Staren and Pilet in the doubles competition. Surprisingly they were beaten by teammates Dave Goff and Kevin Bown 6-3, 3-6, 6-3 in the doubles finals at the Flossmoor district.

They will be joined in the seeded ranks by Bill Kerr and Bob Frei of New Trier East and Paul Wei and John Yeazel of Arlington.

Kerr and Frei were champions of the New Trier West district and with singles player Mark Schneider will be one of the better teams Hinsdale has to contend with.

A rain abbreviated match between

New Trier East and Arlington Tuesday indicated that the host Cardinals will have to be watched by the Red Devils, also. The foes had split two matches and had several others in the third set when the competition was washed out.

Wei and Yeazel won the Arlington district doubles championship to clinch the team title from Barrington, sending the Cardinals to the state title en masse.

Todd Van Gorp and Pete Burkhardt will go for Arlington at the other doubles while John Wallner and Luke Weeg will handle the singles duties.

Prospect's Dan Hanson, singles champion of the Arlington district will also be on hand.

Forest View, champions of the Mahan West District, will send the likes of Greg Meyer and Dave O'Donnell to the finals. Conant's Orson Faynor also qualified in the singles.

The meet will begin at 4 p.m. today at seven Dist. 214 sites (Arlington, Hersey, Elk Grove, Buffalo Grove, Wheeling, Rolling Meadows and Prospect).

Action will resume Friday at 9 a.m. with the semi-finals and finals scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. Saturday at Arlington.

An admission charge of $1.00 for all spectators will be charged Saturday.

Pirate lettermen plan bottle drive

The Palatine High School Varsity Club will sponsor a bottle drive Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. with the proceeds going toward renovating the Pirates' weight room.

People in Palatine are urged to bring any refundable deposit bottles to the Palatine High School parking lot between those hours on Saturday. Also, Palatine lettermen will be ringing doorbells in the Palatine High School area asking residents to donate their refundable bottles.

All questions regarding the bottle drive, call the high school at 358-6111.

South leader shows muscle in easy 16-0 win

A Herald Staff Report
Red-hot Rolling Meadows went on a rampage Wednesday afternoon.

Coach Al Otto's Mustangs, who are closing in on the Mid-Suburban League South Division title, blasted Conant 16-0 to hike their record to 10-5, two full games ahead of idle Forest View.

Five games made their way into the record book with only one postponement — the crucial North Division meeting between Arlington and Wheeling.

Meadows, Palatine, Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates and Hersey landed the wins Wednesday.

MUSTANGS BOMB CONANT

The first-place Rolling Meadows Mustangs raked three Conant pitchers for nine extra-base hits and a lopsided 16-0 victory in Hoffman Estates Wednesday.

The Mustangs, now 10-5 in the MSL South division, blanked the Cougars 16-0 for the second day in a row as John Igrasek and John Corbery combined for a three-hit shutout. Igrasek pitched the first five innings and fanned seven Cougars while allowing just two hits to earn the win.

Rolling Meadows got on the scoreboard quickly in the first. A bases-loaded walk to Steve Breitbell sent home the first run and Dave Bell followed with a three-run homer to left-center field.

In the third, solo home runs by Bob Schmidt and Breitbell, a single by Tom Baugh, and an RBI double by Guy Tenuta made the score 7-0. Four Conant errors and consecutive doubles by Scott Green, Breitbell, and Nue Nunez in the fourth gave the Mustangs a 12-0 edge.

Conant's Marty Luquet lined a two-base hit off the fence in right center with one out in the fourth, but Igrasek settled down and got the next two hitters.

Nunez capped the scoring for Meadows with a grand slam homer over the fence in left in the sixth.

PALATINE BESTS FREMD

Jeff Williams' clutch two-out double in the sixth inning broke up a tie game and helped lift Palatine to an 8-6 victory over arch-rival Fremd at the Pirates' diamond.

Williams, Palatine's right fielder, delivered with the bases loaded, driving in Bill Mottashod and Ron Hughes with Lon Snyder also scoring after an errant relay. Garth Chase capped the four-run inning — Palatine's second such explosion of the game — with an RBI single.

The Pirates, 8-6 on the season, nearly needed all four in holding off Fremd's final bid in the seventh. Hughes, who went the distance for the win, walked the first two batters. Carl DePaolis and Scott Orbin followed with singles, the latter driving in two. Then Hughes, who struck out six, fanned the next batter while retiring the side.

Palatine also put four on the scoreboard in the first. Following a single by Long Snyder and a hit batsman — Garth Chase, the delayed double steal scored Snyder. After Jim Lubinski walked, Jim Maycan unloaded a 400-foot home run over the distant left field.

Fremd rallied with three in the second. A double by Kerry Field, a walk to Mike Meres and a single by Pat Gavigan scored one. Jim Recher's sacrifice fly and an error made it 4-3.

The Vikings, 10-6 in the MSL, tied it in the fourth after a walk to Meres, stolen base, single by Gavigan, and an error.

Matt Fox, who took over for Recher in the second, pitched well before the fatal sixth.

HOFFMAN WINS, 7-5

Hoffman Estates capitalized on four Prospect errors to jump into an early lead and then held on behind the pitching of Ray Gawron to dump the Knights 7-5 and all but snuff out their bid for honors in the South Division race.

The verdict left both sides with eight losses — three more than circuit-leading Rolling Meadows. Prospect finishes up its campaign with the Mustangs Friday but even with a win then, they could only hope for no better than a tie for first at the finish line.

The Knights had Gawron in plenty of jams, loading the bases four times over the last five frames, but the Hawk hurler and his teammates came up with a couple of double plays to ease off the hook including one to end the game and Prospect produced only two runs out of all the action.

A miscue on a sacrifice attempt in the top of the second opened the door for a three-run Hoffman rally. Wayne Jackson's sacrifice fly, a double by Ted Pellus and a wild pitch accounted for the scoring.

The Knights came right back to tie the game at 3-3 on a pair of two-out walks, a double by Laddie Janda and a single by starting and losing pitcher Tim Davies. But the stalemate didn't last long. Two errors coupled with a single by Mike Bynes put the guest Hawks back on top in the third.

And in the fourth another error and singles by Joe Gajewski and Joe Parille made it a 7-3 contest. The hosts picked away at the Hawk lead with single runs in the sixth and seventh but fell shy when Mike Lapcewicz's hard liner was snagged by shortstop Parille and converted into a double play at third.

SAXONS TRIM GRENS, 4-3

Bill Fairbanks kept the Elk Grove Grenadiers off stride with a basket load of breaking pitches to give the Schaumburg Saxons a 4-3 MSL South Division victory.

The win boosted Schaumburg's conference slate to 8-8 while Elk Grove dropped to 2-15.

Senior Steve Kliff, used exclusively in relief all season, was given a starting shot for the Greens and went the route, allowing eight hits.

Schaumburg tagged Kliff for two runs in the first inning when Dave Jones singled and came home on Bob Connell's triple. Connell later scored on an error.

Elk Grove cut the lead in half in the top of the second when Bob Christensen beat out an infield hit, was balked to second and scored on Kliff's solid single to center.

The Greens tied the score the following inning when Ken Wajerski doubled to drive in Bill Strybel, who had tripled ahead of him.

Schaumburg took the lead back in the bottom of the third when Bob Connell doubled, was sacrificed to second and came home on Bob Poplar's infield hit.

The Saxons collected their final run by stringing two hits, a sacrifice and a hit batter together in the bottom of the fourth inning.

HUSKIES EASE PAST BISON

Tom Frye singled home the tie-breaking run in the bottom of the sixth inning and Hersey went on to claim their second straight victory, 5-4, at the expense of visiting Buffalo Grove.

The Bison exploded for four runs in the fourth frame off starting and winning Huskie hurler Todd Walker after the hosts had opened scoring in the third. A bases-loaded walk to Jim Lococo gave the Huskies a short-lived 1-0 lead before the eruption.

Dave Derrig instigated the big rally by walking and after advancing on a sacrifice was driven home on Steve Chobanian's two bagger. Fred Leckie then slugged home Chobanian and following a fielder's choice play Mike Ledna circled the bases on a single misused in the outfield.

Hersey trimmed the deficit to 4-2 on Gary Hart's triple in the bottom of the fourth and a single by Mark Knutle. Buffalo Grove's lead was cut to just one in the fifth on a single by Frye, a walk and safety by Tom Barnard.

And in the sixth with one away Knutle was issued a free pass by Bison relief pitcher Rick Brinsmade. Chuck Veselits was save on a fielder's choice and both runners advanced on a groundout.

A balk tied up the game before Frye delivered his crucial hit.

'Way of Death' a gutsy production

NEW YORK — "Step right up folks, this is our deluxe, super duper streamline model, guaranteed not to rust or your money back. You'll love it — and more importantly, it's what mama would like."

Now you may think this little bit of huckstering is for a new refrigerator or a car or a mobile home, but it's not. It's for a coffin.

Wednesday night PBS rebroadcast "Since the American Way of Death," a harrowing look at funeral peddling in the U.S.A.

"Since the American Way of Death" is the first major look at the funeral industry since Jessica Mitford published her provocative book, "The American Way of Death," 11 years ago. Despite government attempts to clean up the industry Miss Mitford still believes the U.S. funeral directors "perpetrate a fantastic fraud on the American public."

"THE TACTICS," said narrator Martin Agronsky, "used in selling the great American funeral often are taken from the same book of sales techniques used to hustle new and used cars, high-priced home appliances and aluminum siding."

"In those industries, some of the tactics might be ethical. But in the funeral industry, there is a crucial, cutting difference. The customer is negotiating a major purchase with his or her defenses not only down — but often non-existent. The bereaved individual can be another mark for a funeral salesman. And many in the industry know it."

Among the many abuses cited were: payoffs to ministers and hospital workers by hearses chasers, installment plan burials, signing wage assignments, the use of lighting techniques to push high-priced coffins and the bugging of clients' conversations.

However, the show also looked at some alternatives to the slick, high-pressure American funeral. There was the low-cost British funeral system and memorial societies and church-affiliated funeral committees which handle tasteful package funerals.

als. And there was a conversation with an Ohio mortician and his wife who are involved in grief work.

ONE SHOULD point out that not every funeral director is a crook or a huckster, and that this show often deals in generalities, but it is a word to the wise to beware of unethical practices beforehand.

With the possible exception of WNET's probe of the crash of a Turkish Airlines DC10, "The World's Worst Air Crash," this 60-minute film is the gutsiest and most provocative investigative report on this year's PBS schedule. And what is significant is that this is an American documentary and not a British import. Cheers to producer Michael Hirsch of station WTTW, Chicago, for getting this show on the air.

How to fully decorate your townhouse for $999 — and love every minute of it

A WINE RACK MADE of carpet rolls painted to look like terra cotta pipe, a spice rack made out of an old Coca-Cola case and a breadbox from a mailbox are some of the little touches in the kitchen designed by Jacqueline Schneider (left) and Pamela Dianne Pinson. The kitchen cost $105 and includes a hand-stained picnic style table sitting on an old sisal rug which cost $3.

FOR $430, STUDENTS in the Harper College interior design program put together this living room-dining room combination for Lakeside Villa condominiums in Wheeling. The dining room table is homemade with cedar posts for legs. Coffee and end tables in the living room are made from tree stumps. The "super graphic" on the wall has a hand-made rag rug in its center. The lamp in the corner is made by gluing ceramic flower pots together for a base and using a lamp kit. Chairs were purchased unfinished.

by WANDALYN RICE

Practical, do-it-yourself furniture is common in the homes of young persons with more ingenuity than money.

But homemade furniture and accessories are not common in the model homes developers use to attract customers — except in the newly opened model homes at Lakeside Villas in Wheeling.

The three-bedroom $45,000 condominium has been completely decorated by students in the Harper College interior design program for $999.

THE 10 STUDENTS, working with two members of the Harper interior design faculty, started with a double bed and frame and living room sofa furnished by Albert Zale, president of Zale Construction Co. and developer of Lakeside Villas. To that, they added everything — tables, chairs, lamps, wall decorations, a cradle for a baby and even a breadbox in the kitchen made of a mailbox.

The design also includes a hand-painted mural in the entryway, a "super-graphic" design painted across the living room wall and several hand-made rag rugs as wall hangings.

The designers insist that, despite all the originality shown in the design, anyone with a certain amount of dedication could do the same thing.

Dona Pritchett, the designer who made the rugs used in the house, said, "Anyone can do most of these things. Many of the girls had never sewed before and found themselves sewing pillows and curtains. The girl who did the macrame wall-hanging had never done macrame before. What we did is something everyone could do if they have the desire and a certain amount of design sense."

THE STUDENTS also agreed that the most important part of the whole project was getting the ideas. "A person might want to get an interior designer to give them the ideas, but then they could do it themselves," Jane Durkin said.

The model is filled with small, unique touches. In addition to a hand-painted mural mailbox which serves as a breadbox, Pamela Pinson and Jacqueline Schneider made a wine rack and spice rack for the $105 kitchen.

The wine rack is made of sections of carpet roll cores painted to look like terra cotta pipe. The spice rack is created from an old Coca-Cola bottle case that was painted and filled with baby food jars full of seasoning. The jars are just the right size for the spaces in the case.

THE LIVING room-dining room, designed for $430 by Mrs. Pritchett, Jane Durkin, Mary Beth Durkin and Jill Abernethy, includes a homemade table with the legs made of cedar logs which were found in a trash heap in Wisconsin. Coffee tables and end tables are made with tree stumps coated with clear plastic polyurethane.

The tree stumps, according to Miss Durkin, were found along the Des Plaines River where they had been left by county crews that were cutting down trees. "We loaded them into our Pinto," she said, "and the car got stuck. We got some guys to help us, but we finally ended up calling a tow truck. Except for the tow truck, the tree stumps were free."

Also in the living room is a trunk discovered by Mrs. Pritchett at a garage sale. To dress it up, she tore small pieces of brown paper bags into small pieces, wrinkled them and glued them on the trunk. Several coats of polyurethane transferred the paper into something resembling leather.

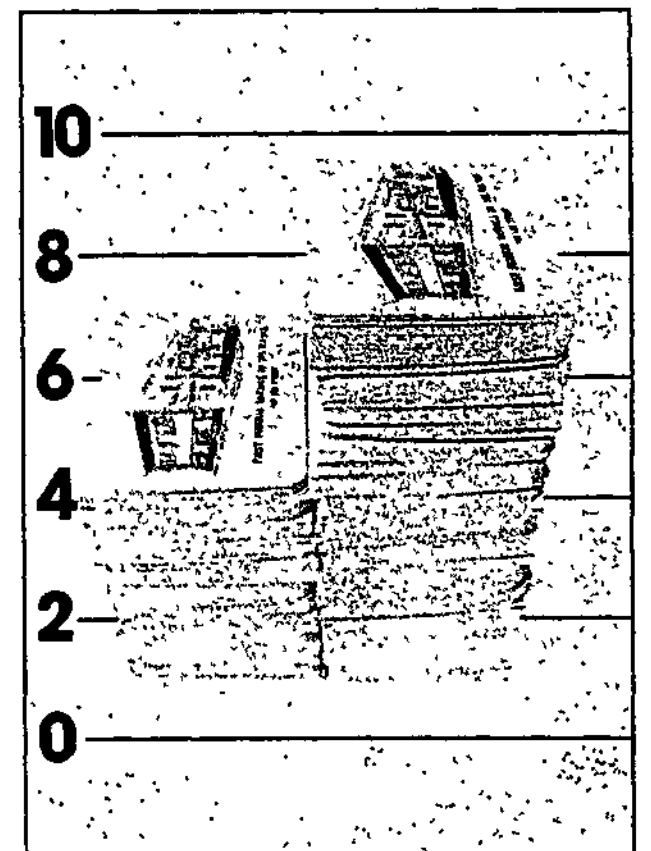

Mrs. Pritchett said she had seen the idea for using brown paper "somewhere" and had originally suggested using the idea for wallpaper. "I still think that would be a good idea," she said, "but we decided it was too time consuming. I still wanted to do something like that and I had the old trunk I paid $2 for at a garage sale so I tried it."

OTHER ROOMS in the budget house include a hobby center on the stair landing, designed for $74 by Jean Peterson, the coordinator of the Harper interior design program; a little girl's bedroom costing $100, designed by Merle J. Goodwin; a nursery with a cradle attached to a wall, designed by Danielle Palmer for $79; and the master bedroom, designed for $165 by Barbara Hayward and Anne Finkl.

Zale said the model will be open at Lakeside Villas. A brochure and slide presentation on the project will also be available.

Zale said he is pleased with the outcome of the project. "We usually spend as much as $20,000 or $25,000 on our model homes," he said, "and often we have found that people use their last dollar to buy a house and cannot afford a stick of furniture. Financing of a house is much easier than financing the furniture."

Year after year more people save more money in passbook accounts than any other kind of savings account. There has to be a reason why.

There are. Passbook accounts, more than any other kind of account, provide the saver with a record of accomplishment. Page after page, as the balance grows and the interest compounds, the pride of savings satisfaction increases. But there's more, lots more. A First Federal Savings passbook is designed for the undecided. If you want funds quickly, they are there, with no loss of earnings.

First Federal pays 5 1/4% annually on every dollar, every day it is on deposit. Passbook savings means easy access when you need the money without penalty.

A record of accomplishment. Maximum flexibility. Easy accessibility. High earnings paid from the day of deposit until the day of withdrawal. Insured safety. And above all First Federal Savings pays postage both ways on all transactions. You should have a First Federal of Des Plaines passbook. After all, it's the reasonable thing to do.

When their daughter finally got married,

sold their home and bought a Colony Country Condominium on beautiful Old Orchard Country Club.

WHY?

Barbara couldn't bear another empty bedroom and Bob enjoyed playing golf.

It's a new great life for the Lewises (almost a second honeymoon). At Colony Country they're still near their friends and Barbara can shop to her heart's content across the street at Randhurst Shopping Mall while Bob walks to his club (Old Orchard Country Club) where he has a year's free golf membership.

They're really enjoying the luxury of Colony Country. Indoor & Outdoor pools. Heated garage. Fresh air with a view of 230 acres (their country club). Complete recreational center including sauna. Free bus to the trains. And that's just the outside of a great life. Inside Barbara has her own color coordinated kitchen with a no-frost refrigerator, self-cleaning double oven range, automatic washer and garbage disposal. Luxury beyond compare with spacious rooms, closets and baths. Separate heating and air conditioning. Storm windows and screens plus sliding glass doors onto a private patio.

The Lewises compared other golf course locations for roominess, luxury and price and they found out nothing compares to Colony Country.

Women get involved in real estate

Involvement of women in real estate as consumers and professionals has grown rapidly in recent years and is expected to increase in the years ahead.

This estimate by Helen L. Hirt, president of the Women's Council of Realtors, an affiliate of the National Association of Realtors, is based upon results of a Realtor survey and her own experiences.

She has been in real estate for more than 30 years and currently is vice president of administration for AHM Graves, Inc., of Indianapolis.

"Changing attitudes toward women in the work force — attitudes which have allowed women to obtain more professional, high-paying jobs — have contributed to an increase in real estate sales to single women.

"And, there has been a sharp increase in the number of households headed by women," she added. "That number grew as much from 1970-73 as it did during the entire decade of the 1960s. A 1973 U.S. Census Bureau survey showed that 8.6 million families — about one out of eight families in the nation — had females as heads of the households.

"Most of them were widows, divorcees and women who had never married," the Women's Council president said. "Although we don't have current statistics on the percentage of female household heads who are or could afford to become homeowners, we do know that in 1970 half of them owned or were about to buy their own homes," she said.

As for women in the real estate profession, Ms. Hirt said: "Real estate is one field where women always have received equal pay for equal work. They are limited only by the amount of time they spend in the business and their effectiveness with prospects.

"Furthermore," she said, "many women would have aptitude for residential real estate. They know what other women appreciate in a home and they know how to present those aspects."

After experience in the residential field, Ms. Hirt said, some women now branch out into more specialized fields such as real estate management, appraising, research and commercial and industrial properties. The great majority, however, remain in the residential field.

"In addition, many women own and manage real estate firms — some of which are multi-office operations in large metropolitan areas," Ms. Hirt said.

Two other real estate-related gains the appointment of Carla Hills as secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and the passage last year of legislation strengthening women's rights to borrow money and obtain credit.

Under rules issued by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, every federally chartered savings and loan association making mortgage loans is required to consider "without prejudice" the combined income of both husband and wife when reviewing a married couple's loan application, she explained.

"In other words, banks can no longer refuse to count a wife's income on the assumption she inevitably will become pregnant and quit her job," Ms. Hirt explained. "nor can banks require married applicants to supply information on their birth control practices. As one financial consultant puts it: women are no longer a piggy bank."

segment of the economy," Ms. Hirt said.

New legislation also prohibits sex discrimination in loans by federally insured institutions. "Requiring single women with steady jobs or other income to get cosigners in order to obtain mortgage credit now is considered a discriminatory practice — unless men in the same income and credit situation are treated similarly," Ms. Hirt said.

"And speaking of an end to discriminatory practices, membership in the Women's Council of Realtors, which has grown seven times over in recent years to more than 12,500 members, is open to both men and women . . . and we have quite a few male members!"

The Women's Council was organized 36 years ago, Ms. Hirt said, at the suggestion of a man, Joseph Catherine, who then was president of the Realtors group, organized to council to assist capable women in making the adjustment from homemaker to business woman.

at the grand opening of the new Nelson Real Estate Schaumburg office, 120 W. Golf Road in Schaumburg. The office is staffed with 10 full time real estate sales personnel.

Dannon buys lot

Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates reports the sale of a 57,000 square foot parcel of land located at the southeast corner of Touhy and Lively, Elk Grove Village to The Dannon Mills Products, Division of Beatrice Foods. Dannon intends to build a 10,000 square foot distribution center for Dannon Yogurt Products being marketed in the Chicago area.

Vernon F. Schultz of Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates represented the purchaser. Both parties in the transaction were represented by house counsel. The building is being constructed by D. J. Velo Company and the completion date is early July.

LET'S TALK IT OVER

JERRY BOUSCHARD

Selling your property yourself to save the sales commission is something you'll probably consider before listing with us. It may work out well but definite hazards exist and they're pretty expensive.

You might spend too much improving or remodeling your property without a Realtor to guide you on what pays and what doesn't. You can price your property too high or too low; either is bad! You might accept an insincere or invalid offer and then spend months as well as money trying to free the property so a clear title can be given. You get conflicting suggestions from friends, who probably have no real experience.

We've had lots of good experience and we can see you through to a successful sale at a price that pleases all concerned. Thinking of selling? "Let's Talk It Over." No obligation, of course.

Senior citizens should invest

Louis M. Hetke of C. Neal Realty Co. in Palatine has some advice for senior citizens who own their homes.

The homeowner in his sixties, faced with increasing repairs, soaring fuel costs and higher taxes, may find his home expenses consuming more and more of his limited income.

Hetke advises couples in this situation to sell their home and use the proceeds as a down payment on income property, perhaps an eight-apartment building located in a good rental area.

"As an income property owner, you are in a position to build a financial structure that will provide real security and independence and a fine cushion for the continuing inflationary trend," Hetke said.

Convention in progress today

A National Marketing Network of Realtors has a unique approach to conventions.

It's bringing a recap of its recent annual convention held in San Juan, Puerto Rico to Chicago.

According to IIFL's national president, Geo. P. Shafan, of Arlington, Va., "We decided to bring the convention to our members, as the great distance to travel to our convention this year in Puerto Rico prevented a number of our more than 10,000 brokers and sales associates from attending."

Called "Instant Replay" the special two-day regional sessions will be conducted during May in 19 cities. In Chicago, it is being held today at the Sheraton-Walden, Schaumburg. Conducting the meeting will be Jos. F. Jedlicka, Jr., and James Kramer, IIFL vice presidents.

The "Instant Replay" convention will include highlights from the more than 20 educational sessions which were held during the four-day Puerto Rico convention. These topics include, "Budgeting," "Time Management," "Communications," "Creative Financing," "Retained Earnings" and "Assisting Corporate Transferees."

Also to be presented will be important highlights of talks delivered by keynote speakers at the convention. The IIFL Network is comprised of over 1,000 real estate offices serving over 7,000 communities in all 50 states and Puerto Rico. IIFL Network affiliated members provide current national housing information and relocation services to the American home buying and selling public. Network members in 1974 had combined residential real estate sales in excess of $4 billion.

Condo owners form garden club

A cross section of northwest suburban residents are leading a communal existence two hours each week. Twenty-eight Wheeling residents spanning a spectrum of nine to 65 years of age have formed one of the most unusual food cooperatives in the Chicago area.

Hoping to slash their weekly food costs and add a new dimension of freshness to their summer diets, residents of Lake of the Winds condominium community who are members of the Green Thumb Club plan to harvest two tons of fresh produce before Jack Frost puts them out of business next October.

The 28 "Green Thumbs," all residents of luxury condominiums, have the enthusiastic support of Lake of the Winds developers, Melster-Nelberg Company, Inc. Melster-Nelberg had encouraged such one-of-a-kind activities in both their 20-acre Wheeling development and 87-acre Raintree community in Glen Ellyn. The Bath and Racquet Clubs in both developments have consistently acted as catalysts for swimming, tennis, ice skating, belly dancing, handicraft and social functions. This time, supported by the financial backing of the developers, residents are putting acreage to very productive use.

The Green Thumb Club literally began from the seed bag of horticulturalist Chuck Patterson who upon getting his annual seed catalogues sent a note to his neighbors at Lake of the Winds inviting them to join him with his plans for a garden. There was such an enthusiastic response — more than 40 individuals attended an evening meeting in the community's Bath and Racquet Club — that the Green Thumb Club was organized for the express purpose of neighbors joining together to cultivate a summer garden from which Club members will reap the rewards.

In the next five months members of the Green Thumb Club hope to enjoy such delicacies as watermelons, cantaloupes, pumpkins, tomatoes, egg plants, spinach, squash, corn, green beans, peas and other crops planted in the spring.

The success of the Green Thumb Club will most likely depend on the willingness of residents to leave the central air conditioning of their condominiums and pull themselves away from the tennis courts and the pool at the Bath and Racquet Club to toil in the summer heat in their garden plot.

The Lake of the Winds development is the newest Melster-Nelberg development with the first of four, low-rise condominium buildings containing 300 units now completed and ranging in price from $25,950 to $37,500. To reach Lake of the Winds, take Edens Expressway north to Willow Road, Exit west and drive to Schoenbeck road, turn right and proceed two miles to Hintz Road. Turn left and drive one-half mile to Waterman Lane.

Edward Perry gains G.R.I.

Edward A. Perry of Quinlan and Tyson, Inc., Realtors, has qualified for the coveted G.R.I. designation. A real estate sales representative in the firm's Palatine area office, Perry completed the last of three courses required for the G.R.I. designation by the Illinois Association of Realtors.

In addition, two other sales representatives in the Palatine area office attended a G.R.I. course at the recent

Edward Perry

IAR session in Peoria. They are Mary Kohl and Evelyn Roman.

Last year, in his first full year with Quinlan and Tyson, Perry went over the million mark in sales. He now has sold about $2 million in property since joining Quinlan and Tyson in April of 1973.

Perry and his wife, Ellen, have four children. The Perrys live in Palatine.

Jack Kemmerly

Quinlan & Tyson offers free flowers

The Buffalo Grove area may soon be populated with thousands of marigold flowers, thanks to Quinlan and Tyson, Inc., Realtors.

The firm's Buffalo Grove Area Office has launched Operation Marigold by distributing thousands of free packets of marigold seeds to homeowners.

Robert Griffith, office sales manager, said, "We want the people in the area to know that we really care about our neighborhoods. So we have begun distributing the packets of seeds to our neighbors."

"For those wishing to get an early start, we invite any adult homeowners to stop by our office in the Buffalo Grove Mall Shopping Center and pick up a complimentary pack of Marigolds."

Kemmerly celebrates 14th year

Jack L. Kemmerly of Kemmerly Real Estate celebrated his 14th year in real estate Sunday by hosting 140 of his sales staff to dinner and the play at the Marriott Motel and Drury Lane Theatre in Lincolnshire.

"The growth of the company from a staff of three and one office in Palatine to a staff of over 100 salespeople and 10 offices in the northwest suburbs has been phenomenal," Kemmerly said.

Throughout the years, Kemmerly has instituted many firsts. Kemmerly had the first office in MAP to serve Schaumburg. He was the first broker in the northwest suburbs to open his doors from 9 to 9. A display board at the Holiday Inn in Rolling Meadows features homes for sale and a "HOT LINE" direct to Kemmerly offices to put the buyers in immediate contact with the sales staff.

Extensive advertising is done in newspapers and radio as well as local periodicals, especially the firm's own "Showcase of Fine Homes," a magazine mailed to over 75,000 local homes and apartments. Transferred personnel from Kansas City can call collect to Kemmerly offices inasmuch as weekly ads appear in the Kansas City Star. Kemmerly has sponsored bowling teams, Little League teams and football teams in the areas it serves.

Kemmerly has offices in Arlington Heights, Streamwood, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Roselle, Palatine, Hanover Park, Buffalo Grove and two offices in Prospect Heights.

Kole adds staffer

Kole Real Estate, Ltd. announces the addition of Jeanne Herstein to the Des Plaines office.

Mrs. Herstein began her career in real estate in 1949 in St. Louis County, Missouri. She was a broker member of the St. Louis County Board of Realtors.

In 1954 she and her husband, Herman, moved to Des Plaines. She had her own real estate office called Cambridge Realty from 1966 to 1970. In 1968 she served as vice president of the Northwest Suburban Multiple Listing Service.

Mr. and Mrs. Herstein reside in Des Plaines. They have three daughters.

Homefinders has $5 million month

Homefinders Realtors, based in Palatine, announces the first $5 million month in sales of residential dwellings in its seven year history.

"The great showing at this time is a tribute to the deliberate expansion of our firm in 1974," asserts Robert L. Zaun, president of Homefinders. "In that one year we expanded from seven offices to 12 in four counties. In a bad market, it was truly a risky decision. However, our market research has proven to be correct. We expect our sales figures to continue to move upward."

The 12 sales offices are located in Antioch, Waukegan, Arlington Heights, Streamwood, Buffalo Grove, Schaumburg, Lake Zurich, Roselle, McHenry, Palatine, Mount Prospect and Libertyville.

Headquartered at 235 N. Northwest Highway, Palatine, Homefinders also maintains a commercial and investment division and sponsors the Homefinders Institute of Real Estate.

Suburban legislators' bills to die if House doesn't act

by BOB LAHEY

SPRINGFIELD — Here is a sampling of major legislation sponsored by Northwest suburban legislators which could be killed Friday night if the Illinois House fails to meet its own deadline for action on House bills:

• Rep. Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie: Bills combining all horse-racing regulations under one statute and expanding police powers of the Illinois Racing Board; providing for a partial hearing officer at the request of a tenured teacher discharged by a school board; and requiring display of voting registration cards at school board elections.

• Rep. Virginia Macdonald, R-Arlington Heights: Bills to abolish per diem payment to state legislators after June 30 of each year to encourage timely adjournment of the legislature; to establish a year-round commission to study the problems of park districts and local acquisition of open spaces; and to permit absentee voting until the day before elections.

• Rep. Donald L. Totten, R-Hoffman Estates: Bills abolishing all commissions under the direction of the Illinois legislature; and a package of bills providing added protection to buyers of condominium homes.

• Rep. John E. Porter, R-Evanston: Bills to prohibit payment of salaries to any elected official following their conviction of a felony; to permit school boards to make purchases without bids in amounts up to $5,000, rather than $25,000; and to authorize townships to cut weeds on untended property and to bill the owner for the expense.

• Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights: A bill to extend

Homestead exemption rises $500

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — The Illinois Senate voted Wednesday to increase property-tax relief for the elderly by raising the "homestead exemption" from $1,500 to $2,000.

The Senate also approved a measure allowing state's attorneys to prosecute without going to a grand jury and a bill allowing workmen's compensation benefits to be paid to survivors if an injured worker dies.

Under the homestead-exemption proposal, which passed 38 to 5, owners 65 or over could exempt an additional $500 from the assessed value of their homes in computing real-estate taxes, raising the exemption to $2,000.

The Senate also decided 42 to 2 that state's attorneys may prosecute on the basis of a citizen's complaint, information obtained in a state's attorney's investigation or by the usual grand jury indictment.

The workmen's-compensation bill would prevent a cutoff of benefits to an injured worker's family if the worker dies.

to other areas of the state a law requiring landlords to pay interest on security deposits from their tenants, as now is required only in the City of Chicago.

• Rep. Harold Katz, D-Glenview: Bills requiring state standards for continuing education on licensed physicians; and a package of bills for protection of physically handicapped persons.

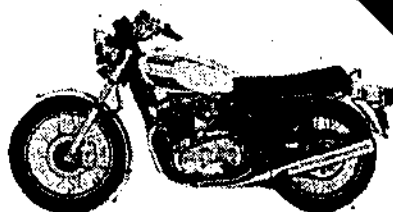

• Rep. Brian Duff, R-Willmette: Bills establishing uniform state standards for the granting of probation creating a system of public defenders for persons accused of misdemeanors which might carry jail sentences; to abolish any state agency when the legislature fails to appropriate funds for its operation; and to increase the compensation of witnesses in criminal cases from $10 to $20 a day.

• Rep. Jack B. Williams, D-Franklin Park: Bills to increase police powers over massage parlors and to place regulations of such establishments under state laws defining prostitution; and to require payment of interest on all escrow funds.

• Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights: Bills to establish a commission under the Dept. of Mental Health which would review all requests for rate increases by hospitals; to increase the maximum state grants for students of public and private colleges from $1,350 to $1,500 per year; and to authorize local school boards to permit educational travel by students to locations other than in the State of Illinois and adjoining states.

Economist sees better days; 3rd-quarter upturn forecast

by STEVE NOVICK

"Even the people who don't pay their bills have stopped buying," a friend in retailing recently told Walter Fackler, University of Chicago economic forecaster.

Fackler, speaking to area businessmen at a program sponsored by the Bank of Elk Grove, told the anecdote while predicting the United States is near the bottom of its current economic decline and that a slow upturn is about to start.

He said unemployment, expected to reach 9 per cent this month, will ease slowly. Fackler addressed 400 persons at the Brasserie restaurant, Arlington Heights.

Part of the problems that cause economic decline and will keep businessmen from making a rapid comeback are federal regulatory agencies and deficit spending, he added.

FAKLER CALLED Sen. Charles Percy a "nitwit" for advocating the proposed Consumer Protection Agency and said it will do nothing for the consumer.

He said the Food and Drug Administration keeps products off the market that save lives and the cost of safety equipment in cars has put these devices out of the range of the consumer. The occupational safety and environmental-protection costs industry faces are the option we have to capital that could be used to increase productivity, he added.

He predicted stock market increases that indicate there will be a slow upward turn in the economy beginning now or in the third quarter of 1975.

Only big sales increases in the auto and housing industries can bring a sharp uplift to the economy, Fackler said. Auto sales will not pick up until the 1976 models come out and there's no evidence the housing industry will have a substantial number of new housing starts despite the availability of mortgage money, he added.

It will be 18 months before the country's productivity is where it was at the peak in 1973. From there "we'll start on a new, real growth pattern" mixed with "high inflation."

THE INFLATION will be caused by the $100 billion federal deficit for the next two years, because industry will have to compete with the government for money needed for capital improvements, he said.

Unemployment will be a lagging indicator of the economy because recessions teach industry "we can get back to the same output with less man-hours," said Fackler.

Newspaper headlines Wednesday telling of revised downward figures for the Gross National Product during the first quarter were misleading, he added.

The GNP is readjusted six times in a year for any given quarter due to new information that is continually pouring in.

Inflation, currently at a 7 per cent annual increase, may drop to 6 per cent, he said, which is good because it was 12 per cent last year, said Fackler. But, he said 1977 will see large increases in inflation that our society may have to get used to if economic growth is to compete with the government.

Chicken Noodle Soup

- 1 tablespoon soy sauce
- 1 cup small strips uncooked chicken breast
- 2 tablespoons corn oil
- 6 cups chicken stock or bouillon
- 2 cups fresh broccoli, cut into 1-inch pieces
- 1 cup finely sliced celery
- 2 tablespoons corn starch
- 4 ounces vermicelli (very thin) noodles

Pour soy sauce over chicken. Heat corn oil in heavy 3-quart saucepan over medium heat. Add chicken. Cook, stirring constantly, until chicken is tender. Add $5\frac{1}{2}$ cups of the stock, broccoli and celery. Cover. Bring to boil; reduce heat and simmer 15 minutes. Mix corn starch and remaining $\frac{1}{2}$ cup cool stock; stir into soup. Boil, stirring constantly, 1 minute until soup clears. Meanwhile, cook noodles according to package directions. Drain; rinse with hot water. Spoon into individual serving bowls. Pour soup mixture over noodles. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Note 1 package (10 ounces) frozen broccoli, thawed, may be substituted for fresh broccoli. Reduce simmering time to 10 minutes.

Quick Stir Beef and Asparagus

- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon sherry
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon sugar
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 pound lean beef, diagonally sliced (1x2 inches)
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup corn oil
- 1 pound asparagus, diagonally cut in 2-inch pieces
- 1 cup beef broth
- $1\frac{1}{2}$ tablespoons corn starch
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt

Mix together soy sauce, sherry, garlic, sugar and ginger. Add beef to soy sauce mixture. Stir, cover and marinate at least 1 hour. Drain beef, reserving marinade. Heat corn oil in large heavy skillet over medium high heat. Add beef and cook, stirring constantly, until browned. Add asparagus and stir quickly about 3 minutes. Mix together broth, corn starch, salt and marinade until smooth. Stir into beef and asparagus mixture. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to boil and boils 1 minute. Make about 4 servings.

Note 2 packages (10 ounces) frozen asparagus spears, partially thawed may be used.

Oriental Fried Chicken Breasts

- 2 whole broiler-fryer chicken breasts, skinned, halved and boned
- Salt
- Pepper
- 2 eggs
- 1 tablespoon water
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup corn starch
- 1 pint (about) corn oil

Cut chicken breasts into large strips. Sprinkle strips with salt and pepper. Beat eggs and water until well mixed. Dip chicken into egg mixture, then into corn starch, coating evenly. Dip into egg mixture again; drain off excess. Pour corn oil into large, deep skillet to a depth of $\frac{1}{4}$ inch. Heat over medium heat. To fry in electric fry pan, heat to 375 degrees or follow manufacturer's directions. Carefully add chicken strips in a single layer. Fry, 5 to 8 minutes turning once, until light golden brown and tender. Drain on absorbent paper. Makes 4 servings.

Note: 1 broiler-fryer, cut in serving pieces, may also be fried in this way. Follow recipe for Oriental Fried Chicken Breasts, but fry bone-in chicken pieces 25 to 30 minutes turning once until light golden brown and tender. Drain on absorbent paper. Makes 4 servings.

Sweet and Sour Shrimp

- 1 pound medium shrimp, shelled and cleaned
- 1 tablespoon soy sauce
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1 tablespoon water
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup corn starch
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup corn oil
- 1 cup diagonally sliced celery
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sliced scallions
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped preserved ginger
- 1 small green pepper, cut in thin strips
- 2 cloves garlic, finely minced
- 4 teaspoons corn starch
- 2 teaspoons salt
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup cider vinegar
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup light or dark corn syrup
- 1 medium tomato, cut in wedges

Sprinkle shrimp with soy sauce. Toss lightly and marinate $\frac{1}{2}$ hour. Mix eggs and 1 tablespoon water. Dip shrimp into egg mixture, then into corn starch and return to egg mixture. Drain off excess. Heat $\frac{1}{4}$ cup of the corn oil over medium heat in large skillet, saute shrimp 3 to 5 minutes or until opaque. Remove from skillet. Pour remaining corn oil into skillet; add celery, scallions, green pepper, ginger and garlic. Cook stirring frequently, 3 to 5 minutes, until vegetables are tender-crisp. Mix together 4 teaspoons corn starch, salt and $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water; add with vinegar and corn syrup to mixture in skillet. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens. Add shrimp and tomato; simmer 2 to 3 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Quick Stir Ham and Spinach

- 1 pound spinach
- 2 tablespoons corn oil
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 1 small clove garlic, finely chopped
- $\frac{1}{2}$ pound cooked ham, cut in match stick pieces
- 2 tablespoons water
- 2 tablespoons corn starch
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water

Remove stems from spinach. Wash thoroughly. Drain well. Heat corn oil in large skillet over medium heat. Add onion, garlic and ham and saute until lightly browned, stirring frequently. Add spinach and the 2 tablespoons water. Cover tightly. Continue cooking 5 minutes, stirring once. With a spoon, blend corn starch and remaining water and stir into ham-spinach mixture. Cook 1 minute longer, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and clears. Makes 4 servings.

Note Two packages (10 ounces each) frozen leaf spinach may be substituted for fresh spinach. Omit the 2 tablespoons water and cook spinach with the ham 5 to 7 minutes, occasionally breaking block with a fork to hasten thawing.

Fortune Cookies

- 1 egg
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons corn oil
- 2 tablespoons water
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup corn starch

Beat egg with hand rotary beater or low speed on electric mixer until fluffy. Beat in sugar, a little at a time, continue beating until mixture is a very light yellow and thick. Fold in corn oil. With a spoon, blend water and a little of the egg mixture into corn starch; gently stir into remaining egg mixture.

Heat heavy, well seasoned griddle to 350 degrees or until a few drops of water bounce when dropped on griddle. (For griddle without a temperature control, keep heat under griddle between low and medium.) Bake batter by dropping heaping tablespoonfuls onto heated griddle and spreading each to a circle about 4 inches in diameter and $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch thick with back of spoon. Cook until edges are slightly brown and cookies can easily be lifted from griddle with spatula, 5 to 8 minutes. (If a cookie sticks, bottom needs to be cooked a little longer.) Turn each cookie carefully. Cook other side until a light golden brown. (Be careful to keep temperature of griddle even so cookies will be light brown.) Place small strip of paper containing fortune on each cookie as soon as it is removed from griddle. Then fold each of two opposite edges of cookie over to center, keeping fortune inside; bend cookie in half, across the folds, keeping folded edges on outside. Set in small glass until cookie cools enough to hold its shape. Makes about 12 cookies.

Note: Bake as many cookies at a time as griddle will hold. Wipe crumbs off griddle and stir batter lightly before using.

- 1 teaspoon dill weed

In medium saucepan, sprinkle unflavored gelatin over 1 cup water. Stir over heat until gelatin dissolves, about 3 minutes; add remaining ½ cup water, sour cream, thousand island dressing, lemon juice, salmon, onion and dill. Turn into 6-cup mold and chill until firm, about 4 hours.

Unmold onto serving platter and garnish, if desired, with fresh dill and cucumber slices. Serve as a spread with party-size bread and cucumber slices. Makes about 24 servings.

SALMON PATE

Tips on eggs

Here are some hints and facts on using and storing eggs.

- Buy eggs from a refrigerated case.
- Refrigerate eggs promptly at home, large end up, to help maintain quality.
- Variations in temperature while the eggs are stored cause egg whites to become thin.
- Use only high-quality, clean eggs with sound shells when making egg noggs, milk shakes or lightly cooked dishes.
- Cook at low to moderate temperatures — high temperatures and overcooking toughens eggs.
- Eggs are nutritious. They contain significant amounts of vitamin A, iron, protein and riboflavin (vitamin B2), as well as smaller amounts of many other nutrients.
- The thick, white, cord-like material located on opposite sides of the yolk is called the chalaza and is a normal part of the egg. The chalaza holds the yolk in place in the white.
- Shell color is determined by breed of the hen and does not affect the grade, nutritive value, flavor or cooking performance of the egg.

Cheese care

All natural cheese should be kept refrigerated. Soft unripened cheeses, such as cottage, cream or Neufchatel, are quite perishable and should be used within a few days after purchase.

Ripened or cured cheese keeps well in refrigerator for several weeks if protected from mold contamination and drying. When possible the original wrapper or covering should be left on the cheese. The cut surface of cheese should be covered with wax paper, foil or plastic wrapping material to protect the surface from drying.

If large pieces are to be stored for any extended length of time, the cut surface may be dipped in hot paraffin. Small pieces may be completely rewrapped. Mold, which may develop in natural cheeses, is not harmful, and it is easily scraped or cut from the surface of the cheese.

Ends or pieces of cheese that have become dried out and hard may be grated and kept in a clean tightly covered jar in the refrigerator and used for garnishing.

Strawberry Trifle

Short cut to great dessert

by LOIS SEILER

A mere Trifle will make a memorable dessert for a Memorial Day party.

Katie Kennard, Mount Prospect, likes Trifle to a fruit pudding, although it could be considered a fanciful version of strawberry shortcake.

Easy to prepare, it consists of yellow cake, frozen strawberries and vanilla pudding assembled in layers and topped with whipped cream and toasted almonds. Katie uses a cut glass bowl, which enhances its appearance.

Katie is busy attending classes to complete her college degree and candidly admits that she enjoys good food but doesn't like to spend too much time in the kitchen. Using packaged cake and pudding mixes cuts down on preparation time for this dessert and it has the convenient feature of tasting better if made a day ahead.

She makes a 9 by 13-inch cake, using only half for the Trifle. Her sons, Bill and Chuck, students at Hersey High, and Andrew, a kindergarten teacher, make short work of polishing off the remaining half.

President of the Mount Prospect Newcomers, Katie and her husband, Dave, also belong to Newcomers Gourmet. She has served the Trifle successfully to this group, taken it to bridge pot lucks, and highly recommends it as a lovely dessert for a ladies luncheon.

Katie found that when she fixed fussy meals she didn't entertain as much. Changing her style, she simplified menus, invites friends in more often and enjoys her guests. During the summer months she likes meat cooked on the grill. Whether it be hamburgers or a baked ham, her American Potato Salad makes an appealing accompaniment.

Prepared from a family recipe, Katie has been making this salad ever since her marriage. She prefers Idaho potatoes, cooking them with the skins on. When cool, they are peeled, cut up and combined with onion, green pepper, cucumber, celery, radishes, hard cooked eggs and salad dressing. Tomato slices may be used for garnish.

The tasty Potato Salad should be made in the morning for the Memorial Day picnic or pot luck supper.

STRAWBERRY TRIFLE

- 1 package yellow cake mix (2 layer size)
- 1 3-ounce package vanilla pudding
- 1 16-ounce package frozen strawberries, thawed
- 1 cup whipping cream
- ¼ cup confectioners' sugar
- ¼ cup blanched and silvered almonds, toasted

Prepare cake according to package directions. Bake in a greased and floured 9 by 13-inch pan. When cool, cut cake in half. Only one half of the cake is used for the Trifle.

While cake is baking, prepare the pudding according to package directions. Chill until ready to use.

Cut the cake that is to be used for the Trifle into eight pieces. Then cut each piece in half horizontally. Arrange half the pieces in the bottom of a two-quart glass serving bowl. Pour all of the strawberries and syrup over the cake and spread with half of the cooled pudding. Repeat layers. Cover and chill.

AMERICAN POTATO SALAD

- 8 to 10 large potatoes
 - 1 large onion, finely chopped
 - ½ cucumber, chopped
 - ½ green pepper, chopped
 - 2 ribs celery, chopped
 - 6 large radishes, sliced thin
 - Salt and pepper to taste
 - Miracle Whip Salad Dressing
 - 3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- Boil potatoes with skins on. Drain off water. When cool, peel and cut into bite-sized pieces. Add onion, cucumber, green pepper, celery, radishes, salt and pepper and enough salad dressing to coat ingredients. Add eggs and mix lightly. Correct seasoning. Chill until served. Garnish with tomato slices, if desired. Serves 10 to 12.

This is best made early in the day for the flavors to blend. Leftovers are good the next day.

Combination dishes add new life to vegetables

Vegetables, at times sorely neglected, are becoming more important as meat prices rise and restriction of fat and cholesterol intake is stressed.

Combining two or more vegetables is a way to create a flavorful and nutritious side dish. For a new combination try Vegetable Combo, a dish that blends zucchini, kidney beans and tomatoes for a delicious skillet dish with an Italian accent.

VEGETABLE COMBO

- 1 green pepper, seeded and cut into strips
- 1 cup sliced onion
- 3 tablespoons margarine

- 1½ pounds zucchini, cubed
 - 1 can (19 ounces) whole tomatoes, drained
 - ¼ cup drained canned kidney beans
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - ¼ teaspoon crushed basil leaves
 - 1/8 teaspoon pepper
 - 1 tablespoon cornstarch
 - 1 tablespoon water
- Saute green pepper and onion in margarine, until soft. Add zucchini, tomatoes, kidney beans, salt, basil and pepper. Cover; simmer 15 minutes in skillet. Cook until thickened, about 1 minute. Makes 10 servings.

BEEF STEW MEDITERRANEAN

Thermidor is flavorful lunch fare

As the main dish for a summertime luncheon or brunch for six, try this thermidor which may be made with crabmeat, shrimp or a combination.

First chop 1/2 cup onion and 1/4 cup green pepper and saute in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine until tender. Don't brown. Add 1 can of undiluted cream of potato (or cream of shrimp) soup, then 2 1/2 cup half and half.

Heat slowly, stirring constantly until thoroughly heated but don't boil. Stir in 1/2 cup shredded sharp cheddar (or swiss) cheese and remove from heat. Add contents of 2 packages (8-ounce each) frozen crabmeat which has been well thawed, drained and picked. Now add 2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice. Stir and reheat.

To serve put in patty shells, individual ramekins or spoon over toast points. Garnish with fresh parsley. For those who like the flavor, you can add 2 and 3 tablespoons dry sherry, but remember a thermidor should be creamy and not too thin.

HERE ARE two excellent potato recipes which you may like for variety in menus. Crusty baked potatoes are cooked whole after washing and paring. You'll need 1 good-sized potato per serving, but allow a few extras because these are good.

Put potatoes dry and roll them in 4 tablespoons butter melted in saucepan. Next coat evenly with a mixture of 1/2 cup fine bread crumbs mixed with 1 teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon paprika. This will be enough for 6 potatoes.

Put potatoes in a shallow buttered casserole and pour over any remaining butter used for coating. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes, then remove cover and turn potatoes so they will brown evenly as you bake another 20 minutes or until tender.

Potatoes gratyere also are simple to prepare. Peel and slice 4 to 5 potatoes Provence, which lies along the blue seacoast of southern France, is famous for its cuisine. Dishes prepared a la Provencale are served throughout France.

In its customs, especially cooking, Provence resembles Italy, its eastern neighbor. As in most Mediterranean areas, olive oil, garlic and tomatoes are in abundant supply.

This recipe for Daube de Boeuf a la Provencale, a dish typical of the region is taken from Alma Lach's "How's and Why's of French Cooking." Alma's cookbook is available in bookstores for $12.50 and includes a host of interesting recipes from both Paris and the French provinces.

DAUBE DE BOEUF A LA PROVENCALE

(Beef Stew Mediterranean Style)

6 slices bacon
Salt and pepper
6 cloves garlic minced fine
Minced parsley, lots
3 pounds lean chuck beef in the piece

MARINADE:
2 cups white wine, approximately

1/4 cup olive oil
3 tablespoons Cognac
FOR BRAISING:
3 slices bacon
4 carrots
4 large onions
1/2 pound mushrooms, sliced
6 whole, canned plum tomatoes
1/2 pound pork shoulder, diced
1 cup Italian black olives
2 bay leaves
6 sprigs parsley
1 branch thyme, or 1/8 teaspoon

1. Lay 6 bacon slices on a large cutting board. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, garlic and parsley.

2. Cut 6 pieces of meat from the chuck that are about 2 by 3 inches in size. Lay each piece, lengthwise, on the bacon slices. Fold bacon around the meat and tie like a package. Place in a non-metal flat dish. Cut remainder of beef into chunks. Add to dish. Pour marinade of wine, oil and Cognac into the dish. Let meat marinate 3 hours.

3. Put 3 bacon slices into the bottom of a casserole. Peel carrots. Cut on the diagonal into 1/8-inch thick slices. Put on top of bacon. Peel onions. Cut into 1/8-inch thick slices and separate into rings.

4. Put beef packages on top of carrots and the pieces of beef around the packages of meat. Add the onion rings and mushrooms. With a fork, mash the tomatoes, discarding the tough stem end. Add tomatoes to casserole. Add pieces of pork shoulder and tuck olives down into the tomatoes. Add bay leaves, parsley and thyme. Add marinade liquids. Bring to a boil on top of the range. Cover with foil and press the casserole lid into the foil to close casserole tight. Braise in a 350-degree oven for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 300 degrees and cook another 2 1/2 hours.

5. Discard bay leaves, parsley and thyme branch if used. Put meat packages on serving platter. Remove strings without damaging packages. Place packages along center of platter. Put meat pieces and vegetables around them. Skim fat from surface of liquids and discard. Spoon sauce over meat. Add boiled potatoes to the serving platter if you wish and serve with French bread. This sauce is great for "dunking."

either red or white and layer them in a generously buttered casserole, sprinkling each layer with salt and pepper and dotting lightly with butter.

When all potatoes have been layered in the baking dish, cover them with chicken (or beef) broth. The broth should come almost to the top of the casserole. Bake uncovered for 45 minutes at 350 degrees. Check for doneness and, if needed, pour off some of the broth. Sprinkle with 1/2 cup grated gruyere (or other Swiss) cheese and return to the oven until cheese is nicely browned. Serves 4.

Dress up burgers with spreads

Burgers on the grill are common summer menu items but they are just the beginning of the fun you can have with variations.

A parade of toppers will make hamburgers a real bonanza at your next cookout. There is even a dunkin' dip for French fries, a spicy combo of sour cream and chili sauce.

BURGER BONANZA

- 1 1/2 pounds ground beef
- 1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
- 1/4 cup milk
- 1/4 cup chopped onions
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 8 hamburger buns
- Butter-Blue Cheese Spread
- Cheese-Relish Spread
- Chili-Cheese Spread
- Cheese-Olive Spread

Combine meat, crumbs, milk and seasonings; mix lightly. Shape into 8 patties. Broil or grill to desired doneness. Spread as desired with:

CHEESE-OLIVE SPREAD

- 1/2 cup dairy sour cream
- 1/2 cup shredded Brick cheese
- 1/4 cup chopped pimiento-stuffed olives
- Combine ingredients. Makes 1 cup.

BUTTER-BLUE CHEESE SPREAD

- 1/2 cup butter
- 1/4 cup crumbled Blue cheese
- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- Combine softened butter, blue cheese and Worcestershire sauce; mix until well blended. Makes 3/4 cup.

CHEESE-RELISH SPREAD

- 2 packages (3 ounces) cream cheese
- 1/4 cup pickle relish
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- Combine softened cream cheese, pickle relish and mustard; mix until well blended. Makes 1 cup.

CHILI-CHEESE SPREAD

- 1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese
- 1/2 cup chili sauce
- Combine ingredients. Makes 1 cup.

DUNKIN' DIP

- 1 1/2 cups dairy sour cream
- 1/2 cup chili sauce
- 1 (2 pound) package frozen French fries
- Combine sour cream and chili sauce; chill. Serve with French fries, prepared according to package directions.

Cover story

To cover or not to cover may be the question when it comes to meat cookery. If it's a tender cut to be roasted, the rule is not to cover. Simply place the meat on a rack in an open shallow pan. Less tender cuts of meat demand a cover since they need to be braised — cooked by moist heat. That usually means adding liquid and always means covering the pot or pan

Dinners for two for under $1?

by JEANNE LESEM

Imagine a dinner for two that costs only $1. A New York bank asked some experts to do just that. They came up with enough ideas and main dish recipes for a week of interesting and nutritious meals for a middle income family at 50 cents or less per person.

Amazingly, the experts managed to stretch some menus to include dessert and beverage, for a price that is below the average economy level for food expenditures estimated by the federal government.

The simple, easy recipes they provided were lamb stew, a sardine-noodle platter that can be prepared in 10 minutes, chicken tarragon with rice, liver at polenta with Italian-style corn meal mush, pork steak Alsatian, an Italian fish dinner and eggplant casserole. Here are three of the recipes:

FOR EASY lamb stew, cut up a 1 pound breast of lamb, and brown it in its own fat. Add 3 peeled potatoes, halved, 1 carrot, cut in circles, 1 onion, cut up, salt, pepper and rosemary or any other herb, and 2 cups of water. Cover and simmer 45 minutes to 1 hour, or until lamb is tender. Serves 2 persons, and the $1 cost covers homemade hot biscuits, shredded cabbage salad and sliced bananas with a spoonful of homemade yogurt. Serves 2.

Chicken tarragon with rice for two cost 97 cents, including the rice. By substituting water for a quarter cup of dry white wine in the chicken dish, you could include a salad for the same price as the wine: 12 cents.

Cost 1 pound of chicken thighs with 2 tablespoons of flour, and saute quickly to brown all sides in a saucepan heated with 1 tablespoon each of butter and oil. Add 1 tablespoon of lemon juice, 1 teaspoon of dried tarragon, one fourth cup of dry white wine or water, and salt and pepper to taste.

Bake 20-25 minutes in preheated 325-degree oven, or until chicken juices run clear. Cook half a cup of raw rice, and serve chicken and sauce over it. Serves 2.

WITH PORK STEAK Alsatian, you get potatoes with the casserole and beer left over from the recipe to serve as a beverage.

Buy a fresh pork shoulder, and ask the butcher to cut a three-quarter pound steak from it. The remainder can be roasted. Leftovers cooked with drippings and sauerkraut will make a second casserole, and the bones can be cooked with dry beans to make a fourth low cost meal.

Brown the steak on both sides in fat obtained from rendering some of the trimmings. Remove steak from pan, add half a medium onion, peeled and sliced thinly, and cook until brown but not wilted. Rinse and drain half a pound of sauerkraut; add it to the pan, along with a quarter teaspoon of pepper, a pinch of caraway, if on hand, and a quarter cup of either beer or water. Top with the steak, cover tightly and cook about 25 minutes over low heat or in a preheated 325-degree oven. Serve with 2 small boiled potatoes. Serves 2.

Proper home cooking of beef studied

Almost as much beef is ruined on the cooking range as the open range, says a Texas Tech University professor.

"Housewives often feel uneasy about meat cookery and welcome any help," said Boyd Ramsey, a professor of animal science. "An excellent steak can become ordinary or poor in eating quality if improperly cooked, and a potentially tough cut can be made tender with proper cooking."

Ramsey said the meat section of the Department of Animal Science at Texas Tech is doing a lot more study of proper home cooking of beef.

He said common errors include using the wrong cooking methods for a particular cut.

"DRY HEAT METHODS of broiling or roasting should be used on tender steaks. Braising or cooking in liquid is needed for less tender cuts."

"The other major problem usually is overcooking. Meat which is potentially tender, juicy and flavorful will become tougher, dry and less flavorful if overcooked."

Ramsey recommends using a meat thermometer even with steaks.

"Steaks already are cut too thin for optimum palatability," he said.

The larger the ribeye, the thinner steaks are cut to keep a reasonable cost per serving cost, he said.

"WE NEED THICKER cuts to retain juiciness during cooking."

He said they could be obtained by making primary steak cuts thicker and dividing them into portions. Present practice results in thinner steaks cut all the way across a muscle or muscles.

A few years ago he thought cutting procedures would change to give an advantage to larger and more muscular cattle. But he said it hasn't happened yet.

"Beef is the most popular meat, but it may not remain so if some of its eating quality is lost through failure to select for it," he said.

"IN THE NEAR future, a shaking of the exotic cattle's tree likely will occur," he said. "After we get past the initial stages when considerable money can be made from scarcity, the breeds or strains which have something to offer will stay and the others will fade away."

Ramsey said feeders and producers currently like exotic breeds such as Simmental, Maine Anjou, Limousin, Chianina and Murray Grey because of their fast weight gain and large amounts of muscle.

He added that exotic cattle account for only about 10 per cent of the 60 per cent of crossbreeds now being fed for marketing.

Before the rye

Corned beef sandwiches on rye bread are popular, but what gives the beef this flavor? The term "corned beef" generally implies a beef brisket that has been cured in a processing solution called "pickle." Sometimes pieces of round, chuck or plate, as well as the brisket, are "corned," a term that comes from an earlier method of processing in which the beef was cured by sprinkling with coarse grains of salt called corns.

Senior peer counseling

Para-profession for mature adults

by ELEANOR RIVES

It's a sound idea and they know it.

Hazel Waterhouse knows it. She coordinated all aspects of the course and came up with a stimulating growth experience for mature people.

Cathy LaChapelle knows it. She incorporated the course into Harper Community College's expanding senior citizen program.

Marie Bruno knows it. She is one of the mature people (55 is mature, isn't it?) who took the course and is now using her knowledge as a para-professional.

The course is called "Senior Peer Counseling" and it is being offered for the second time at Harper. It is intended to teach mature men and women, including senior citizens, how to help the homebound aged.

WHO BETTER can counsel the aged? From whom are the aged most likely to accept help and advice? "One end of the seesaw of aging is helping the other end," said Hazel Waterhouse in her precise British accent. "These are the people that have the time, the empathy and the experience. The rest of us are too busy rushing around."

Senior Peer Counseling is double-barreled. Not only does it teach para-professional skills to older people equipping them for a "later years" occupation or volunteer commitment, but it helps them to accept their own mortality.

"When we realize and accept the fact that we can't live forever, when we can discuss this openly, we are ready to reach out and help people who are terminally ill," said Mrs. Waterhouse.

SPECIAL TRAINING in death education, guided by tapes by Dr. Elizabeth Kubler-Ross, author of "Death and Dying," is only one aspect of the course. Mrs. Waterhouse will teach basic principles of remotivation for the institutionalized elderly, and will demonstrate techniques to adapt the method to the homebound elderly.

Mary Alley will teach listening skills, empathy and communication. Jane Klatt, director of Social Services for Wheeling Township, will help participants have at their fingertips knowledge of all possible community resources for the elderly — services in such areas as health and welfare, transportation, Medicare and Medicaid, discount eating places and meals on wheels.

ELAINE COSTELLO will lead the section on nutrition, grooming, foot care and exercise. "There is always something you can move," said terhouse. "About one-third of these need help in order to manager."

MARIE BRUNO of Barrington noticed the Senior Peer Counseling course in Harper's class brochure. Her interest was piqued. She had done much volunteer work in a nursing home and enjoyed it. At present, her mother is in a nursing home.

"One is always dealing with older people — at home, at church, in community work," she said. "Senior Peer Counseling is a good experience whether or not one uses it professionally."

But use it professionally she did. She now helps with remotivation of the elderly in the nursing home where her mother resides. She put into practice with a group of elderly her new training in relaxation, "even a little yoga," and was delighted with the response. She has been "geriatric sitting" for a 98-year-old woman since completing the course, and has been able to apply many of the things she learned.

"THE SEGMENT on nutrition for the elderly was excellent," said Marie. "Especially for the homebound person on a limited income."

"And the portion on death and dying was absolutely fascinating," she added. "We discussed the stages at length. It gave us a working knowledge for ourselves as well as for others."

In the 10-week, 20-session course, a rapport and community feeling developed among the students — all in their 50s and 60s — who have continued to meet and are now trying to acquaint the general public with the availability of their services.

THEIR TRAINING for work with the elderly has equipped them to: 1. Remotivate and give a new sense of self-worth; 2. Advise on basic nutrition and grooming; 3. Demonstrate and encourage regular exercise; 4. Identify danger signals that call for professional help; 5. Seek and gain access to community resources; and 6. Respond to the phases of dying, lending sympathy and support to the patient and family.

Register now for peer class

It is not too late to enroll in Harper's Senior Peer Counseling course. Classes begin next Tuesday, May 27. They will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 11:30 a.m. till 2 p.m. for ten weeks. Fee for in-district residents under 65 years old is $42; over 65, only $9.

Registration may be accomplished by telephone by calling Harper's Admissions Office at 397-1100.

Elaine. "Even wheelchair and bed-ridden patients can do exercises if they have their doctor's permission and begin very slowly."

One goal of certified peer counselors (certificates verify completion of the course) is to help isolated, homebound elderly people to stay in their own homes and out of costly institutions.

"Nearly 70 per cent of senior citizens live in their own homes and try to be independent," stated Mrs. Wa-

Consumer bills face floor vote

by MONICA PERIN

Eighteen consumer bills out of over 25 introduced in the Illinois legislature this year have been passed by committees and are scheduled to floor votes by the end of the month.

Eight other bills have been defeated. Those include proposals to regulate automotive repairs and car sales as well as the funeral industry; a bill to require unit pricing of supermarket merchandise; legislation spelling out the rights and responsibilities of landlords and tenants; and a bill allowing consumers to use the same defenses against banks or finance companies as against retailers. Another bill that would have abolished fair trade laws in Illinois was also defeated.

Only one local legislator is a sponsor of consumer legislation in this session. Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, introduced a shelf-life dating bill that would require manufacturers to label, in clear language, the life-expectancy of grocery items. Such "shelf life" dates are now often in code.

Many of the bills were prepared by the Governor's Consumer Advocate office, headed by Cella Maloney. A spokesperson there said this week they are optimistic about the chances of the 18 bills.

However, any bills that pass floor votes must then go to the opposite house for more committee hearings and another vote.

These are the bills in summary:

CONSUMER WARRANTY ACT: Would require manufacturers to disclose on their warranties the name, address, and phone number of authorized service center and to guarantee repair in 30 days or replace the item or reimburse the purchaser. The warranty must also state the actual life-expectancy of the product.

HOME REPAIR: Would cover repairs of all home appliances and electronic equipment, requiring itemized billing, a written estimate upon request, and a maximum charge of 10 per cent over the estimate.

BI-LINGUAL CONTRACTS: Would require that any business advertising in a foreign language must provide translations of credit sales or loan contracts to non-English speaking persons.

HEARING AIDS: Would require a prescription or a written authorization from a licensed physician or audiologist to sell a hearing aid.

GENERIC DRUGS AND DRUG ADVERTISING: Would require generic labeling of drugs, permit generic substitution, requires a shelf-life date and would permit the posting of drug prices — all measures intended to lower the cost of prescription drugs to consumers.

FROZEN FOODS: Would require restaurants to indicate prepared frozen foods on the menu.

CONDOMINIUMS, Escrow Accounts, Truth-in-Housing: Three bills that would require detailed disclosures in the sale of condominiums, restrict the required use of escrow accounts, and require full disclosure by home builders plus consumer remedies for new-home buyers.

MOBILE HOME DWELLERS: Would prohibit mobile park owners from charging certain fees now common, such as gas and electrical installation or more than one entrance fee. It would prohibit park owners from requiring tenants to buy equipment from them, and would restrict the reasons for which an owner may evict a tenant.

CREDIT BILLING ERRORS: Provides consumer remedies in the event of an incorrect bill.

TRADE AND VOCATIONAL SCHOOLS: Requires disclosure of placement and dropout figures, and a 10-day cooling off period with a full refund.

CHARITABLE SOLICITATIONS: Would require charities to disclose per cent of receipts spent on administrative costs, and would set a 20 per cent limit.

SCHOOLS BELLS ARE RINGING for mature adults Bruno of Barrington, above, student in the first 10- and senior citizens as Harper offers for the second week session, is proud of her certificate and has put time its course on Senior Peer Counseling. Marie her training into practice as a para-professional.

Mortgage costs you your rights

"... nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law..." (U.S. Constitution, 14th Amendment)

"To further secure the payment of this note, the undersigned hereby authorizes, irrevocably, any attorney of any court of record to appear for the undersigned... at any time after default and confess a judgment... WITHOUT PROCESS, in favor of the Association..." (Illinois Savings & Loan League standard mortgage note form)

The following conversation took place recently between the vice president (VP) of a nearby savings and loan association, and this reporter (R), who was preparing to sign a mortgage note.

R: I don't like this confession of judgment clause.

VP: Oh, where's that? (I point it out to him and he studies it.) Well, this just means that if default in your payments we are able to recover our money.

R: You don't need this to recover anything. If we default you can simply follow proper judicial procedures to get your money. But this clause deprives us of our constitutional right to due process. It means we waive that right and you can go to court without even notifying us and obtain a judgement against us without our having a chance to defend ourselves.

VP: Are you a legal secretary? (There are women lawyers, you know!)

R: No, I'm a consumer reporter.

VP: Well, we didn't write this, it's the standard contract drawn up by the Illinois Savings & Loan League.

R: The Chicago Real Estate Board used to have that clause in their standard lease form, too, but they took it out.

VP: Well, maybe eventually this will be changed.

R: There have been numerous bills in the legislature to abolish confession of judgment and guess why they never pass? Because the banking lobby fights them.

VP: (No comment.)

(As of last year, 43 states had abolished confession of judgment clauses. In addition, the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled the clause is invalid if the consumer can show that when he signed the contract he: 1) did not know the clause was there, 2) did not understand it, or 3) did not sign voluntarily.)

by Monica Wilch Perin

R: So you won't strike that clause?

VP: I'm sorry, I can't. If everyone wanted to delete things and add things...

R: But we added and deleted all kinds of things in the sales contract, and so did the sellers of the house.

VP: Well, yes, that's a sales contract...

R: This is a sales contract, too. You're selling money, and we're buying it.

A Paddock review

'Tempest' attempt fails

by BOB GALLAS

Many contend Shakespeare should be taken on only by the best of companies and is better off left alone by community theater.

Unfortunately The Friends of the Schaumburg Township Public Library are proving this to be correct with their production of "The Tempest."

Except for a few good individual acting performances, the overall production, including the disorganized handbill, is extremely disappointing. Poor staging facilities keep the play from even getting off to a good start.

"THE TEMPEST," the Bard's last work outside of his collaboration on "Henry VIII" and "Two Noble Kinsmen," follows Prospero who has been unjustly stripped of his dukedom and banished to an island. Prospero uses magic to manipulate the lives of others and gain back his title.

Because none of the actors in the company has a strong command of Elizabethan dialog, they are hard to understand. The opening scene taking place offstage, which is meant to set the storyline, is confusing.

The scene is meant to portray a tempest which was arranged by Prospero to shipwreck the King of Naples, his son and the Dukes of Milan, in order to bring them to the island of Prospero.

The actors are offstage in a small room while flashing lights and special sound effects help to create the effect of a storm.

HOWEVER THE poor quality of the room's acoustics coupled with the poor enunciation of the actors, make this scene appear as if it's being shouted into a bucket. The first several minutes of the play are all but unintelligible.

Director Joseph McAuliffe plays the lead of Prospero and is adequate in the demanding role. Dick Kelly as the drunken butler Stephano, and Dennis Smith as Caliban, a savage slave, highlight the second act in their amusing character roles.

But the rest of the cast is poor, especially Doreen Danielson, as Miranda, Prospero's beautiful daughter who falls in love with the shipwrecked son of the king. She is especially abuse to Shakespeare's dialog, often going through a long speech without pronouncing two understandable words in succession.

EVEN THE program of the production causes problems, especially for the first-time viewer of "The Tempest."

For some reason, the players are not listed in the customary order of appearance, and this causes identity problems during the first few scenes of the play.

Two final performances of the production are being staged tonight and Saturday at the library for die-hard followers of Shakespeare. Information, 529-1732.

SCHAUMBURG LA LECHE

"Father's Role in the Family" is the subject for discussion at the Couples Night of the Schaumburg area La Leche League. Mail leftover seeds to orphanage

Consider for a moment the food gap between the haves and the have-nots in this world:

We have the bounty in this country, but the red tape and the economics of getting it to those who need it elsewhere sometimes results in sickening waste — like the farmers who choose to shoot their cattle because they say they can't make a good enough buck on raising the herd, or milk producers who would rather spill the dairy products on the ground, or the cranberry growers who bury 20-foot high mountains of their fruit, because they are committed to producing just so much and no more to insure profit for the industry.

YET FOOD FOR the hungry is the biggest, most complex, social problem of the day.

And a lowly packet of seeds for growing vegetables may mean life and hope for the hungry overseas.

It's true that a packet of seeds may be the biggest bargain in our whole inflation-ridden economy.

A single packet of, for example, Bonny Best tomato seed, produces more than a ton of tomatoes. Enough parsley to garnish three meals a day all year long, if you happened to be so inclined, is the yield from one packet (600 seeds) of the average parsley packet.

An envelope of endive seeds grows into enough greens to serve a salad to a family of 2,000.

You could make summer squash for dinner every day from October through March from one packet of these seeds.

A PACKET OF celery seeds yields an average of 1,200 seeds; carrot seeds, 1,400. I recently bought some Black Seeded Simpson lettuce containing 1,500 seeds. At that rate I could feed all the bunnies at my uncle's farm and still have plenty of lettuce left over for the Playboy Club.

Can we eat all these greens? We can't freeze them! Will we use them all? Do we plan ahead to sow a little bit at a time, so they will be ready for picking at week intervals? Probably not!

You know it and I know it that there is too much waste in our spring planting chores. We carry a lot of seeds over, simply because we feel guilty about wasting them. And more than likely the opened packets of seed lay around the garage until they dry up or get tossed out with the garbage.

Let's consider sharing some of our leftover seed with the have-nots — the people who are hungry now, instead of saving seed for next year. Chances are they will never be used. An Indian orphanage would welcome seeds you don't plant this year: Here's the address: sister Marie Alodie Dalle, Infant Jesus Orphanage, Mulagumoodu 629167, Kanyakumari Dt. South India.

Be sure to seal the opened packets of seed with scotch tape and label envelopes of seed which will be sent without the original seed packet.

New recipe for chocolate squares

Dear Dorothy: The one recipe guests in my home keep asking for is chocolate mayonnaise squares. Curiously, I've never seen any such recipe in your column (and your recipes are tops with me) and so thought you would be interested.

I grease a 9 by 9 two-inch deep baking pan and line the bottom with waxed paper. I sift together into a large mixing bowl two cups of unsifted flour, one cup sugar, one-half cup unsweetened cocoa, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder and one teaspoon baking soda. Into this stir one cup of real mayonnaise and gradually stir in one cup of water and one teaspoon of vanilla until it's all smooth and blended.

I pour this into the prepared pan and bake it in a 350-degree oven for 40 to 45 minutes, or until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean. I let it cool completely and then remove it from the pan. I think everybody will like it. — Bonnie Devina.

Dear Dorothy: The picknick season is upon us and it's time to pass along the great hint which my daughter contributed to the family years ago. When we got home from a picnic, she had us all take salt-water baths and there wasn't a chigger complaint from anyone. We've done that ever since. Her children are grown by now so you can see how long we've been following the practice. — Mary C. Roth.

Dear Dorothy: I agree with you completely about keeping flour and so forth, in glass jars with screw-top lids. I used to live in the Deep South, and when we brought in supplies, we immediately put flour, meal, dried fruit and so forth into such containers. Once, when we were fighting the battle of tiny red ants, I forgot to put two boxes of cookies into regular cans. The ants had a feast with the homemade cookies and ignored the store-bought ones. I guess they know quality, too. — Ethel W. Thorniley.

Allow time for special vote

Mayor should quit by April: aldermen

Some Des Plaines aldermen have suggested that Mayor Herbert H. Behr's early retirement be even earlier than planned to allow time for a special election.

"I would not want to look like I am trying to push the mayor out of office," said Ald. Gerald Meyer, 7th. "I st mentioned that if he retired before April, the city could hold an election."

State law requires that if there is less than one year left in a term, one member of the city council must be elected to fill it, but if more than a year remains, a special election must be held.

BEHRE ANNOUNCED last week his intention to resign between July and September 1976, at least six months before his term expires in April 1977.

He was unavailable for comment Wednesday on the proposal that he hasten his departure. He said last week the date was chosen to coincide with his wife's retirement from her job.

The subject arose this week during a city code and judiciary committee discussion on making the mayor's position full-time or part-time, and hiring an administrative assistant.

Ald. Alan Abrams, 8th, chairman of the committee, said no decision was reached.

The council has been debating possible changes in the form of city government for several years, but no proposal to make major changes has been approved by the council.

THE COUNCIL defeated a proposal by Abrams to hold a referendum along with the April 15 aldermanic election of the question of a part-time or full-time mayor.

"The council ought to come to grips with what way it is going to go," Abrams said Wednesday. A number of aldermen are divided on making the position full-time or part-time and holding a referendum on any changes.

Coupled with the mayor's post is the issue of hiring an administrative assistant or city manager to operate the city if the mayor's job is made part-time.

Abrams said he has scheduled another committee session for Tuesday, and said, "I may have to ask the mayor to step in and offer some solid some type of consensus."

Stay-at-school lunch plan adopted by East Maine

by JUDY JOBBITT

An elementary school-lunch program permitting children in Grades 1-4 with two working parents to stay for lunch has been adopted by the East Maine Dist. 63 Board of Education.

The policy was approved 4 to 2 Tuesday night with board members Philip Deckowitz and Barbara Kipnis voting against it and Penny Larson absent.

The policy, which will go into effect in September, will maintain a one-hour lunch period and permit students who live more than seven-tenths of a mile from school or have medical excuses or family emergencies to stay at school for lunch.

The administration also has determined how many students can safely eat at each school in one sitting. The board set that number as the limit for students allowed to stay for lunch.

SUPP. G. ALLEN GUGO said all the elementary schools except Nathanson School, Potter and Church streets, Des Plaines, could accommodate those allowed to stay.

He proposed that an alternative arrangement be made for Nathanson, which is overcrowded during the lunch hour because of the number of students with working parents. According to October 1974 figures, 216 students were staying at Nathanson because both parents work and 137 stay because they are either bused or live beyond seven-tenths of a mile from school. The lunchroom capacity is 166.

"At Nathanson you have such a preponderance of children calling that you'll have a problem with whatever lunch program you have short of saying no children can eat lunch at school," Gugo said.

GUGO SUGGESTED that a double mobile unit be moved to Nathanson for lunch. He will present alternatives for Nathanson at the next meeting.

Once students permitted to stay for lunch are accommodated, other students can petition for the privilege according to a priority system:

• Remaining students in Grades 1-4.

• Students in Grades 5-6 with parents away from home over the lunch hour because of work.

• Remaining students in Grades 5-6.

All students also would be allowed to stay for lunch on cold days. Cold days would be declared by the district only when the temperature at 7 a.m. is 0 degrees or colder at O'Hare Airport.

Students who sign up to stay for lunch, except for those with medical excuses or family emergencies, must eat at school every day.

THE BOARD ALSO set a minimum of one supervisor in each lunchroom for the first 50 students who stay. An additional supervisor will be added when 51 to 125 students stay and two additional supervisors when 126 to 200 students stay.

Attendance will be taken daily in the lunchrooms. If a student who is scheduled to eat at school will be absent from lunch, parents are supposed to notify the school.

Mrs. Kipnis and Deckowitz said they voted against the policy because they wanted schools to have the right to vote among several options to determine their lunch program.

Latest U.S. economy word — recession's grip weaker

by United Press International

The government Wednesday said a major economic indicator rose substantially in April, providing more evidence that recovery from the recession is near. But prices rose higher last month and take-home pay declined.

Economists were cheered, however, by a surprising increase of 9.8 per cent in durable goods orders. It was the sharpest increase since a 10.2 per cent surge in December, 1967.

Orders for durable goods — products made to last a relatively long period of time — are closely watched by economists for trends in industrial production.

"When it rises on the order of the magnitude it apparently did in April, it is a virtual certainty that recovery is just around the corner," said Irwin Kellner of Manufacturers Hanover Trust.

James L. Pate, the Commerce Department's chief economist, said the sharp increase "supports the conclusion that the industrial sector of the economy is poised for recovery."

Commerce said the increase in durable goods orders to $38.98 billion in April from $35.49 billion in March was widespread throughout the economy.

An increase in orders of durable goods, which declined in six of the past seven months, was necessary before industry would increase production scheduled and employment.

Earlier Wednesday, the Labor Department reported that consumer prices rose 0.6 per cent in April, the largest increase since January but still substantially lower than the double-digit annual inflation rate of a year ago.

The increase in inflation was due primarily to a 0.4 per cent rise in grocery prices after a two-month decline. Food prices are 8 per cent higher than they were in April, 1974.

Nonfood prices, the department said, rose 0.8 per cent in April to a level 11 per cent above a year ago.

The report listed these rises in retail prices over the past 12 months: cereal and bakery products, 17 per

U.S. MARINE DIVERS searched Beck Lake near Des Plaines for the body of a 24-year-old Marine that has been missing in the water since Monday. The search was called off Wednesday after recovery efforts proved fruitless. The missing Marine is William Kottke of Washington, who reportedly fell out of a canoe in which he was riding with several friends. He apparently was unable to swim. A Coast Guard helicopter also was used in Wednesday's search, which was called off because of bad weather.

Water's magnetic death grip

Why do we drown?

by STEVE FORSYTH

Drowning is a terrifying way to die, but local officials feel almost powerless to stop the deaths that occur in their communities every year.

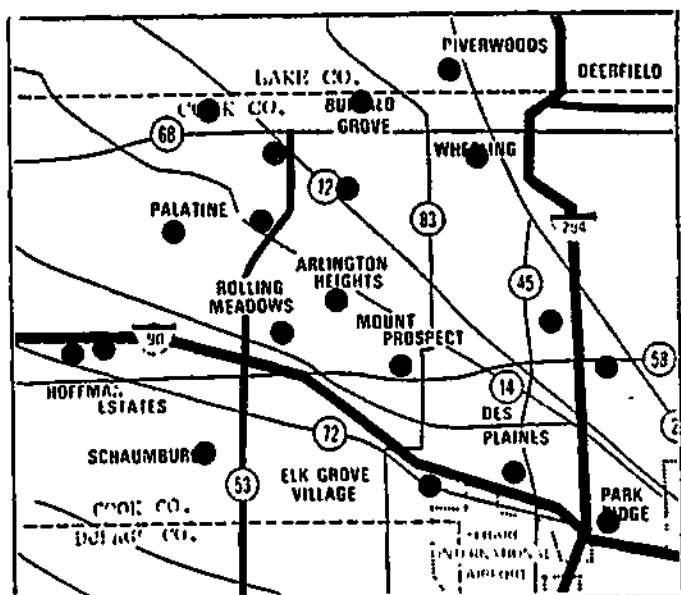

Water has a certain magnetism for persons of all ages — particularly children and teenagers — and local ponds, lakes and ditches continue to take their toll on suburban residents. Police say they would have to use 24-hour patrols to keep people out of dangerous bodies of water.

Although some drowning victims found in the Northwest suburbs in the past three years were swimming at the time of their accidents, most were on rafts or boats or had slipped off the banks. Lt. Don Reynolds of the Mount Prospect Fire Dept. says statistics show that most people who drown do not intend to be in the water.

At least 27 persons have drowned in the Northwest suburban area since 1972 under a wide range of circumstances. Two men have drowned in swimming pools and a baby drowned in a bathtub, but the rest have died in the area's open rivers, ditches, lakes and retention ponds.

SEVEN PERSONS have died in the past two weeks in this area. Some victims could swim, but were unable to save themselves. Allen Hyman, volunteer water safety chairman for the north re-

Divers recover body of latest victim, 10

Scuba divers Wednesday morning recovered the body of Jeffrey Super, 10, who fell from a homemade raft into Willow Bend Pond, Algonquin Road and Barker Avenue, Rolling Meadows.

Jeffrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lou Super, 4000 Eagle Ln., Rolling Meadows, apparently slipped into the water from a homemade raft he had been riding Tuesday night with a 9-year-old neighbor girl. The children were about 30 feet from shore in water estimated at 20 feet deep, when Jeffrey slipped, police said. His companion and another girl who had been watching from shore ran to a nearby home to call police at about 8 p.m.

A search began Tuesday night but fire department divers were unable to locate the body, and the search was abandoned late Tuesday.

Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty said divers returned to the pond before 9 a.m. Wednesday and located the body in water about 10 feet deep. Aiding in the search were 11 divers from the Mutual Aid Box Alarm System, three from Rolling Meadows and others from Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Buffalo Grove, Schaumburg and Glenview Rural departments.

A RAFT BROUGHT tragedy for Jeffrey Super, 10, of Rolling Meadows, who slipped from its boards and drowned Tuesday in a pond near his home.

Exception to 'no-local-code' policy City building permits sought for post office

U.S. Postal Service officials, who refused to take out building permits for a post office in Mount Prospect because they said it was not necessary, have applied for building permits for their Des Plaines office.

Des Plaines officials indicated that the Postal Service applied for a permit for the $2.8 million post office being built at Oakton Street and Executive Way.

The permit prepared by the Des Plaines Building Dept. shows that $600 is being charged for a plans examination. A spokesman for the department said the examination and fee cover the entire project.

VITO ABAZORIS, manager of the Postal Service's design and engineering department, said, however, he believes the inspection will cover only the water and sewer system.

"We do not obtain permits for anything other than service that comes in from the outside such as water and sewer," he said.

Postal authorities have said it is a national policy not to apply for local building permits, but indicated that the Postal Service follows building codes when they do not cause "undue harm." Mount Prospect officials have gone to court to halt construction of a post office at Elmhurst Avenue and Central Road because the postal service refused to take out local building permits.

Mayor Robert D. Telchert has indicated he does not expect the village to win its fight. A hearing is scheduled in Circuit Court June 4.

Letter reports outmoded?

'Comparative' grade system urged

by JUDY JOBBITT

An alternative grading system for Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 schools is being proposed by Erwin Stevenson, assistant superintendent for instruction.

His proposal would give parents more information about how their children are achieving compared with other students and would also show if children are working up to their abilities, Stevenson said.

Although the district has a standard report card for elementary and junior high schools, each school is allowed to set up its own grading system. Some use a letter-grade report card while others provide a written report from teachers.

STEVENSON SAID all the schools have different forms and he doesn't like any of the grading systems he is familiar with in the district. No one in the district coordinates any of the grading systems, he said.

"What we don't know is what everybody is doing," said Stevenson. "We need to know what is being done."

He said his system would be a compromise between the graded system and the teacher comments. The report would tell parents what major skills students have mastered, what skills most of the students in the class have achieved and what is being done either to challenge the advanced student or help the slow learner. The alternative grading system would not be imposed districtwide but would give schools one more option, he said.

Stevenson said too often parents cannot understand what is being done in school or what their children have accomplished. When parents have conferences with teachers, he said the conference often fails because parents don't know what questions to ask.

Each school does its own thing...

No two schools in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 seem to have the same report-card system.

Two years ago, the district allowed each school to develop its own grading procedure. Most schools came up with their current systems on the recommendation of committees that included parents, teachers and the principal.

Some, like Brentwood School in Des Plaines, used the district's standard form as a base. The standard form for elementary schools includes the basic subject areas with major skills listed beneath.

THIS FORM can be used to mark the traditional grade, which usually compares a student to his peers, or with notations that show if a student is improving, working at his own level or is not performing to the best of his ability.

Claude Crase, Brentwood principal, said the school uses the standard form but supplements it with teacher comments. Brentwood teachers note the progress of a student according to the student's abilities. Crase also puts a comment to the student on each report.

Other schools, like Juliette Low School in Arlington Heights, and Frost School in Mount Prospect, have developed their own forms and methods of grading students.

Juliette Low has different grading systems for primary students and intermediate students. Primary students receive a written report from the teacher while intermediate students have a more structured report.

FROST LISTS skills students are supposed to learn in each subject area. Beside each skill teachers comment on how the student is progressing. There are no letter grades or notations beside the skills that compare students to each other, said Principal Judd Thompson.

Principals contacted said they believe they have not received many negative comments because parents were involved in the development of the grading system.

But as Crase said, "we're always looking for better ways."

Maine Twp. residents seek park disannex

Residents of a section of Maine Township forcibly annexed into the Golf-Maine Park District are asking that their homes be disannexed from the district.

Al Sompolski, president of the Golf-Maine Gardens Improvement Assn., said the group requested to be disannexed from the district.

The area was annexed by the district in March, over the objections of residents. In an effort to protest the plans, residents staged a write-in campaign in the April 15 park district election and nearly unseated the incumbent park commissioners.

Sompolski said residents are gathering certificates needed for disannexation.

Further action is expected on the disannexation proposal at the district June 16 park district meeting.

Mental health unit may get $78,000

A Schaumburg Township Board committee has recommended allotting about $78,000 in federal revenue-sharing funds to the Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center.

The committee approved $69,000 as the township's share of the mental health center's budget, and $9,000 for operation of the center's new day-care facility on Landmeier Road in Elk Grove Village.

The recommendation must be considered by the full board.

Construction lag at Raupp Building

by BETTY LEE

The Raupp Memorial Building will not be completed until the end of summer unless construction workers speed up their work, said Stanley Crosland, park director.

Park officials have sent a letter to the contractors, Pritscher and Erbach Construction Co., Arlington Heights, asking for an explanation of the "extremely slow" construction progress.

"The board has communicated with them that it would like to see more work done and see it speeded up," Crosland said.

Buffalo Grove Park District officials will meet tonight to discuss the delays at 8 p.m. at the park district office, 130 Raupp Blvd.

Stevenson High year begins Sept. 2

Stevenson High School students will begin the 1975-76 school year Sept. 2 according to a calendar approved by the High School Dist. 123 Board of Education.

Originally students were scheduled to begin classes before Labor Day but the board agreed to change the calendar so it coincides with elementary districts in the area.

Teachers will report to school Aug. 29 for institute and students will begin the following Tuesday. School will be dismissed June 11, 1976.

Girls' softball tryouts

Softball tryouts for girls who wish to compete in the Northwest Suburban Girls' Softball League will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Joyce Kilmer School field, 633 Golfview Terr., Buffalo Grove.

The tryouts, sponsored by the Buffalo Grove Park District, are open to girls 16 and younger. All girls are welcome to try out for one of the 15 openings on each team. The park district will sponsor two teams.

Persons who cannot come to the tryouts Saturday should call the park district office at 537-0336 for the next tryouts, to be scheduled at a later date.

office donated by Levitt and Sons Inc., developers, into a community meeting center and historical museum. It was to be finished this spring.

The building was moved several months ago to the Raupp farm, one of the village's oldest landmarks. The farm site is on Dunham Lane in Lake County.

"They (contractors) are way behind schedule," said Buffalo Grove Park Board Pres. Joseph P. Settanni. "We're upset as a board."

Chuck Erbach of Pritscher and Erbach said the firm has not received a letter from the park district, even though Crosland said the letter was delivered personally.

"I'll wait to comment until we get the letter," he said. "We'll see what their questions are."

SETTANNI CITED safety and appearance problems at the site.

"We're concerned with the area housekeeping," he said. "Even though we have signs there, it doesn't stop children from doing the natural thing. We're concerned with the safety of our citizens."

Weather should not have been a reason for the construction delays because of the recent fair weather, Settanni said.

"We would understand if weather was holding them back, but we have had pretty decent weather."

All exterior work, including cementing, windows and connecting roofs between the building and an addition, were to be completed by May 1, Crosland said.

Landscaping, hauling and earthmoving should follow, he added.

IT WOULD take another two months to finish the inside of the building and have paving, sidewalks and lighting work done, Crosland said.

"We're hoping to get a revised schedule," Crosland said. "We hope to have the exterior work done by June."

The cost is estimated at $100,000, including the cost of moving the building, Crosland said. Lighting, landscaping and walkways are expected to cost another $20,000.

"It was supposed to be finished by this spring," Crosland said. "I think it really bothers the board to see that they have not exerted enough manpower into this. You drive by and see one man working there at a time. You see one car and one guy and you have to wonder if anybody's working."

Village hall closed for Memorial Day

The Buffalo Grove Village Hall, 50 Raupp Blvd., will be closed for Memorial Day, Friday, May 30, and also Saturday, May 31.

The regular meeting of the village board, scheduled for Monday, the federal Memorial Day, will be changed to Tuesday, beginning at 9 p.m.

Latest U.S. economy word — recession's grip weaker

by United Press International

The government Wednesday said a major economic indicator rose substantially in April, providing more evidence that recovery from the recession is near. But prices rose higher last month and take-home pay declined.

Economists were cheered, however, by a surprising increase of 9.8 per cent in durable goods orders. It was the sharpest increase since a 10.2 per cent surge in December, 1967.

Orders for durable goods — products made to last a relatively long period of time — are closely watched by economists for trends in industrial production.

"When it rises on the order of the magnitude it apparently did in April, it is a virtual certainty that recovery is just around the corner," said Irwin Kellner of Manufacturers Hanover Trust.

James L. Pate, the Commerce Department's chief economist, said the sharp increase "supports the conclusion that the industrial sector of the economy is poised for recovery."

Commerce said the increase in durable goods orders to $38.98 billion in April from $35.49 billion in March was widespread throughout the economy.

An increase in orders of durable goods, which declined in six of the past seven months, was necessary before industry would increase production scheduled and employment.

Earlier Wednesday, the Labor Department reported that consumer prices rose 0.6 per cent in April, the largest increase since January but still substantially lower than the double-digit annual inflation rate of a year ago.

The increase in inflation was due primarily to a 0.4 per cent rise in grocery prices after a two-month decline. Food prices are 8 per cent higher than they were in April, 1974.

Nonfood prices, the department said, rose 0.9 per cent in April to a level 11 per cent above a year ago.

The report listed these rises in retail prices over the past 12 months: cereal and bakery products, 17 per

Water's magnetic death grip

Why do we drown?

by STEVE FORSYTH

Drowning is a terrifying way to die, but local officials feel almost powerless to stop the deaths that occur in their communities every year.

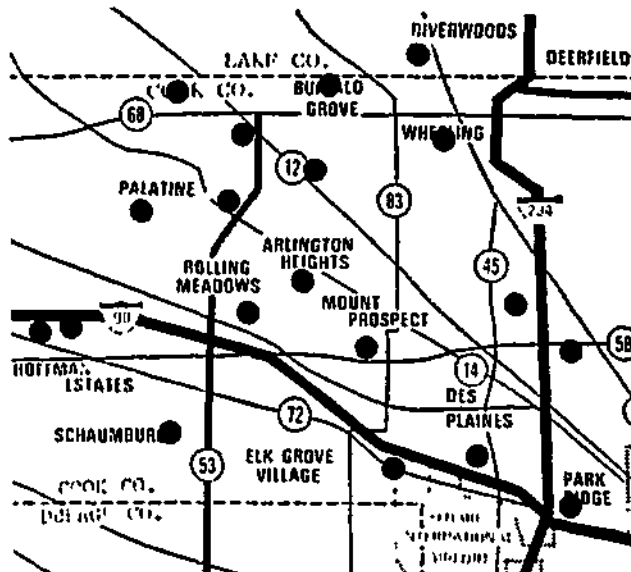

Water has a certain magnetism for persons of all ages — particularly children and teenagers — and local ponds, lakes and ditches continue to take their toll on suburban residents. Police say they would have to use 24-hour patrols to keep people out of dangerous bodies of water.

Although some drowning victims found in the Northwest suburbs in the past three years were swimming at the time of their accidents, most were on rafts or boats or had slipped off the banks. Lt. Don Reynolds of the Mount Prospect Fire Dept. says statistics show that most people who drown do not intend to be in the water.

At least 27 persons have drowned in the Northwest suburban area since 1972 under a wide range of circumstances. Two men have drowned in swimming pools and a baby drowned in a bathtub, but the rest have died in the area's open rivers, ditches, lakes and retention ponds.

SEVEN PERSONS have died in the past two weeks in this area. Some victims could swim, but were unable to save themselves. Allen Hyman, volunteer water safety chairman for the north ro-

DOYS ON THE MAP show 19 deaths in the Northwest suburbs where drownings and near-drownings have occurred in the last three years. Seven persons have drowned in the last two weeks, including one Palatine Township man who died in a Lake Michigan boating accident.

Here are the 'danger' spots...

There are dozens of ponds in the area that police officials say are hazardous although many already are fenced with signs warning of the danger. Many of them were constructed

by developers to help prevent flooding. Park districts have taken over jurisdiction of some and others are privately owned. The majority of these areas are unsafe. (Continued on Page 2)

Divers recover body of latest victim, 10

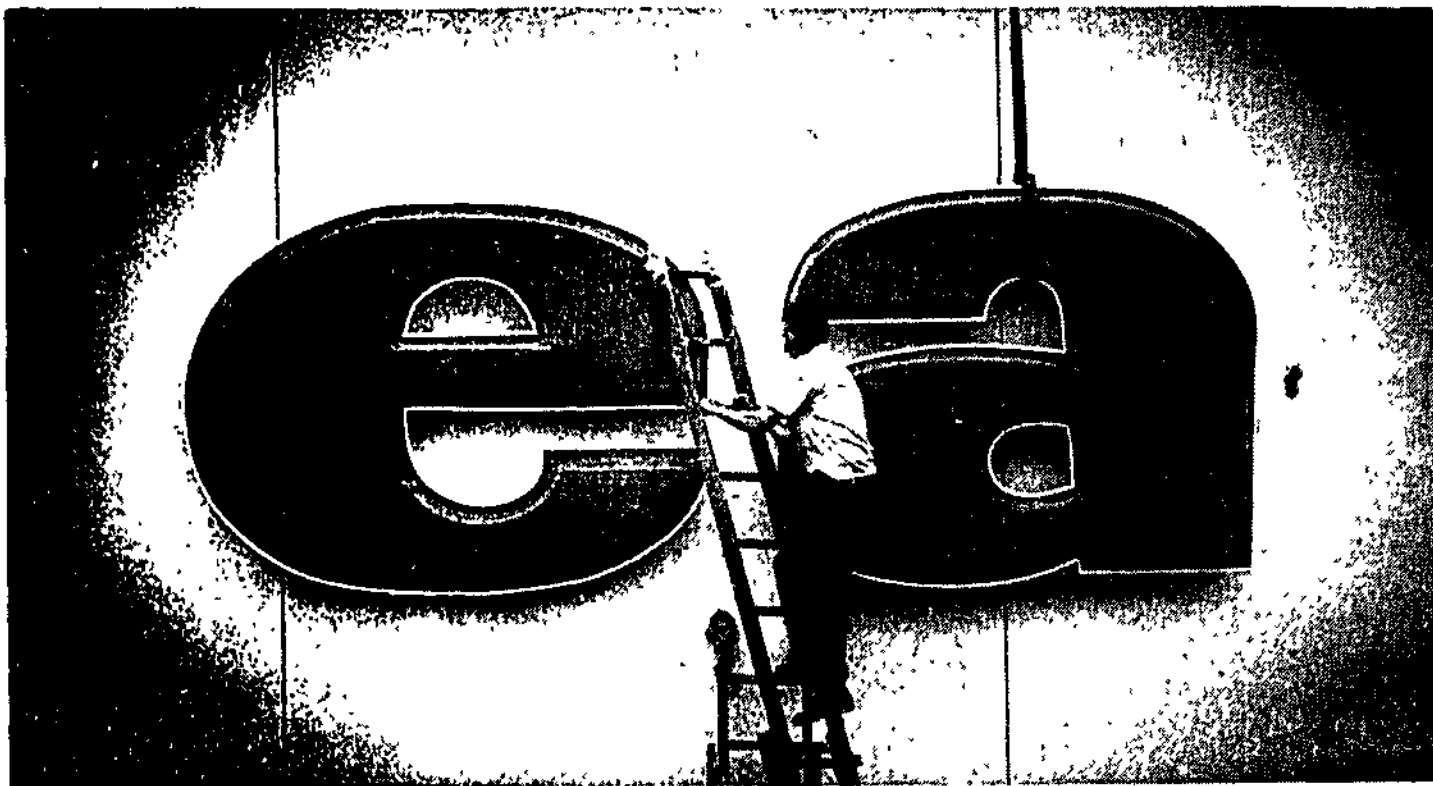

Scuba divers Wednesday morning recovered the body of Jeffrey Super, 10, who fell from a homemade raft into Willow Bend Pond, Algonquin Road and Barker Avenue, Rolling Meadows.

Jeffrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lou Super, 4000 Eagle Ln., Rolling Meadows, apparently slipped into the water from a homemade raft he had been riding Tuesday night with a 9-year-old neighbor girl. The children were about 30 feet from shore in water estimated at 20 feet deep, when Jeffrey slipped, police said. His companion and another girl who had been watching from shore ran to a nearby home to call police at about 8 p.m.

A search began Tuesday night but fire department divers were unable to locate the body, and the search was abandoned late Tuesday.

Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty said divers returned to the pond before 9 a.m. Wednesday and located the body in water about 10 feet deep. Aiding in the search were 11 divers from the Mutual Aid Box Alarm System, three from Rolling Meadows and others from Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Buffalo Grove, Schaumburg and Glenview Rural departments.

Major crime in village up 37% for 4 months: report

Major crimes in Buffalo Grove increased by 37 per cent for the first four months of 1975, continuing the pattern set in the first three months of the year.

All the figures, recently released by local police, were cumulative totals comparing crime rates this year to similar periods in 1974.

Over-all crime is up 18 per cent this year from the same period in 1974, the statistics show.

Major offenses, keyed for a second straight month by theft increases were up from 165 to 227 reported incidents.

THERE HAVE been 132 reported thefts, not counting autos, so far this year, a 78 per cent increase over the 91 on record at this time in 1974.

Burglaries showed a slight decrease from 46 to 42, while assaults also were down by 4, from 25 to 21. Auto thefts rose from 4 to 10.

In commenting on the report, Police Chief Harry J. Walsh said he was not alarmed at the crime rate increases saying most reflect the growing number of citizens who are reporting crime to police. In fact, he said he's pleased that "people are much more consistent in reporting things to police."

He said most of the reported thefts are "petty," for small items, many of them occurring at local schools. He also said part of the increased totals are a reflection of more meticulous police reporting procedures.

MINOR OFFENSES also rose 12 per cent, from 490 to 557. The increase was spurred by jumps of 13 per cent in juvenile crimes, 183 to 208, and vandalism, up 10 per cent from 130 to 153.

Walsh said much of the reported vandalism is so-called "lawn jobs" where vandals drive their cars over residents' lawns. He also said some of the incidents are due to vandals "harrasing" a resident.

In other crime categories, forgery, counterfeiting and deceptive practices were down from 10 to 7, while weapons violations also decreased, 18 to 10. Sex offenses increased from 11 to 13 as did drug crimes from 14 to 17.

Drunken-driving was up from 13 to 22 incidents and drunken and disorderly conduct also rose from 26 to 37.

A total of 153 traffic accidents has been reported to police this year, an increase from the 135 at this time last year.

Free weekday seniors bus service to begin

Wheeling Township senior citizens will be eligible for free weekday bus service beginning June 2.

The Wheeling Township Board has authorized $18,000 in federal revenue-sharing money for the transportation service for persons older than 60 on a six-month trial basis, Jane Klatt, social services director, said Wednesday.

The center plans to lease a minibus from the Suburban Shuttle System, Rolling Meadows, for $1,500 a month. The fee will cover the cost of a driver, maintenance and insurance, Mrs. Klatt said. About $150 a month is expected to be spent for gasoline and oil.

THE BUS WILL operate on fixed routes Mondays and Wednesdays. Residents will be taken to shopping centers, the Wheeling Township office and downtown sections of area towns as well as Hersey High School, where a reduced-cost lunch program is offered to seniors every Wednesday.

The bus will use a reservations system for scheduling Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. Senior citizens will be required to call the township office at 239-7733 at least 24 hours in advance to reserve a ride. The bus will pick them up at their homes and take them anywhere in the township, then return them home, Mrs. Klatt said.

The bus will run weekdays between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The new bus service is expected to provide transportation for 7,000 senior citizens in Wheeling Township, "who do not have inexpensive transportation available to them," Mrs. Klatt said.

THE BUS, with a capacity of 45, also will be used for township outings suggested by senior citizens, Mrs. Klatt said.

"This bus system has been in the works for more than a year and we feel that it will provide the most transportation for the largest number of senior citizens," Mrs. Klatt said.

"If this bus program works out, we may decide to buy our own bus. But the program will be under evaluation during the next six months to decide what will be done," she said.

Mrs. Klatt said riders will be required to obtain a picture-identification card.

"This will be to make sure that the people riding the bus are senior citizens over 60 because, after all, this is who the service is being provided for," she said.

Shop center parcel annex hearing set

The Buffalo Grove Plan Commission set June 18 as a hearing date on the annexation of a small strip of property necessary for a shopping center at Buffalo Grove and Dundee Roads.

The date was announced Wednesday at a commission meeting. The center is to feature a Kohl's supermarket and some smaller stores.

In another matter, the commission voted to recommend the village board reappoint Howard Mendenhall, 38, of 505 Weldner Rd., and Stanley Haarr, 37, of 221 Anthony Rd., to the commission. The recommendations will be sent to the village board for final approval.

At the session, Village Atty. Richard Raysa said a hearing date should be announced soon in a lawsuit filed against the village by a Chicago developer.

The firm Dominion Development Co., is seeking a court order to force the village to issue building permits for two restaurants at Buffalo Grove and Dundee roads.

Raysa discussed the matter with plan commissioners in an executive session Wednesday.

State's Attorney's spokesman:

'Guttilla didn't use pressure in court'

A spokesman for State's Atty. Bernard Carey said Wednesday that Wheeling Police Chief Peter P. Guttilla "in no way" tried to "pressure or use his influence" on behalf of his secretary's son-in-law at a recent Niles traffic court hearing.

"Chief Guttilla tried to discuss and explain the background of the case during a pretrial conference, but in no way did he try to pressure any witness, the judge or our office or to use his influence," said David Cuprisin, director of public information for Carey.

"After all, what influence would the chief of Wheeling police have in such a case?" he said.

The state's attorney's office, however, decided Wednesday to issue a subpoena for a witness in the case when he failed to show up in the Niles branch of Circuit Court.

THE WITNESS, Gwyn Bontrager of Elkhart, Ind., asked May 7 to drop two of the charges in the case after meeting with Guttilla outside the courtroom of Associate Judge James Maher Jr.

Maher Wednesday continued the case to June 4 so that Bontrager could be issued a subpoena. The issuance of a subpoena was termed "not terribly special" by Cuprisin Wednesday.

At the May 7 hearing Bontrager told Maher after the session with Guttilla that he was willing to drop the charges because he would be assured the damage to his car would be paid for.

Maher refused to drop charges against Luis Arellano, 1830 Park Pl., Des Plaines, of leaving the scene of an accident and crossing the center line of Milwaukee Avenue.

HE CONTINUED the case because the arresting officer, Patrolman Jack

A. Hauber of Sheriff's Police, was absent from court on "medical leave." Hauber was in court Wednesday.

Cuprisin did acknowledge Guttilla's appearance at the hearing was "unusual." Arellano is the son-in-law of Elizabeth Fenlon, Guttilla's secretary.

Wheeling Village Mgr. George Pasolt suspended Guttilla for two days because of the May 7 incident and then rescinded the suspension until it could be legally determined if he could suspend the chief.

$12,000 fire damage to home by vandals

Vandals apparently set three fires late Tuesday at the home of H. B. Shelton, 297 E. Jeffery Ave., causing an estimated $12,000 to $14,000 damage, Wheeling fire officials said.

Fire Chief Bernhard Koeppen said fires apparently were set in the dining area, south bedroom and center bedroom, where most damage was done. Samples were taken for laboratory examination and the State Fire Marshal's Office had an investigator on the scene Wednesday.

"We've been having a few outside fires in that area," Koeppen said, adding he probably would classify the fires as the work of vandals. The fire was reported at 11:02 p.m. Tuesday and firemen were on the scene for two hours.

Koeppen said the house apparently was being remodeled.

Pine Hill apartment plan ruling expected tonight

The Wheeling Plan Commission is expected to make a recommendation tonight on a final site plan for the proposed Pine Hill apartment development.

The plan commission delayed action at its last meeting to await a legal opinion on the validity of the ordinance granting multi-family zoning for the project.

Zoning on the 10.66-acre tract on Old McHenry Road was granted to developer George Manda in 1973 as a condominium project.

Commission members questioned the validity of the zoning because the project has been changed to an apartment development.

Manda plans a 264-unit project, although the zoning calls for a limit of 16 units per acre. Manda was granted a variance to increase the number of units when he said he needed more units to keep the price of the condominiums below $30,000.

The commission said because the variance was granted based on condominium development, the variance may not apply to an apartment development.

The commission will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Village Hall, 255 W. Dundee Rd.

Latest U.S. economy word — recession's grip weaker

by United Press International

The government Wednesday said a major economic indicator rose substantially in April, providing more evidence that recovery from the recession is near. But prices rose higher last month and take-home pay declined.

Economists were cheered, however, by a surprising increase of 9.8 per cent in durable goods orders. It was the sharpest increase since a 10.2 per cent surge in December, 1967.

Orders for durable goods — products made to last a relatively long period of time — are closely watched by economists for trends in industrial production.

"When it rises on the order of the magnitude it apparently did in April, it is a virtual certainty that recovery is just around the corner," said Irwin Kellner of Manufacturers Hanover Trust.

James L. Pate, the Commerce Department's chief economist, said the sharp increase "supports the conclusion that the industrial sector of the economy is poised for recovery."

Commerce said the increase in durable goods orders to $38.98 billion in April from $35.49 billion in March was widespread throughout the economy.

An increase in orders of durable goods, which declined in six of the past seven months, was necessary before industry would increase production scheduled and employment.

Earlier Wednesday, the Labor Department reported that consumer prices rose 0.6 per cent in April, the largest increase since January but still substantially lower than the double-digit annual inflation rate of a year ago.

The increase in inflation was due primarily to a 0.4 per cent rise in grocery prices after a two-month decline. Food prices are 8 per cent higher than they were in April, 1974.

Nonfood prices, the department said, rose 0.8 per cent in April to a level 11 per cent above a year ago.

The report listed these rises in retail prices over the past 12 months: cereal and bakery products, 17 per

U.S. MARINE DIVERS searched Back Lake near Des Plaines for the body of a 24-year-old Marine that has been missing in the water since Monday. The search was called off Wednesday after recovery efforts proved fruitless. The missing Marine is William Kottke of Washington, who reportedly fell out of a canoe in which he was riding with several friends. He apparently was unable to swim. A Coast Guard helicopter also was used in Wednesday's search, which was called off because of bad weather.

Water's magnetic death grip

Why do we drown?

BY STEVE FORSYTH

Drowning is a terrifying way to die, but local officials feel almost powerless to stop the deaths that occur in their communities every year.

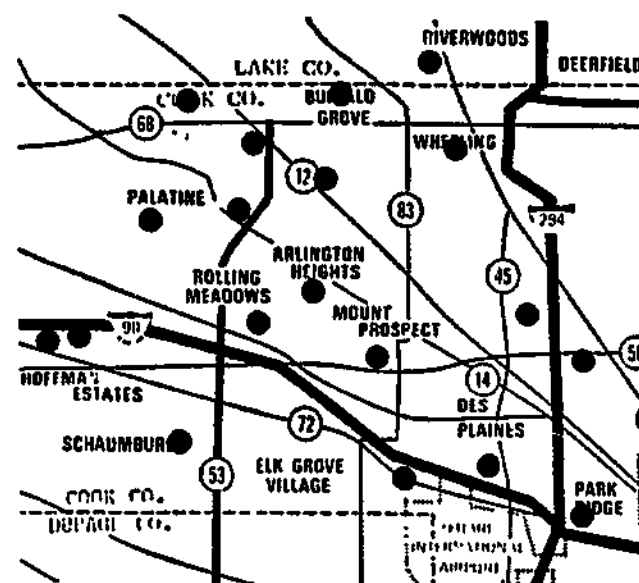

Water has a certain magnetism for persons of all ages — particularly children and teenagers — and local ponds, lakes and ditches continue to take their toll on suburban residents. Police say they would have to use 24-hour patrols to keep people out of dangerous bodies of water.

Although some drowning victims found in the Northwest suburbs in the past three years were swimming at the time of their accidents, most were on rafts or boats or had slipped off the banks. Lt. Don Reynolds of the Mount Prospect Fire Dept. says statistics show that most people who drown do not intend to be in the water.

At least 27 persons have drowned in the Northwest suburban area since 1972 under a wide range of circumstances. Two men have drowned in swimming pools and a baby drowned in a bathtub, but the rest have died in the area's open rivers, ditches, lakes and retention ponds.

SEVEN PERSONS have died in the past two weeks in this area. Some victims could swim, but were unable to save themselves. Allen Hyman, volunteer water safety chairman for the north

DOTS ON THE MAP show 19 sites in the Northwest suburbs where drownings and near-drownings have occurred in the last three years. Seven persons have drowned in the last two weeks, including one Palatine Township man who died in a Lake Michigan boating accident.

Here are the 'danger' spots...

There are dozens of ponds in the area that police officials say are hazardous although many already are fenced with signs warning of the danger. Many of them were constructed

by developers to help prevent flooding. Park districts have taken over jurisdiction of some and others are privately owned. The majority of these areas are unsafe. (Continued on Page 2)

Divers recover body of latest victim, 10

Scuba divers Wednesday morning recovered the body of Jeffrey Super, 10, who fell from a homemade raft into Willow Bend Pond, Algonquin Road and Barker Avenue, Rolling Meadows.

Jeffrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lou Super, 4000 Eagle Ln., Rolling Meadows, apparently slipped into the water from a homemade raft he had been riding Tuesday night with a 9-year-old neighbor girl. The children were about 30 feet from shore in water estimated at 20 feet deep, when Jeffrey slipped, police said. His companion and another girl who had been watching from shore ran to a nearby home to call police at about 8 p.m.

A search began Tuesday night but fire department divers were unable to locate the body, and the search was abandoned late Tuesday.

Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty said divers returned to the pond before 9 a.m. Wednesday and located the body in water about 10 feet deep. Aiding in the search were 11 divers from the Mutual Aid Box Alarm System, three from Rolling Meadows and others from Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Buffalo Grove, Schaumburg and Glenview Rural departments.

A RAFT BROUGHT tragedy for Jeffrey Super, 10, of Rolling Meadows, who slipped from its boards and drowned Tuesday in a pond near his home.

Bond issue raises legal question

Alexian asked to change charter

by JILL BETTNER

Elk Grove Village officials have requested changes in the charter of Alexian Brothers Medical Center to ensure the proposed $23 million municipal bond sale for the hospital does not violate constitutional requirements for the separation of church and state.

Questions have been raised by the American Civil Liberties Union and others about the legality of issuing village bonds for a religious institution. The medical center is operated by Alexian Brothers of America, a Catholic order.

Village Atty. Edward Hofert said under the home rule provisions of the 1970 Illinois constitution, the village can sell the bonds without referendum because the hospital is a not-for-profit institution. However, there must be a clear distinction in the hospital's charter between its religious and medical services, he said.

HOFERT SAID while he has not seen the medical center's charter, he anticipated that the constitutional question might come up.

Hofert said he asked hospital officials to make necessary changes in the bylaws after the bond sale was approved by the Elk Grove Village board last week.

"I have been told that all changes will be made to satisfy cases and precedents in the law," Hofert said, referring to similar instances when the Illinois Health Facilities Authority has issued state bonds for religious institutions.

Hofert said the village must operate under the same guidelines as the authority in issuing the bonds for Alexian Brothers.

"We have the power to act, but we cannot act in such a way as to violate the state or federal constitution or in a manner that would violate the civil rights of any person," Hofert said. "We have requested the changes in the charter because if our name is being lent to anything in any way, shape or form, we want to be sure all persons have equal rights to the facilities."

PAUL HAMLIN, director of the Illinois division of the ACLU, said he has "serious reservations about the legality of a municipality turning over $23 million to a private hospital." Hamlin said the ACLU is looking into the bond sale, but has not determined a course of action.

The ACLU's main concern, Hamlin said, is that public bonds will be used to finance a medical center that does not perform abortions for religious reasons.

"It's an incredible plan," Hamlin said. "The public cannot support facilities that don't even conform to Supreme Court guidelines."

THE VILLAGE has not agreed to give the medical center public tax monies, but rather to allow the hospital to use its municipal bonding authority to refinance an old debt and complete an expansion program. The bonds will be paid off with operating revenues of the hospital.

A spokesman for the medical center said the hospital does not perform abortions because of a policy set by the Catholic Hospitals Assn.

Other hospitals in the Northwest suburbs, including Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, do not perform nontherapeutic abortions. Northwest Community received assistance from the Village of Arlington Heights on a bond sale last year. The hospital is not affiliated with any religious organization.

Near S. Wolf Road

Plan would ease flooding at Ditch

by LUISA GINETTI

A proposal to relieve flooding along S. Wolf Road by shoring up the banks on the east side of the Wheeling Drainage Ditch has been submitted to the Wheeling Village Board.

William A. Rogers, chairman of the village's environmental advisory committee, suggested in a letter to the trustees that shoring up the banks will prevent water from spilling over to flood-detection ponds in Heritage Park.

Rogers cited a report submitted to the board in 1973 by flood-control consultant Herbert G. Poertner to support his claim.

IN HIS REPORT, Poertner said, "The ponds (in Heritage Park) were designed to collect excess runoff from developments east of Wolf Road and store the runoff until discharged by gravity to the Wheeling Drainage Ditch. However, flooding of the ditch north of this area causes overland flows to flood the detention ponds and property of neighboring residents on both sides of Wolf Road. Increasing the bank elevations on the east side of the ditch upstream of the ponds would reduce the problem."

Rogers said he believes raising the level of the east creek bank north of the dam, which is south of Dundee Road in Heritage Park, to the same level as the bank south of the dam, would help alleviate the problem. The bank north of the dam is about two feet lower than the bank south of the dam.

Rogers also said the dam should be raised to the same level or just slightly below the highest point of the bank south of the dam, about one foot.

He also suggests construction of a berm in the eroded and depressed areas north of Heritage Park as a means of eliminating the overspill of the creek into the retention pond and homes along Wolf Road.

"This is not to say that the area would be totally flood free," Rogers said. "However, elevating the east creek bank would prevent the one-to-two-inch rains from flooding the area two to three times each year."

ROGERS SAID he does not know what the cost of such a project would be, but he said property owners in the area would be willing to assist the village in grading and leveling the berm to the proper height.

"Keeping the water in the creek is a basic concept of any flood-control program," Rogers said. "I would speculate that the project would not require the time and money presently being spent annually by the fire department, public works and Civil Defense to patrol and pump out basements, streets and low-lying areas along south Wolf Road."

The village board has scheduled a meeting with the Wheeling Park District board June 2 to discuss the Heritage Park West retention basin and flood-control problems associated with that project.

Poertner told the park district last week the retention basin can be made into a usable recreation-retention facility with some engineering changes. The park board plans to discuss Poertner's proposal with trustees in an attempt to get the village to complete the retention basin.

Officials from the Metropolitan Sanitary District also are preparing a report on ways to control flooding in the Buffalo Creek watershed, including a plan to construct a diversionary channel to allow water from the Wheeling Drainage Ditch to flow into the Des Plaines River.

Free weekday seniors bus service to begin June 2

Wheeling Township senior citizens will be eligible for free weekday bus service beginning June 2.

The Wheeling Township Board has authorized $18,000 in federal revenue-sharing money for the transportation service for persons older than 60 on a six-month trial basis, Jane Klatt, social services director, said Wednesday.

The center plans to lease a minibus from the Suburban Shuttle System, Rolling Meadows, for $1,500 a month. The fee will cover the cost of a driver, maintenance and insurance, Mrs.

Klatt said. About $150 a month is expected to be spent for gasoline and oil.

THE BUS WILL operate on fixed routes Mondays and Wednesdays. Residents will be taken to shopping centers, the Wheeling Township office and downtown sections of area towns as well as Hershey High School, where a reduced-cost lunch program is offered to seniors every Wednesday.

The bus will use a reservations system for scheduling Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. Senior citizens will be required to call the township office at 258-7733 at least 24 hours in advance to reserve a ride. The bus will pick them up at their homes and take them anywhere in the township, then return them home, Mrs. Klatt said.

The bus will run weekdays between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The new bus service is expected to provide transportation for 7,000 senior citizens in Wheeling Township, "who do not have inexpensive transportation available to them," Mrs. Klatt said.

THE BUS, with a capacity of 45, also will be used for township outings suggested by senior citizens, Mrs. Klatt said.

"This bus system has been in the works for more than a year and we feel that it will provide the most transportation for the largest number of senior citizens," Mrs. Klatt said.

"If this bus program works out, we may decide to buy our own bus. But the program will be under evaluation during the next six months to decide what will be done," she said.

Mrs. Klatt said riders will be required to obtain a picture-identification card.

"This will be to make sure that the people riding the bus are senior citizens over 60 because, after all, this is who the service is being provided for," she said.

Panel may meet to hear charges against chief

A special meeting of the Wheeling Fire and Police Commission probably will be scheduled to hear suspension charges against Police Chief Peter P. Guttilla.

Vern Nystrom, chairman of the commission, said the usual procedure in cases where charges are brought against an officer is to schedule a hearing rather than discuss the case at a regularly scheduled meeting. The commission regularly meets the second Tuesday of each month.

Nystrom said he cannot schedule a meeting until he receives official notification that charges have been filed.

Village Mgr. George Passolt, who suspended Guttilla for two days and then was forced to rescind the suspension, said he will file charges against the chief but he declined to comment further.

The village board authorized Passolt to hire an attorney to assist him in going before the commission to bring suspension charges against the chief.

Passolt suspended Guttilla for interfering in a court case on behalf of his secretary's non-in-law. Passolt rescinded the suspension after a question of the manager's authority to suspend the chief was raised. Guttilla charged that suspension power rested solely with the fire and police commission.

Police agents arrest two for marijuana

Metropolitan Enforcement Group agents arrested a 32-year-old Palatine Township man and a 27-year-old Texas woman Tuesday for possession of 120 pounds of marijuana, police said.

Arturo Cordova of Palatine Township and Josefina Mercado of Mission, Tex., were arrested at Cordova's home, 14 E. Dundee Rd. They are being held in lieu of $50,000 bond and will appear June 9 in the Skokie branch of Circuit Court.

MEG director John Hinchey, said the street value of the marijuana seized is $50,000. He predicted that the arrest will lead to other arrests in the area.

The arrest Tuesday was a cooperative effort among MEG, the Federal Drug Enforcement Administration and Palatine police. The agencies have been investigating marijuana shipments to the area from Mexico, Hinchey said.

$600 jewelry theft reported by resident

Burglars took more than $600 worth of jewelry, several hundred pills and more than a dozen hypodermic needles from the Lyndi J. Dickstein residence, 813B Old McHenry Rd., Wheeling police said Tuesday.

Police said the burglars ripped a rear gate off its hinges, broke a screen and knocked off a board that covered a broken window to enter the building. Included in the stolen jewelry were four watches, four rings, a bracelet and two necklaces.

Help finance service

Ambulance-call fee favored by trustees

by TONI GINETTI

A majority of Hoffman Estates trustees favor charging for ambulance service.

Four of the village's six trustees say they would support a proposed $30 charge for ambulance calls to help fund the cost of providing ambulance and paramedic service.

Only Trustee Ralph Lyster said Wednesday he had not decided if he would vote for the proposal.

"I haven't made up my mind," Lyster said. "In one sense I feel it's a service we're providing just like fire protection, and yet nobody is required to pay for it now.

"I would rather not charge if we don't have to."

THE FEE WAS discussed Tuesday during a finance committee meeting. Two trustees, Jeanne Pavey and William Cowin, said they favor the plan.

Trustees William Palmer and Melvin Timmons said Wednesday they also would back the proposal if it comes to the village board.

Trustee Bruce Lind could not be reached Wednesday.

"I am in favor of it," Timmons said. "I don't think our rate for the fire department contemplated ambulance and paramedic services to the extent that we offer them now."

"We don't have the funds to keep operating them," Timmons added. "From the figures I have seen, it (ambulance service) is not self-sufficient right now."

Palmer said the fee would be justifiable because most medical insurance policies pay the cost of ambulance service.

"I believe most insurance companies will pay for this kind of service," Palmer said. "I think they give some kind of reimbursement for that. In an instance like that where a person can't easily send a bill to his insurance company, it seems fair. It could be a way of recouping some of the cost," Palmer said. "I think it has some validity."

IN 1973 THE HOFFMAN Estates Fire Protection District began a program seeking a $30 donation from ambulance users. The program came about after the defeat of a 1973 referendum to charge residents 25 cents per $100 of assessed valuation for ambulance service.

Village Mgr. George Longmeyer asked trustees to review the policy after the annexation of the fire district by the village Dec. 30.

Mrs. Pavey and Cowin said the policy would be an acceptable way to support the cost of ambulance service.

"I believe government should provide services," Cowin said, "but I also believe we have some responsibilities."

Mrs. Pavey said she thought most residents would be willing to pay the fee because they want paramedic service.

ACCORDING TO FIGURES cited Tuesday, the fire district had 1,006 ambulance calls in 1974, but collected only $4,000 in fees instead of $30,000 it could have collected if the fee were mandatory.

The village apparently could charge the fee, Village Atty. Edward Hofert said, if it is used to pay the difference between the cost of the service and the amount of tax funds raised for the fire department.

"I would presume that the (tax) levy is such that it does not fully pay for the service," Hofert said. "Needless to say, you could not collect twice for the same service."

The tax rate for fire service in the village is about 58 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Hofert said the village, under home-rule powers, could authorize a tax increase for the service without referendum approval.

Trustees did not speculate on a tax-rate increase as an alternative to the fee, but Lyster said, "I know definitely that next year we will have to increase the tax rate for the village," even if an ambulance tax is not levied.

$78,000 aid for mental health urged

A Schaumburg Township Board committee has recommended allotting about $78,000 in federal revenue-sharing funds to the Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center.

The mental-health center request was among four approved Tuesday night by the township revenue-sharing committee. All recommendations must be considered by the full board.

The committee approved $89,000 as the township's share of the mental health center's budget, and $9,000 for operation of the center's new day-care facility on Landmeier Road in Elk Grove Village.

The committee also approved $28,000 for a Metropolitan Chicago Big Brother-Big Sister program for the township. It would be the first program in the area to incorporate female participation into the traditionally male organization.

THE PROGRAM would arrange companionship between adult volunteers and parentless children. Township officials have said there appeared to be a need in the community because of the growing number of children without one or both parents. The money would be spent for office space, equipment and a full-time social worker.

The committee also recommended $1,600 for rental of an additional office for township youth services and $2,500 for hiring of a new youth worker.

The office would be across the hall from the present youth services room in the Buttery, 105 S. Roselle Rd. It would be used as a group-counseling room and is needed because of a

by United Press International

The government Wednesday said a major economic indicator rose substantially in April, providing more evidence that recovery from the recession is near. But prices rose higher last month and take-home pay declined.

Economists were cheered, however, by a surprising increase of 9.8 per cent in durable goods orders. It was the sharpest increase since a 10.2 per cent surge in December, 1967.

Orders for durable goods — products made to last a relatively long period of time — are closely watched by economists for trends in industrial production.

"When it rises on the order of the magnitude it apparently did in April, it is a virtual certainty that recovery is just around the corner," said Irwin Kellner of Manufacturers Hanover Trust.

James L. Pate, the Commerce Department's chief economist, said the sharp increase "supports the conclusion that the industrial sector of the economy is poised for recovery."

Commerce said the increase in durable goods orders to $38.98 billion in April from $35.49 billion in March was widespread throughout the economy.

An increase in orders of durable goods, which declined in six of the past seven months, was necessary before industry would increase production scheduled and employment.

Earlier Wednesday, the Labor Department reported that consumer prices rose 0.6 per cent in April, the largest increase since January but still substantially lower than the double-digit annual inflation rate of a year ago.

The increase in inflation was due primarily to a 0.4 per cent rise in grocery prices after a two-month decline. Food prices are 8 per cent higher than they were in April, 1974.

Nonfood prices, the department said, rose 0.8 per cent in April to a level 11 per cent above a year ago.

The report listed these rises in retail prices over the past 12 months: cereal and bakery products, 17 per

U.S. MARINE DIVERS searched Back Lake near Des Plaines for the body of a 24-year-old Marine that has been missing in the water since Monday. The search was called off Wednesday after recovery efforts proved fruitless. The missing Marine is William Kottke of Washington, who reportedly fell out of a canoe in which he was riding with several friends. He apparently was unable to swim. A Coast Guard helicopter also was used in Wednesday's search, which was called off because of bad weather.

Water's magnetic death grip Why do we drown?

by STEVE FORSYTH

Drowning is a terrifying way to die, but local officials feel almost powerless to stop the deaths that occur in their communities every year.

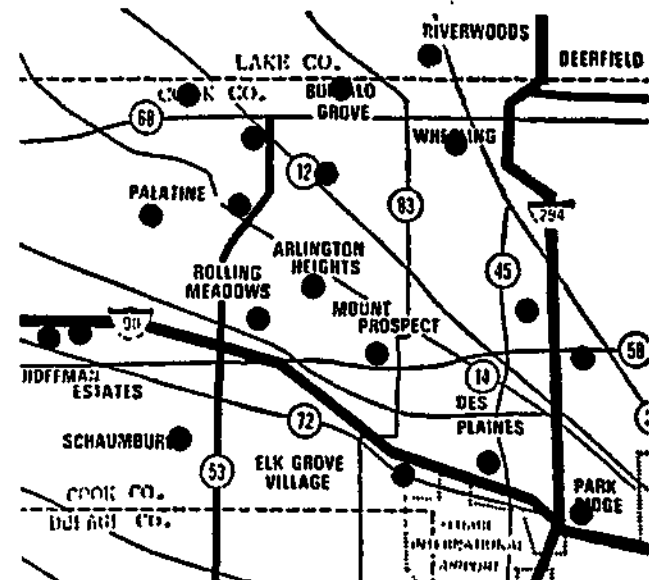

Water has a certain magnetism for persons of all ages — particularly children and teenagers — and local ponds, lakes and ditches continue to take their toll on suburban residents. Police say they would have to use 24-hour patrols to keep people out of dangerous bodies of water.

Although some drowning victims found in the Northwest suburbs in the past three years were swimming at the time of their accidents, most were on rafts or boats or had slipped off the banks. Lt. Don Reynolds of the Mount Prospect Fire Dept. says statistics show that most people who drown do not intend to be in the water.

At least 27 persons have drowned in the Northwest suburban area since 1972 under a wide range of circumstances. Two men have drowned in swimming pools and a baby drowned in a bathtub, but the rest have died in the area's open rivers, ditches, lakes and retention ponds.

SEVEN PERSONS have died in the past two weeks in this area. Some victims could swim, but were unable to save themselves. Allen Hyman, volunteer water safety chairman for the north

Here are the 'danger' spots...

There are dozens of ponds in the area that police officials say are hazardous although many already are fenced with signs warning of the danger. Many of them were constructed by developers to help prevent flooding. Park districts have taken over jurisdiction of some and others are privately owned. The majority of these areas are unsu-

Divers recover body of latest victim, 10

Scuba divers Wednesday morning recovered the body of Jeffrey Super, 10, who fell from a homemade raft into Willow Bend Pond, Algonquin Road and Barker Avenue, Rolling Meadows.

Jeffrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lou Super, 4000 Eagle Ln., Rolling Meadows, apparently slipped into the water from a homemade raft he had been riding Tuesday night with a 9-year-old neighbor girl. The children were about 30 feet from shore in water estimated at 20 feet deep, when Jeffrey slipped, police said. His companion and another girl who had been watching from shore ran to a nearby home to call police at about 8 p.m.

A search began Tuesday night but fire department divers were unable to locate the body, and the search was abandoned late Tuesday.

Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty said divers returned to the pond before 9 a.m. Wednesday and located the body in water about 10 feet deep. Aiding in the search were 11 divers from the Mutual Aid Box Alarm System, three from Rolling Meadows and others from Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Buffalo Grove, Schaumburg and Glenview Rural departments.

A RAFT BROUGHT tragedy for Jeffrey Super, 10, of Rolling Meadows, who slipped from its boards and drowned Tuesday in a pond near his home.

Madam Mayor gets a car—like it or no

Sorry, Madam President, you don't get your motorbike.

It appears Hoffman Estates Pres. Virginia Hayter will get a mid-size car instead according to the wishes of the village board.

Mrs. Hayter told trustees she didn't need a car to conduct her village duties, but the trustees said she should have a vehicle because she cannot be provided with a travel allowance.

She suggested a motorbike, but the finance committee Tuesday decided to price mid-size cars. Compact cars were ruled out, too, because, as Trustee William Cowin put it, it might not suit the image of a village president to be driving the smallest car available.

Bond issue raises legal question

Alexian asked to change charter

by JILL BETTNER
Elk Grove Village officials have requested changes in the charter of Alexian Brothers Medical Center to ensure the proposed $23 million municipal bond sale for the hospital does not violate constitutional requirements for the separation of church and state.

Questions have been raised by the American Civil Liberties Union and others about the legality of issuing village bonds for a religious institution. The medical center is operated by Alexian Brothers of America, a Catholic order.

Village Atty. Edward Hofert said under the home rule provisions of the 1970 Illinois constitution, the village can sell the bonds without referendum because the hospital is a not-for-profit institution. However, there must be a clear distinction in the hospital's charter between its religious and medical services, he said.

HOFERT SAID while he has not seen the medical center's charter, he anticipated that the constitutional question might come up.

Hofert said he asked hospital officials to make necessary changes in the bylaws after the bond sale was approved by the Elk Grove Village board last week.

"I have been told that all changes will be made to satisfy cases and precedents in the law," Hofert said, referring to similar instances when the Illinois Health Facilities Authority has issued state bonds for religious institutions.

Hofert said the village must operate under the same guidelines as the authority in issuing the bonds for Alexian Brothers.

"We have the power to act, but we cannot act in such a way as to violate the state or federal constitution or in a manner that would violate the civil rights of any person," Hofert said. "We have requested the changes in the charter because if our name is being lent to anything in any way, shape or form, we want to be sure all persons have equal rights to the facilities."

PAUL HAMLIN, director of the Illinois division of the ACLU, said he has "serious reservations about the legality of a municipality turning over $23 million to a private hospital." Hamlin said the ACLU is looking into the bond sale, but has not determined a course of action.

"The ACLU's main concern, Hamlin said, is that public bonds will be used to finance a medical center that does not perform abortions for religious reasons.

THE VILLAGE has not agreed to give the medical center public tax monies, but rather to allow the hospital to use its municipal bonding authority to refinance an old debt and complete an expansion program. The bonds will be paid off with operating revenues of the hospital.

A spokesman for the medical center said the hospital does not perform abortions because of a policy set by the Catholic Hospitals Assn.

Other hospitals in the Northwest suburbs, including Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, do not perform nontherapeutic abortions. Northwest Community received assistance from the Village of Arlington Heights on a bond sale last year. The hospital is not affiliated with any religious organization.

Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, is the only hospital in the area that performs nontherapeutic abortions allowed only in the first trimester of pregnancy.

Palanois Park unit objects to gas plant

by JOANN VAN WYE

The Palanois Park Community Assn. of Palatine has filed an objection with the U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration opposing the proposed Rolling Meadows location of an experimental plant to convert garbage to methane gas.

The letter asks that the Rolling Meadows site, just south of the subdivision, Rolling Road and Northwest Highway, be dropped from consideration for a federal contract to build the $5 million garbage-treatment plant.

"The proposed site is very close to the 400 homes which make up this residential subdivision. Methane gas is highly explosive and despite safety features built into the design of the experimental plant, there is always the potential for the unexpected. We, the board, do not feel this chance should be taken near any residential area," Ted Becker, president of the Palanois Park Community Assn., said in the letter to federal officials.

Other objections outlined in the letter include:

- Only Mayor Roland J. Meyer and not the entire city council has committed the 6.7-acre city-owned parcel for the plant.

- Insufficient hearings have been held on the proposed garbage-treatment plant and many questions remain unanswered. These include safety and health hazards, how the garbage will be processed, use of the methane gas and noxious odors.

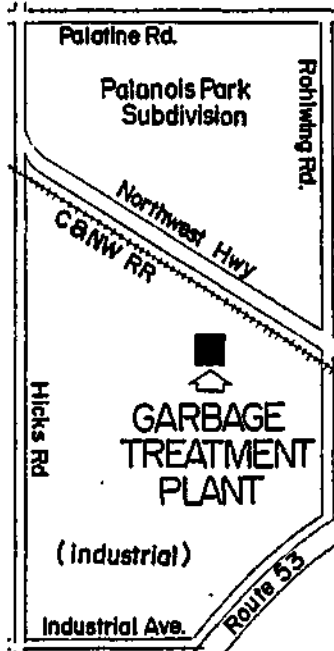

"We are not against the building of an experimental bio-gas plant but feel it should not be built near any residential areas," Becker said.

GEORGE MacPHERSON, senior contract administrator with the U.S. Energy Research and Development Authority, however, said the letters objecting to the Rolling Meadows site are premature and would not have a bearing on the awarding of the federal contract by his department.

"We're going to judge it on the basis of which proposal best meets the criteria of the federal government. The chance is one out of 20 (Rolling Meadows will be selected)," MacPherson said.

He said there have been 20 applications for the federal contract including the University of California at Berkeley, Disneyworld, University of Illinois, Pennsylvania State University and several private companies in addition to the one submitted by the Institute of Gas Technology for the Rolling Meadows site.

MacPherson said the time for letter campaigns and petitions would be if Rolling Meadows is selected as the site. Even if Rolling Meadows is not selected, the Institute of Gas Technology has indicated it will seek money from private sources to build the plant in Rolling Meadows or in Chicago.

The federal contract will be awarded by June 7, MacPherson said.

THE PALANOIS PARK Community Assn. has planned a general membership meeting at 8 p.m. June 3 at Christ Lutheran Church, 41 S. Rolling Rd. The proposed garbage-treatment plant and action already taken by the group's board of directors will be discussed.

Water's magnetic death grip

Why do we drown?

BY STEVE FORSYTH

Drowning is a terrifying way to die, but local officials feel almost powerless to stop the deaths that occur in their communities every year.

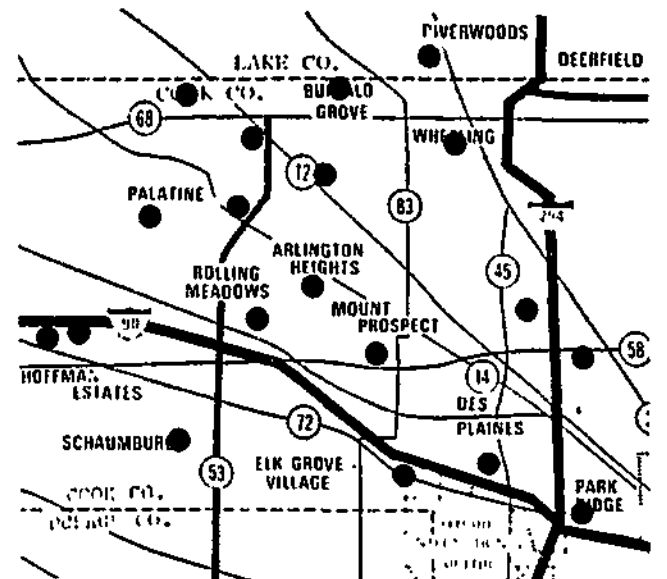

Water has a certain magnetism for persons of all ages — particularly children and teenagers — and local ponds, lakes and ditches continue to take their toll on suburban residents. Police say they would have to use 24-hour patrols to keep people out of dangerous bodies of water.

Although some drowning victims found in the Northwest suburbs in the past three years were swimming at the time of their accidents, most were on rafts or boats or had slipped off the banks. Lt. Don Reynolds of the Mount Prospect Fire Dept. says statistics show that most people who drown do not intend to be in the water.

At least 27 persons have drowned in the Northwest suburban area since 1972 under a wide range of circumstances. Two men have drowned in swimming pools and a baby drowned in a bathtub, but the rest have died in the area's open rivers, ditches, lakes and retention ponds.

SEVEN PERSONS have died in the past two weeks in this area. Some victims could swim, but were unable to save themselves. Allen Hyman, volunteer water safety chairman for the north re-

Zoning panel urged to study plan for cafes

Appointment of a special zoning commission has been recommended to explore a proposal for two restaurants for Rolling Meadows.

Representatives of Pizza Hut and Long John Silver restaurants presented plans this week to the city council's public works, building and zoning committee.

The restaurants are proposed for joint use of a site on the southwest corner of Euclid Avenue and Plum Grove Road. The property is in Palatine Township, and is zoned for a service station.

G. S. Berrafato of Real Estate Development Co. of America, Morton Grove, said the restaurants each would occupy half the site, and would share a driveway. The lot is 190 by 200 feet.

The Pizza Hut would request a liquor license for beer and wine, but would not have a bar and would not sell liquor to persons who did not also order food, said Charles Misfeldt, representative of the chain. The restaurant would be company-owned and operated, and would be open for lunch and until 11 p.m. or 1 a.m., Misfeldt said.

The Long John Silver restaurant would not need a liquor license, said Charles Vawter, representative of the franchise company. Long John Silver restaurants have limited menus, specializing in fish dishes, and it would not compete with the Pizza Hut, Vawter said.

Berrafato said he has discussed a preemption agreement with City Atty. Donald M. Rose

by United Press International

The government Wednesday said a major economic indicator rose substantially in April, providing more evidence that recovery from the recession is near. But prices rose higher last month and take-home pay declined.

Economists were cheered, however, by a surprising increase of 0.8 per cent in durable goods orders. It was the sharpest increase since a 10.2 per cent surge in December, 1967.

Orders for durable goods — products made to last a relatively long period of time — are closely watched by economists for trends in industrial production.

"When it rises on the order of the magnitude it apparently did in April, it is a virtual certainty that recovery is just around the corner," said Irwin Kellner of Manufacturers Hanover Trust.

James L. Pate, the Commerce Department's chief economist, said the sharp increase "supports the conclusion that the industrial sector of the economy is poised for recovery."

Commerce said the increase in durable goods orders to $38.98 billion in April from $35.49 billion in March was widespread throughout the economy.

An increase in orders of durable goods, which declined in six of the past seven months, was necessary before industry would increase production scheduled and employment.

Earlier Wednesday, the Labor Department reported that consumer prices rose 0.6 per cent in April, the largest increase since January but still substantially lower than the double-digit annual inflation rate of a year ago.

The increase in inflation was due primarily to a 0.4 per cent rise in grocery prices after a two-month decline. Food prices are 8 per cent higher than they were in April, 1974.

Nonfood prices, the department said, rose 0.8 per cent in April to a level 11 per cent above a year ago.

The report listed these rises in retail prices over the past 12 months: cereal and bakery products, 17 per

Divers recover body of latest victim, 10

Scuba divers Wednesday morning recovered the body of Jeffrey Super, 10, who fell from a homemade raft into Willow Bend Pond, Algonquin Road and Barker Avenue, Rolling Meadows.

Jeffrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lou Super, 4000 Eagle Ln., Rolling Meadows, apparently slipped into the water from a homemade raft he had been riding Tuesday night with a 9-year-old neighbor girl. The children were about 30 feet from shore in water estimated at 20 feet deep, when Jeffrey slipped, police said. His companion and another girl who had been watching from shore ran to a nearby home to call police at about 8 p.m.

A search began Tuesday night but fire department divers were unable to locate the body, and the search was abandoned late Tuesday.

Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty said divers returned to the pond before 9 a.m. Wednesday and located the body in water about 10 feet deep. Aiding in the search were 11 divers from the Mutual Aid Box Alarm System, three from Rolling Meadows and others from Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Buffalo Grove, Schaumburg and Glenview Rural departments.

A RAFT BROUGHT tragedy for Jeffrey Super, 10, of Rolling Meadows, who slipped from its boards and drowned Tuesday in a pond near his home.

Arlington OKs office zoning for Ald. Huddleston

The Arlington Heights Village Board has approved office zoning for land on Central Road near New Wilke Road, owned by a Rolling Meadows alderman.

the village completed a study of the area.

In September 1974 Huddleston's request was further delayed because of a lawsuit between the village and another property owner in the area of Northwest Community Hospital. Village Atty. Jack Siegel said in April of this year, however, it was unfair to postpone consideration of the property any longer because of the lawsuit.

The plan commission voted approval of Huddleston's plans for the two-story office building last month.

The village board concurred in the request despite the opinion of some trustees that the property should remain zoned for houses. Those favoring the residential zoning said the proposed $1 million golf course being planned by the Arlington Heights Park District across Central Road at the Nike Base site would make it a prime residential area.

Huddleston said the office building should be completed by the end of next summer and ready for occupancy.

Bids sought for bus for elderly

The Palatine Township Council on the Aged will accept bids June 2 for a senior citizens minibus.

The council received a $5,984 grant from the Suburban Cook County Council on the Aged which must be used in the purchase of a bus by June 30, said Louise Robertson, director of the Palatine Senior Citizens Center. The township board of auditors plans to allocate federal revenue-sharing funds to pay for the balance of the cost of the bus which is expected to be $6,000 to $9,000, she said.

The council on the aged plans to purchase a 14-passenger bus that will provide weekday transportation to senior citizens in the township.

THE COUNCIL leases a minibus from the Davidmeyer Bus Co., Elk Grove Village, and provides bus service for 25 cents Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays for five hours each day on a reservation basis.

The township's allocation of $25,000 to the council this year will cover the operating costs of the new bus, said Roger Bollinger, a member of the council.

The council is not sure where the new bus will be housed although it could be kept at the township's highway department garage, he said. The township may have its own bus in service within several months depending on how quickly the bus can be delivered by the chosen bus company, Bollinger said.

The bids will be reviewed by the council on the aged which will make a recommendation on the bids to the

and Elliott Manint has been appointed to gather more information about the experimental plant. "It's totally unbelievable they (Rolling Meadows) will even consider this I don't care what they call it, it's a gas plant," Quist said. Quist, who headed the fight against the proposed incinerator on the property last year, said the new proposal is far worse.

"Rolling Meadows has bought a piece of property to put their garbage are determined to put their garbage on it," Quist said.

PETITIONS WILL BE circulated at the meeting objecting to the proposed location of the plant and seeking the Village of Palatine's support. The petitions will be presented to the board June 9. The support of the citizens' council of the Palatine Advisory Board and Willow Creek homeowners also is being sought.

Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones has indicated the village probably would sue to block the construction of the plant.

Letters also are being sent to U.S. Senators Charles Percy and Adlai Stevenson and U.S. Rep. M. Philip Crane, R-12th, seeking their support in objecting to the Rolling Meadows site.

Mental health plan for adults to start soon

The Elk Grove-Schaumburg Township's Mental Health Center will begin accepting patients next week in a new program for emotionally disturbed adults.

The program of intensive day treatment will include formal group therapy sessions as well as informal "work therapy" in activities at a farmhouse on Landmeier Road, Elk Grove Village.

As a "therapeutic community," patients and therapists will decorate the farmhouse, fix lunch each day and possibly care for a small vegetable garden.

Sessions will be from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday and from 12:30 to 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

DORIS LEFLEY, program director, said the length of time a patient participates in treatment each day will depend on his needs. It is expected, however, that most patients will be in the program about 30 days, she said.

Patients, who must be at least 14 and residents of Elk Grove or Schaumburg township, will be screened by members of the day treatment program and mental health center staffs. Fees will be established on a sliding scale according to each person's ability to pay.

Persons who think the program would be beneficial to them or someone in their family may apply by contacting the mental health center, 593-6690. The mental health center is in "The Farmhouse" in front of Alexian Brothers Medical Center on Blesterfield Road, Elk Grove Village.

Palanois Park unit objects to gas plant

by JOANN VAN WYE

The Palanois Park Community Assn. of Palatine has filed an objection with the U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration opposing the proposed Rolling Meadows location of an experimental plant to convert garbage to methane gas.

The letter asks that the Rolling Meadows site, just south of the subdivision, Rolling Road and Northwest Highway, be dropped from consideration for a federal contract to build the $5 million garbage-treatment plant.

"The proposed site is very close to the 400 homes which make up this residential subdivision. Methane gas is highly explosive and despite safety features built into the design of the experimental plant, there is always the potential for the unexpected. We, the board, do not feel this chance should be taken near any residential area," Ted Becker, president of the Palanois Park Community Assn., said in the letter to federal officials.

Other objections outlined in the letter include:

- Only Mayor Roland J. Meyer and not the entire city council has committed the 6.7-acre city-owned parcel for the plant.

- Insufficient hearings have been held on the proposed garbage-treatment plant and many questions remain unanswered. These include safety and health hazards, how the garbage will be processed, use of the methane gas and noxious odors.

"We are not against the building of an experimental bio-gas plant but feel it should not be built near any residential areas," Becker said.

GEORGE MacPHERSON, senior contract administrator with the U.S. Energy Research and Development Authority, however, said the letters objecting to the Rolling Meadows site are premature and would not have a bearing on the awarding of the federal contract by his department.

"We're going to judge it on the basis of which proposal best meets the criteria of the federal government. The chance is one out of 20 (Rolling Meadows will be selected)," MacPherson said.

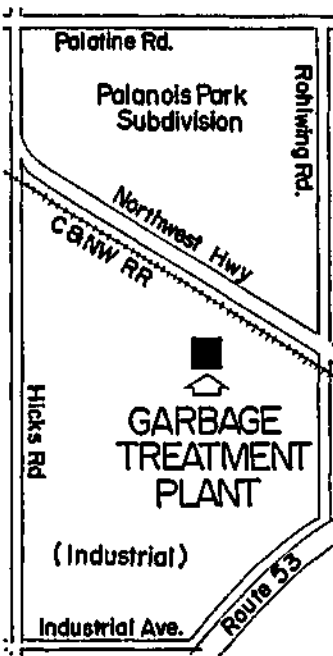

He said there have been 20 applications for the federal contract including the University of California at Berkeley, Disneyworld, University of Illinois, Pennsylvania State University and several private companies in addition to the one submitted by the Institute of Gas Technology for the Rolling Meadows site.

MacPherson said the time for letter campaigns and petitions would be if Rolling Meadows is selected as the site. Even if Rolling Meadows is not selected, the Institute of Gas Technology has indicated it will seek money from private sources to build the plant in Rolling Meadows or in Chicago.

The federal contract will be awarded by June 7, MacPherson said.

THE PALANOIS PARK Community Assn. has planned a general membership meeting at 8 p.m. June 3 at Christ Lutheran Church, 41 S. Rolling Rd. The proposed garbage-treatment plant and action already taken by the group's board of directors will be discussed.

A committee headed by Hal Quist and Elliott Manint has been appointed to gather more information about the experimental plant. "It's totally unbelievable they (Rolling Meadows) will even consider this I don't care what they call it, it's a gas plant," Quist said. Quist, who headed the fight against the proposed incinerator on the property last year, said the new proposal is far worse.

"Rolling Meadows has bought a piece of property to put their garbage are determined to put their garbage on it," Quist said.

KO expected for Quentin Rd. nursing home

A proposal for a 300-bed nursing home at 1011 S. Quentin Road is expected to be denied by the Palatine Village Board.

A special-use permit granted in 1973 for construction of the home expires May 27 and owners of the property have requested a one-year extension for the permit. Funding has not been available for the construction, causing a delay, Palatine officials say.

The planning, building and zoning committee of the village board has voted unanimously to recommend denial of an extension of the special-use permit. Steven Lenet, planning and zoning administrator, also has recommended denial.

Metropolitan Enforcement Group agents arrested a 32-year-old Palatine Township man and a 27-year-old Texas woman Tuesday for possession of 120 pounds of marijuana, police said.

Arturo Cordova of Palatine Township and Josefina Mercado of Mission, Tex., were arrested at Cordova's home, 14 E. Dundee Rd. They are being held in lieu of $50,000 bond and will appear June 9 in the Skokie branch of Circuit Court.

MEG director John Hinchey, said the street value of the marijuana seized is $50,000. He predicted that the arrest will lead to other arrests in the area.

The arrest Tuesday was a cooperative effort among MEG, the Federal Drug Enforcement Administration and Palatine police. The agencies have been investigating marijuana shipments to the area from Mexico, Hinchey said.

Hearing set to zone land for restaurant

The County Zoning Board will conduct the hearing at 3 p.m. at the Slade Street Fire Station, 117 W. Slade St.

The vacant property is zoned for single-family houses and is bordered by several commercial developments.

Phillip Reifman, attorney for the property owners, said the McDonald's Corp. has agreed to purchase the property subject to the zoning change.

The Palatine Plan Commission Tuesday denied a petition from George Anderson to subdivide a 3.5-acre site at Michigan Avenue and Smith Street.

The commission will recommend the village board deny the petition to construct nine single family houses on the property because all but one of the lots is on flood plain, officials said. The village has an ordinance that prohibits all construction on flood plain.

The nursing home was planned on five acres in southwest Palatine. The property is bordered on three sides by the undeveloped site of the Plum Grove Hills residential and commercial development. West of the property is Fremd High School and the Hunting Ridge subdivision.

The village's master plan calls for a nursing home on the site, but Lenet agreed that a nursing home and high school are usually not compatible land uses. He said nursing homes belong in an area where there are parks, convenient shopping areas, churches and transportation.

If the property is not developed as a nursing home, Lenet said it might become part of the proposed Plum Grove Hills project and be developed with single-family houses.

He said he also opposed the extension because the owners indicated they had financing for the nursing home available when they were originally granted the special-use permit.

When the nursing home was first approved several residents and officials questioned the need for another nursing home in the area.

Petitions on 1-way streets moot: village

Petitions opposing designation of Main and Emerson as one-way streets in downtown Mount Prospect were presented to village officials this week, although the proposal already has been ruled out.

The petitions, signed by more than 1,850 persons, oppose converting Main to a southbound street and Emerson to a northbound street, as suggested in a preliminary village comprehensive plan.

The chairman of the comprehensive plan committee, James P. Grier Jr., said Wednesday, however, the one-way traffic pattern was never seriously considered and said the planning commission deleted the suggestion from the proposed plan earlier this month when it learned of the opposition.

"Rather than having poor ladies walking around the neighborhood with petitions, we just deleted it," Grier said.

LARRY TURNER, who presented the petitions to the board, said the one-way proposal would make Mount Prospect into "a small Chicago."

The one-way proposal was among suggestions that included lowering the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks through the center of the village and extending Busse Road north from Central Road to Northwest Highway.

"When we made our initial presentation of the comprehensive village plan, it was made crystal clear at least eight times that this was all hypothetical, possible but not probable," Grier said. "It was presented to board members with the idea that they could take what they wanted from it and discard the rest."

The downtown redevelopment commission will study the proposed comprehensive plan tonight, paying particular attention to the proposals that would affect the downtown area.

The commission already has rejected a proposal that would move Main Street east to Maple Street to relieve traffic in the center of the village. "The primary consideration was cost," said Robert Bennett, commission chairman.

The downtown commission will meet at 8 p.m. in the village hall, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.

Begins June 2

Free weekday seniors bus service to begin

Wheeling Township senior citizens will be eligible for free weekday bus service beginning June 2.

The Wheeling Township Board has authorized $18,000 in federal revenue-sharing money for the transportation service for persons older than 60 on a six-month trial basis, Jane Klatt, social services director, said Wednesday.

The center plans to lease a minibus from the Suburban Shuttle System, Rolling Meadows, for $1,500 a month. The fee will cover the cost of a driver, maintenance and insurance, Mrs. Klatt said. About $150 a month is expected to be spent for gasoline and oil.

THE BUS WILL operate on fixed routes Mondays and Wednesdays. Residents will be taken to shopping centers, the Wheeling Township office and downtown sections of area towns as well as Hershey High School, where a reduced-cost lunch program is offered to seniors every Wednesday.

The bus will use a reservations system for scheduling Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. Senior citizens will be required to call the township office at 239-7733 at least 24 hours in advance to reserve a ride. The bus will pick them up at their homes and take them anywhere in the township, then return them home, Mrs. Klatt said.

The bus will run weekdays between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The new bus service is expected to provide transportation for 7,000 senior citizens in Wheeling Township, "who do not have inexpensive transportation available to them," Mrs. Klatt said.

THE BUS, with a capacity of 15, also will be used for township outings suggested by senior citizens, Mrs. Klatt said.

"This bus system has been in the works for more than a year and we feel that it will provide the most transportation for the largest number of senior citizens," Mrs. Klatt said.

"If this bus program works out, we may decide to buy our own bus. But the program will be under evaluation during the next six months to decide what will be done," she said.

Mrs. Klatt said riders will be required to obtain a picture identification card.

"This will be to make sure that the people riding the bus are senior citizens over 60 because, after all, this is who the service is being provided for," she said.

Latest U.S. economy word — recession's grip weaker

by United Press International

The government Wednesday said a major economic indicator rose substantially in April, providing more evidence that recovery from the recession is near. But prices rose higher last month and take-home pay declined.

Economists were cheered, however, by a surprising increase of 9.8 per cent in durable goods orders. It was the sharpest increase since a 10.2 per cent surge in December, 1967.

Orders for durable goods — products made to last a relatively long period of time — are closely watched by economists for trends in industrial production.

"When it rises on the order of the magnitude it apparently did in April, it is a virtual certainty that recovery is just around the corner," said Irwin Kellner of Manufacturers Hanover Trust.

James L. Pate, the Commerce Department's chief economist, said the sharp increase "supports the conclusion that the industrial sector of the economy is poised for recovery."

Commerce said the increase in durable goods orders to $38.96 billion in April from $35.49 billion in March was widespread throughout the economy.

An increase in orders of durable goods, which declined in six of the past seven months, was necessary before industry would increase production scheduled and employment.

Earlier Wednesday, the Labor Department reported that consumer prices rose 0.6 per cent in April, the largest increase since January but still substantially lower than the double-digit annual inflation rate of a year ago.

The increase in inflation was due primarily to a 0.4 per cent rise in grocery prices after a two-month decline. Food prices are 8 per cent higher than they were in April, 1974.

Nonfood prices, the department said, rose 0.8 per cent in April to level 11 per cent above a year ago.

The report listed these rises in retail prices over the past 12 months: cereal and bakery products, 17 per

U.S. MARINE DIVERS searched Back Lake near Des Plaines for the body of a 24-year-old Marine that has been missing in the water since Monday. The search was called off Wednesday after recovery efforts proved fruitless. The missing Marine is William Kovtke of Washington, who reportedly fell out of a canoe in which he was riding with several friends. He apparently was unable to swim. A Coast Guard helicopter also was used in Wednesday's search, which was called off because of bad weather.

Water's magnetic death grip

Why do we drown?

by STEVE FORSYTH

Drowning is a terrifying way to die, but local officials feel almost powerless to stop the deaths that occur in their communities every year.

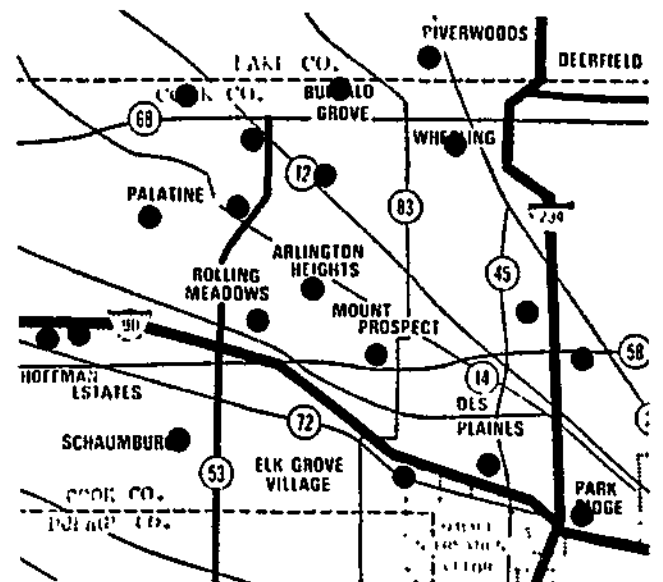

Water has a certain magnetism for persons of all ages — particularly children and teenagers — and local ponds, lakes and ditches continue to take their toll on suburban residents. Police say they would have to use 24-hour patrols to keep people out of dangerous bodies of water.

Although some drowning victims found in the Northwest suburbs in the past three years were swimming at the time of their accidents, most were on rafts or boats or had slipped off the banks. Lt. Don Reynolds of the Mount Prospect Fire Dept. says statistics show that most people who drown do not intend to be in the water.

At least 27 persons have drowned in the Northwest suburban area since 1972 under a wide range of circumstances. Two men have drowned in swimming pools and a baby drowned in a bathtub, but the rest have died in the area's open rivers, ditches, lakes and retention ponds.

SEVEN PERSONS have died in the past two weeks in this area. Some victims could swim, but were unable to save themselves. Allen Hyman, volunteer water safety chairman for the north re-

DOTS ON THE MAP show 19 sites in the Northwest suburbs where drownings and near-drownings have occurred in the last three years. Seven persons have drowned in the last two weeks, including one Palatine Township man who died in a Lake Michigan boating accident.

Here are the 'danger' spots...

There are dozens of ponds in the area that police officials say are hazardous although many already are fenced with signs warning of the danger. Many of them were constructed

by developers to help prevent flooding. Park districts have taken over jurisdiction of some and others are privately owned. The majority of these areas are unsafe. (Continued on Page 2)

Divers recover body of latest victim, 10

Suba divers Wednesday morning recovered the body of Jeffrey Super, 10, who fell from a homemade raft into Willow Bend Pond, Algonquin Road and Barker Avenue, Rolling Meadows.

Jeffrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lou Super, 4000 Eagle Ln., Rolling Meadows, apparently slipped into the water from a homemade raft he had been riding Tuesday night with a 9-year-old neighbor girl. The children were about 30 feet from shore in water estimated at 20 feet deep, when Jeffrey slipped, police said. His companion and another girl who had been watching from shore ran to a nearby home to call police at about 8 p.m.

A search began Tuesday night but fire department divers were unable to locate the body, and the search was abandoned late Tuesday.

Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty said divers returned to the pond before 9 a.m. Wednesday and located the body in water about 10 feet deep. Aiding in the search were 11 divers from the Mutual Aid Box Alarm System, three from Rolling Meadows and others from Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Buffalo Grove, Schaumburg and Glenview Rural departments.

A RAFT BROUGHT tragedy for Jeffrey Super, 10, of Rolling Meadows, who slipped from its boards and drowned Tuesday in a pond near his home.

Rhea, Floros guard privacy

2 trustees refuse to tell income

by LYNN ASINOF
Two Mount Prospect trustees have refused to disclose their 1974 income-tax returns as requested by Mayor Robert D. Telchert.

Doh Trustees Edward B. Rhea Jr. and Leo Floros said they will not make public their 1974 earnings because it would be an invasion of privacy.

Telchert called for the disclosure as part of a new openness policy outlined this month in his state-of-the-village address. He said such action would ease public mistrust of elected officials.

"I just don't feel that a part-time public official should be expected to disclose this type of information," Floros said. "It certainly is not required. I see no reason why I should have to sacrifice this privacy."

RHEA, HOWEVER, said he will file his 1974 return with the village clerk, but will limit its inspection to the elected officials, village manager and village attorney.

Edward Rhea Jr.

Leo Floros

"I will file it so that it is there and if anything ever comes up the village attorney is more than welcome to look at it," Rhea said. He said such a step is intended to provide some disclosure while protecting his privacy.

Rhea said practically all of his 1974 income came from wages from his employer, with less than 1 per cent coming from interest or dividends. He said there were no real estate transactions and said his sale and purchase of stock during 1974 resulted in a net loss.

"If any citizen or if any newspaper has a specific question about any of my finances, if they suspect anything untoward, I will be happy to deal with them," Rhea said, further modifying his disclosure.

Floros previously said he would disclose his 1974 earnings only if local newspapers declined to print the information. He said he felt the information would become gossip if freely distributed through the newspapers.

"THIS IS SOMETHING the mayor chose to do on his own and I applaud him for it," Floros said. "I hope that people will be understanding."

Noting that he was not in office in 1974, Floros said he might change his mind next year because his income-tax returns would indicate his position while a trustee. "It could be I would reveal my situation a year from now," he said.

Two other trustees and the mayor already have made public disclosures. Telchert and Trustee E. F. Richardson have filed their 1974 tax returns while Trustee Richard N. Hendricks has filed his 1973 tax return.

Trustee Michael H. Minton said he will file his return as soon as it is prepared, noting he was granted an extension. Trustee Theodore J. Waltenberg was unavailable for comment.

REPORT CARDS in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 differ by schools. The district has provided a form that some schools use with modifications. A new idea for grading has been suggested by a district administrator.

Each school does its own thing...

No two schools in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 seem to have the same report-card system.

Two years ago, the district allowed each school to develop its own grading procedure. Most schools came up with their current systems on the recommendation of committees that included parents, teachers and the principal.

Some, like Brentwood School in Des Plaines, used the district's standard form as a base. The standard form for elementary schools includes the basic subject areas with major skills listed beneath.

THIS FORM can be used to mark the traditional grade, which usually compares a student to his peers, or with notations that show if a student is improving, working at his own level or is not performing to the best of his ability.

Claude Crase, Brentwood principal, said the school uses the standard form but supplements it with teacher comments. Brentwood teachers note the progress of a student according to the student's abilities. Crase also puts a comment to the student on each report.

Other schools, like Juliette Low School in Arlington Heights, and Frost School in Mount Prospect, have developed their own forms and methods of grading students.

Juliette Low has different grading systems for primary students and intermediate students. Primary students receive a written report from the teacher while intermediate students have a more structured report.

FROST LISTS skills students are supposed to learn in each subject area. Beside each skill teachers comment on how the student is progressing. There are no letter grades or notations beside the skills that compare students to each other, said Principal Judd Thompson.

Principals contacted said they believe they have not received many negative comments because parents were involved in the development of the grading system.

But as Crase said, "we're always looking for better ways."

by JUDY JOBBITT

An alternative grading system for Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 schools is being proposed by Erwin Stevenson, assistant superintendent for instruction.

His proposal would give parents more information about how their children are achieving compared with other students and would also show if children are working up to their abilities, Stevenson said.

Although the district has a standard report card for elementary and junior high schools, each school is allowed to set up its own grading system. Some use a letter-grade report card while others provide a written report from teachers.

STEVENSON SAID all the schools have different forms and he doesn't like any of the grading systems he is familiar with in the district. No one in the district coordinates any of the grading systems, he said.

"What we don't know is what everybody is doing," said Stevenson. "We need to know what is being done."

He said his system would be a compromise between the graded system and the teacher comments. The report would tell parents what major skills students have mastered, what skills most of the students in the class have achieved and what is being done either to challenge the advanced student or help the slow learner. The alternative grading system would not be imposed districtwide but would give schools one more option, he said.

Stevenson said too often parents cannot understand what is being done in school or what their children have accomplished. When parents have conferences with teachers, he said the conference often fails because parents don't know what questions to ask.

THROUGH HIS system, he said parents would receive more information in order to either ask the right questions, or be able to help their youngsters more at home. Part of his proposal also would be to hold parent workshops to teach them how to work with their youngsters on the various skills.

He said the system also would help teachers know what a new student has done successfully in the past and what has failed with a student. The teachers also would know what skills have been mastered by each student so they know where to begin in the fall.

The school system could be held more accountable for what is being done for each child "to develop to their fullest potential. I think we need to better deal with the two extremes," of advanced and slow learners, he said. "This could help make sure students don't get lost in the system."

Stevenson also said the reporting system would indirectly hold the teacher accountable. "What we don't know now is what everybody is doing. We need to know what is being done."

Stevenson will present his proposal at the school community council meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Holmes Junior High School, 1900 W. Lounquist Blvd., Mount Prospect. He wants to get parents' opinions about his proposal before putting it into a final form.

IRISH REBELLION drama is re-created by Hersey High School students in "Little Moon of Alban," playing Friday and Saturday at the school, 1900 E. Thomas St.,

River Trails schools face budget deficit

by MARILYN McDONALD
River Trails Dist. 26 is facing a "significant deficit" in the coming school year, said the chairman of the board of education budget committee.

"It's not down the road or around the corner. It's here," William Haase told the board Tuesday night.

Budget committee members have held four meetings to prepare the 1975-76 budget. They expect to have a tentative budget to present to the board in July, Haase said.

HAASE WOULD not comment on the amount of the anticipated deficit, but board members recently approved a deficit of about $60,000 to finance salaries for additional elementary teachers and a teacher of gifted students for next year. This deficit would be increased if the district grants teacher salary increases, purchases new equipment or increases expenditures in any way.

Haase said the imminent deficit is the result of limited funds and expensive commitments.

"The root of the deficit is twofold. We have reached the limit of our revenue sources, which is pretty clear cut," Haase said. "Secondly, because most of your expenses are tied up in salaries and support for the educational programs, you really have to cut or modify programs to modify expenditures," he said.

Board members took one step in that direction by trimming the junior high French program earlier this month. The program was cut by one full-time teacher to one full-time and one part-time teacher despite parent and teacher protests.

HAASE POINTED out that the central administration was trimmed, eliminating the position of assistant superintendent. The science and math consultant's job was eliminated as well.

"If there's to be a meaningful hindsight, we did not take a hard line a year or two ago when the money was there and we didn't hold the line on teachers' salaries," he said.

"But we said that since we have the money now, we'll reduce class size and offer a maximum pay increase to teachers because we believe our teachers should be paid well. I can't apologize for that," Haase added.

trict bellydancing class. Classes are available for beginners and intermediate levels at the Lions Park Recreation Center, 411 S. Maple St., Mount Prospect.

Custodians seek union recognition

Custodians in River Trails Dist. 26 are seeking recognition of their newly organized River Trails Custodial and Maintenance Assn., an affiliate of the Illinois Education Assn.

Frank Verding, spokesman for the group and custodian at River Trails Junior High School, 1000 Wolf Rd., Mount Prospect, spoke to the Dist. 26 Board of Education Tuesday and said that 14 of the district's 18 custodians have joined the three-week-old group. They hope to use collective bargaining to get higher salaries and fringe benefits from the district, Verding said.

Verding said the association was formed after an impromptu survey of custodians in nine neighboring school districts showed that Dist. 26 custodians receive up to $900 less per year in salary. "We're the lowest-paid custodians in the area," Verding said.

DIST. 26 custodians also would like the ability to select custodial jobs on the basis of seniority and an increase in holiday time, Verding said.

DIST. 26 custodians now work a 40-hour week, on a shift basis. They receive two weeks of vacation after one year, three weeks after six years, and four weeks after 15 years, Verding said. They also receive 10 days sick leave and two personal days per year, which they may accumulate up to 150 days. Custodians also are covered by a hospital and major medical insurance policy, Verding said.

Under the present system, custodians receive a letter from the district each May, making a salary and benefit offer for the following year. "It's either accept it or get out," he said.

Verding said the custodians would like to negotiate a contract for next year "as soon as possible."

BOARD PRES. Michael Sheyker said he was aware that custodians were thinking of organizing.

"All we want to do is find out who they are and go through the formal steps. We haven't recognized anyone yet," he said.

Verding said the custodians will deliver written information to the board for its consideration. The board and association will then set a date to meet and discuss recognition of the custodial organization.

DIST. 26 custodians now join those in Des Plaines Dist. 62 as affiliates of an IEA organization. Custodians in High School Dist. 214, Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15, Prospect Heights Dist. 23, and Arlington Heights Dist. 25 are members of the Service Employees International Union, Local 11, AFL-CIO.

Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 custodians belong to a local group, Custodial and Maintenance Employees Organization (CAMEO). Custodians in Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 (High School Dist. 207) and Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 are not organized.

Exception to 'no-local-code' policy

City building permits sought for post office

U.S. Postal Service officials, who refused to take out building permits for a post office in Mount Prospect because they said it was not necessary have applied for building permits for their Des Plaines office.

Des Plaines officials indicated that the Postal Service applied for a permit for the $2.6 million post office being built at Oakton Street and Executive Way.

The permit prepared by the Des Plaines Building Dept. shows that $600 is being charged for a plans examination. A spokesman for the department said the examination and fee cover the entire project.

VITO ABAZORIS, manager of the Postal Service's design and engineering department, said, however, he believes the inspection will cover only the water and sewer system.

"We do not obtain permits for anything other than service that comes in from the outside such as water and sewer," he said.

Postal authorities have said it is a national policy not to apply for local building permits, but indicated that the Postal Service follows building codes when they do not cause "undue harm." Mount Prospect officials have gone to court to halt construction of a post office at Elmhurst Avenue and Central Road because the postal service refused to take out local building permits.

Mayor Robert D. Teichert has indicated he does not expect the village to win its fight. A hearing is scheduled in Circuit Court June 4.

Wheeling Township senior citizens will be eligible for free weekday bus service beginning June 2.

The Wheeling Township Board has authorized $18,000 in federal revenue-sharing money for the transportation service for persons older than 60 on a six-month trial basis, Jane Klatt, social services director, said Wednesday.

The center plans to lease a minibus from the Suburban Shuttle System, Rolling Meadows, for $1,500 a month. The fee will cover the cost of a driver, maintenance and insurance, Mrs. Klatt said. About $150 a month is expected to be spent for gasoline and oil.

THE BUS WILL operate on fixed routes Mondays and Wednesdays. Residents will be taken to shopping centers, the Wheeling Township office and downtown sections of area towns as well as Hersey High School, where a reduced-cost lunch program is offered to seniors every Wednesday.

The bus will use a reservations system for scheduling Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. Senior citizens will be required to call the township office at 259-7733 at least 24 hours in advance to reserve a ride. The bus will pick them up at their homes and take them anywhere in the township, then return them home, Mrs. Klatt said.

The bus will run weekdays between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The new bus service is expected to provide transportation for 7,000 senior citizens in Wheeling Township, "who do not have inexpensive transportation available to them," Mrs. Klatt said.

THE BUS, with a capacity of 45, also will be used for township outings suggested by senior citizens, Mrs. Klatt said.

"This bus system has been in the works for more than a year and we feel that it will provide the most transportation for the largest number of senior citizens," Mrs. Klatt said.

"If this bus program works out, we may decide to buy our own bus. But the program will be under evaluation during the next six months to decide what will be done," she said.

Mrs. Klatt said riders will be required to obtain a picture-identification card.

"This will be to make sure that the people riding the bus are senior citizens over 60 because, after all, this is who the service is being provided for," she said.

More funding for the elderly?

The Arlington Heights Senior Citizens Commission will seek increased village funding for senior citizens projects, John Gianopoulos, commission chairman, said Wednesday.

Commission members will meet with village board members June 3 to discuss the role of the commission, Gianopoulos said. "We feel like we are spinning our wheels. We feel we need some direction and guidelines from the new board," he said.

Earlier this year, the village board turned down the commission's request for a $64,000 budget, including funds to hire a full time program coordinator. The board did approve $24,000 for the commission to continue its program of reduced-fare taxi rides.

"The board created the commission and delegated certain responsibilities and duties, which we feel we carried out. Unfortunately, the board has not seen fit to adopt any action programs other than transportation assistance," he said.

Gianopoulos said the commission would like to know the board's "philosophical commitment to senior citizens and what they see as the role of the advisory commission."

"I think we have a very sympathetic and cooperative board to deal with," he said.

The board will meet with commission members at 8 p.m. June 3 at the village hall.

Trustees approve hose, painting bids

The Arlington Heights Village Board has approved awarding of bids for firehoses and the painting of a reservoir tank.

The Michael Dalton Co., Barrington, was awarded a contract for 2,400 feet of firehose at a cost of $6,250. They were the low bidders.

Neuman and Co., Oak Lawn, won the painting contract for the 1-million-gallon reservoir at 2300 N. Arlington Heights Rd. The firm submitted the low bid of $6,000.

Montesano elected Jaycees president

Nick Montesano has been elected president of the Arlington Heights Jaycees.

Other 1975 officers are: Robert Braasch, state director; Richard Paxton, vice president; Tony Polenzani, ways and means vice president; Bruce Jacobsen, executive vice president, and Gary Welch, assistant to the president.

Also elected were Gary Gwidt, treasurer; Bruce Jancovic, secretary, and Richard Rench, Donald Semro and William Voorhies, directors.

Latest U.S. economy word — recession's grip weaker

by United Press International

The government Wednesday said a major economic indicator rose substantially in April, providing more evidence that recovery from the recession is near. But prices rose higher last month and take-home pay declined.

Economists were cheered, however, by a surprising increase of 9.8 per cent in durable goods orders. It was the sharpest increase since a 10.2 per cent surge in December, 1967.

Orders for durable goods — products made to last a relatively long period of time — are closely watched by economists for trends in industrial production.

"When it rises on the order of the magnitude it apparently did in April, it is a virtual certainty that recovery

University of Chicago economist forecasts turnaround. Section 4, Page 8.

Is just around the corner," said Irwin Kellner of Manufacturers Hanover Trust.

James L. Pate, the Commerce Department's chief economist, said the sharp increase "supports the conclusion that the industrial sector of the economy is poised for recovery."

Commerce said the increase in durable goods orders to $38.66 billion in April from $35.49 billion in March was widespread throughout the economy.

An increase in orders of durable goods, which declined in six of the past seven months, was necessary before industry would increase production scheduled and employment.

Earlier Wednesday, the Labor Department reported that consumer prices rose 0.8 per cent in April, the largest increase since January but still substantially lower than the double-digit annual inflation rate of a year ago.

The increase in inflation was due primarily to a 0.4 per cent rise in grocery prices after a two-month decline. Food prices are 8 per cent higher than they were in April, 1974.

Nonfood prices, the department said, rose 0.8 per cent in April to a level 11 per cent above a year ago.

The report listed these rises in retail prices over the past 12 months: cereal and bakery products, 17 per

U.S. MARINE DIVERS searched Beck Lake near Des Plaines for the body of a 24-year-old Marine that has been missing in the water since Monday. The search was called off Wednesday after recovery efforts proved fruitless. The missing Marine is William Koffke of Washington, who reportedly fell out of a canoe in which he was riding with several friends. He apparently was unable to swim. A Coast Guard helicopter also was used in Wednesday's search, which was called off because of bad weather.

Water's magnetic death grip

Why do we drown?

by STEVE FORSYTH

Drowning is a terrifying way to die, but local officials feel almost powerless to stop the deaths that occur in their communities every year.

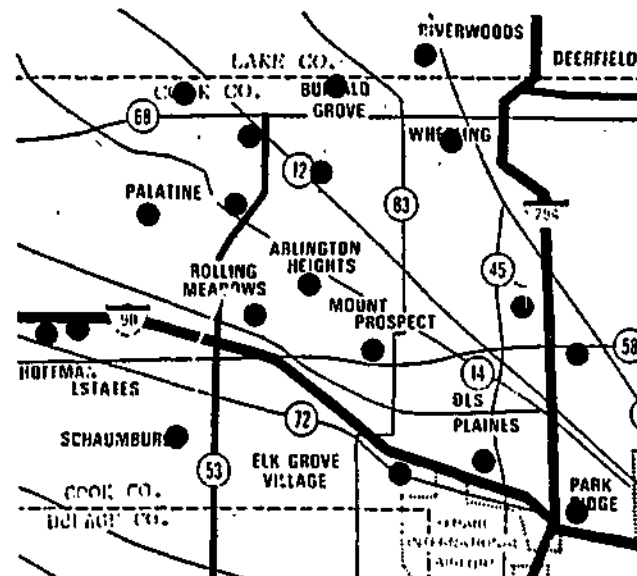

Water has a certain magnetism for persons of all ages — particularly children and teenagers — and local ponds, lakes and ditches continue to take their toll on suburban residents. Police say they would have to use 24-hour patrols to keep people out of dangerous bodies of water.

Although some drowning victims found in the Northwest suburbs in the past three years were swimming at the time of their accidents, most were on rafts or boats or had slipped off the banks. Lt. Don Reynolds of the Mount Prospect Fire Dept. says statistics show that most people who drown do not intend to be in the water.

At least 27 persons have drowned in the Northwest suburban area since 1972 under a wide range of circumstances. Two men have drowned in swimming pools and a baby drowned in a bathtub, but the rest have died in the area's open rivers, ditches, lakes and retention ponds.

SEVEN PERSONS have died in the past two weeks in this area. Some victims could swim, but were unable to save themselves. Allen Hyman, volunteer water safety chairman for the north re-

DOTS ON THE MAP show 19 sites in the Northwest suburbs where drownings and near-drownings have occurred in the last three years. Seven persons have drowned in the last two weeks, including one Palatine Township man who died in a Lake Michigan boating accident.

Here are the 'danger' spots...

There are dozens of ponds in the area that police officials say are hazardous although many already are fenced with signs warning of the danger. Many of them were constructed

by developers to help prevent flooding. Park districts have taken over jurisdiction of some and others are privately owned. The majority of these areas are unsafe. (Continued on Page 2)

Divers recover body of latest victim, 10

Scuba divers Wednesday morning recovered the body of Jeffrey Super, 10, who fell from a homemade raft into Willow Bend Pond, Algonquin Road and Barker Avenue, Rolling Meadows.

Jeffrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lou Super, 4000 Eagle Ln., Rolling Meadows, apparently slipped into the water from a homemade raft he had been riding Tuesday night with a 9-year-old neighbor girl. The children were about 30 feet from shore in water estimated at 20 feet deep, when Jeffrey slipped, police said. His companion and another girl who had been watching from shore ran to a nearby home to call police at about 8 p.m.

A search began Tuesday night but fire department divers were unable to locate the body, and the search was abandoned late Tuesday.

Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty said divers returned to the pond before 9 a.m. Wednesday and located the body in water about 10 feet deep. Aiding in the search were 11 divers from the Mutual Aid Box Alarm System, three from Rolling Meadows and others from Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Buffalo Grove, Schaumburg and Glenview Rural departments.

A RAFT BROUGHT tragedy for Jeffrey Super, 10, of Rolling Meadows, who slipped from its boards and drowned Tuesday in a pond near his home.

Parks to use money for garage

Bids sought on $537,000 in bonds

The Arlington Heights Park District is seeking bids on $537,000 worth of general-obligation bonds approved in the March 1 referendum.

Money from the bond sale will be used to finance construction of an equipment storage garage at Frontier Park, 1033 N. Kennicott Dr., and to complete deferred maintenance projects at 22 parks.

The bonds are expected to add $1.69 to the tax bill on a house with a $10,000 equalized assessed valuation.

A maximum bond interest rate of 7 per cent has been established by the park district. Bids will be opened and the bonds sold at the park board's meeting June 3. Interest on municipal bonds is tax exempt.

THOMAS THORNTON, director of parks and recreation, said Wednesday that the equipment garage, expected to cost about $200,000, will be built this summer, and that most of the maintenance work at the various parks also would be completed this season.

Of 39 planned maintenance projects, 18 involve resurfacing walks, parking areas or play yards, and 17 are for the replacement of worn or damaged play equipment.

Some money will be used to relocate a ball diamond, repair a backstop and a tennis fence, and for minor landscaping projects.

After the bonds are sold, the Arlington Heights Park District will have a combined debt of $3.25 million. Its total assessed valuation is nearly $290 million.

Most of the bonds will be sold in $5,000 denominations, however, some will be issued in $1,000 denominations. They will be paid off from 1977 through 1987.

AN ADVERTISEMENT inviting bids on the bond issue appeared in Wednesday's edition of The Wall Street Journal.

On March 1 voters also approved two park district tax-rate increases which, when combined, will add $9.50 to the tax bill on a house with a $10,000 assessed valuation.

Thornton said the high tax rates will be used later this year when the park board passes its annual tax levy ordinance.

In total, the $537,000 bond sale and the higher park district tax rates will increase an average Arlington Heights homeowner's total yearly tax bill by about $11.19, or 1.5 per cent.

Office zoning OKd near Central Rd.

The Arlington Heights Village Board has approved office zoning for land on Central Road near New Wilke Road, owned by a Rolling Meadows alderman.

James A. Huddleston, 4th Ward Alderman, asked for the zoning change for the property, from single-family in January 1974. Consideration of rezoning request was first delayed while the village completed a study of the area.

In September 1974 Huddleston's request was further delayed because of a lawsuit between the village and another property owner in the area of Northwest Community Hospital. Village Atty. Jack Siegel said in April of this year, however, it was unfair to postpone consideration of the property any longer because of the lawsuit.

The plan-commission voted approval of Huddleston's plans for the two-story office building last month.

The village board concurred in the request despite the opinion of some trustees that the property should remain zoned for houses. Those favoring the residential zoning said the proposed $1 million golf course being planned by the Arlington Heights Park District across Central Road at the Nike Base site would make it a prime residential area.

Huddleston said the office building should be completed by the end of next summer and ready for occupancy.

Lawn care lecture topic

Home lawn care will be the topic of a lecture at 8 p.m. Thursday, May 29 in the Dunton Room of the Arlington Heights Memorial Library, 500 N. Dunton Ave.

The program will include instruction on proper lawn care and the causes and cures of common grass diseases. Admission is free and open to the public.

Painters subject of film at library

Films on American painters Norman Rockwell and Peter Hurd will be shown at 8 p.m. June 2 in the Dunton Room of the Arlington Heights Memorial Library, 500 N. Dunton Ave.

The films — "Norman Rockwell's World" and "Painters of America: Peter Hurd" — are the last in a series. Admission is free and open to the public.

Borg-Warner gets sign-code variance

Borg-Warner Education Systems was granted a variance in the village sign code to allow an additional sign on the building.

A second sign was needed for identification of the building by delivery trucks, said William Raymond, general manager. The sign, a small nonilluminated one, would be placed in the same location of one belonging to the previous tenants of the building, 600 W. University Dr., in the northern industrial park.

No Garbage Service Monday

Memorial Day is a holiday for our men, one of 6 during the year on which, per our contract, no garbage service is provided and no credit given.

Therefore, the next pick-up for Monday-Thursday customers after Thursday, May 22 will be on Thursday, May 29.

As most residents know, we equalize the 6 holiday-service omissions among our 3 routes, so that no route receives more than 2 during the normal year. For example, even though Labor Day and Thanksgiving are Monday and Thursday holidays, these routes will not receive another holiday-service omission this year until Christmas Day.

Thank you for your cooperation.
